Graf Drops Mail to Atlantic Islands.

BULLETIN.

RIO DE JANEIRO, May 21.—(AP)—The position of the dirigible Graf Zeppelin, bound for Pernambuco, at 1 a. m. Greenwich mean time Thursday (8 p. m. Chicago daylight saving time Wednesday) was given in a message received here as latitude 8:30 north, longitude 26:30 west, or about 400 miles northeast of St. Paul's rock.

An earlier message, sent by Dr. Eckener to the National Telegraph company, said the Graf was making "little speed against strong winds, but all is well."

ABOARD THE GRAF ZEPPELIN OVER THE ATLANTIC, 7:30 P. M. Ship's Time [3:30 P. M. Chicago Time], May 21.—Dropping the mail from the air at Porto Praia, on Sao Thiago island, Cape Verde, about 1 o'clock ship's time, was an exciting experience. All the hundreds of Negroes of Porto Praia were on hand, and the Zeppelin's passengers joined in the excitement. We obtained our first aerial pictures of the wild and lonely lighthouse ocean islands.

The ship is now proceeding with clocklike regularity, each hour taking her exactly one degree southward. She will cross the equatorial line Thursday morning, landing at Pernambuco probably on Thursday evening.

We sighted the first brown desert of the volcanic Cape Verde islands at 1:30 p. m. [9:30 a. m. Chicago time].

Passengers Well and Happy.

So far the Zeppelin has traveled over the ocean without any rocking or jarring. The passengers are perfectly happy over the cool and calm voyage. The weather continues good, but slightly foggy. The speed is 60 miles an hour.

The Graf passed over Teneriff, Canary islands, without being noticed from below, at 3 o'clock this morning. Shortly after this the S. S. Carnarvon Castle was sighted, fully illuminated. A wireless from the commander of the big liner expressed admiration for the night beauty of the Graf.

The weather at this point was very hot, and a favorable trade wind has been found at last.

Running Short of Water.

PERNAMBUCO, Brazil, May 21.—(AP)—The Zeppelin, steadily nearing the South American coast on her adventurous voyage to the new world, tonight had passed the Cape Verde islands and was heading across the South Atlantic for this port.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, the Graf's veteran commander, notified the landing field here that the airship would halt at Pernambuco to take on water before proceeding to Rio de Janeiro. The Zeppelin encountered contrary winds for many hours, which, together with the tropical heat, caused a water shortage. The passengers have been able to have only a sponge bath of salt water.

Plans Three Hour Stay.

At least a three hour stay will be made here to replenish the water supply. There is a mooring mast here, erected especially for the Graf.

City and state officials in Pernambuco are planning a series of entertainments for the Graf's passengers during her stay here at the end of the week, after she has visited Rio de Janeiro.

The progress of the Graf today was not unusually fast, but was steady and news of her was received from many sources.

R-100 Poised for Ocean Hop.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 21.—London had a wonderful view of the dirigible R-100 tonight. Leaving its base at Cardington shortly after 7 o'clock, the big ship reached the metropolis one hour later. It flew low over the city for some time, accompanied by six airplanes, cruising and looping the loop. King George and Queen Mary were just entering the Covent Garden Opera house as the airship sailed overhead. The R-100 dipped its nose in salute and then disappeared to the east.

The dirigible was taken out of its hangar at Cardington this morning and tied up at the mooring mast to await good weather for its flight to Canada. As soon as the Atlantic skies clear the ship will take off.

THE PRISONER ON TRIAL

ROBBERS SLAY WAITER IN CAFE ON SOUTH SIDE

George Garedakis, 38 years old, 13551 Brandon avenue, a waiter, was shot to death in the Busy Bee restaurant at 5506 South State street early this morning, supposedly by three Negro robbers who escaped with the contents of the restaurant's cash drawer. Garedakis' body was found in a rear room by Police Sergeant Patrick Brown after an anonymous telephone call had been received at the Wabash avenue station saying that a man had been killed in the restaurant by three Negroes who fled afoot.

The police were unable to find any witnesses to the shooting and started a search for the owner of the restaurant. The amount of the robbers' loot could not be determined.

FLAMES SWEEP WOOD SHOP OF NICKEL PLATE

Fire early this morning attacked the wood shop in the yards of the Nickel Plate railroad at 93d street and Blackstone avenue and spread rapidly through the one story brick structure. The flames were visible as far east as the lake.

The wood shop is not far from the Blackstone avenue offices and engine house of the railroad, and firemen summoned by a 3-11 alarm threw water against these buildings in an effort to prevent the spread of the blaze. The origin of the fire was undetermined.

Air Site Over Tracks Sought for Postoffice

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 21.—[Special.]—Indications today were that Chicago's new postoffice will be erected as an air rights building directly west and adjacent to the Van Buren street parcel post building near the Union station.

If arrangements can be perfected for purchasing this new site, the $14,000,000 postoffice building will be constructed over the railroad tracks on the block bounded by the parcel post building, and Van Buren, Harrison, and Canal streets.

The parcel post station, now leased by the government, would be purchased under the present postoffice department plan and incorporated as a part of the main structure.

Approval to Be Asked.

Treasury officials disclosed today that the budget bureau will be asked this week to approve legislation permitting the government to purchase a new postoffice site and to dispose of the old one—the block bounded by Canal, Harrison, Clinton and Polk streets. The plans call for a building ten stories high, approximately 800 feet long and 345 feet wide. It would front on Van Buren street. Government officials say a way could be found to prevent the blocking of Congress street.

The present plan, as outlined today, is to obtain the authorization for a change in sites at this session of congress, although a final decision as to just where the federal building be located may not be made for another two or three weeks.

Railroads' Price Not Obtained.

The postoffice department favors the Van Buren parcel post station site, but thus far final figures have not been obtained from the railroads setting forth their selling price for the air rights property. It still would be possible to erect the new postoffice on the old site or on the site bounded by Clinton, the extension of Congress, Van Buren street and the parcel post station even if the new legislation is procured.

While not committing himself on the question of where the new postoffice will be located, John W. Philp, fourth assistant postmaster general, said today that the new postal administration policy calls for the erection of all large postoffices built in the future either over or directly adjacent to railroad tracks. He stated that important savings could be made both in the time it takes to handle Chicago's mail and in the cost of handling mail at Chicago if the postoffice is erected over the tracks near the parcel post station.

"It was this new policy," Mr. Philp said today, "that resulted in the restudy of the postal situation at Chicago. This policy is not determined exclusively in the interests of the postoffice department because of the financial savings. A postoffice built over the railroads permits much faster handling of the mail.

"The postal administration feels it would be very unfair to business interests of Chicago if it failed to provide the fastest possible handling of mail for that community."

FLEEING BANDIT IS STOPPED BY A WELL AIMED ROCK

New York, May 21.—[Special.]—A bandit today entered Max Schulman's drug store and robbed the owner of $50 while two pals waited outside. When the robber emerged from the store he discovered that his accomplices had decamped.

The gunman leaped on the running board of a passing car, ordering the driver to "step on it." He pulled his gun and threatened to shoot him.

James Fleming, a pedestrian, observed the approaching car with the bandit pointing his gun at the driver. Picking up a stone, Fleming threw it with a sure aim, and the bandit, struck in the back of the head, dropped the gun and fell to the street. He was a prisoner in a hospital cot when he recovered consciousness.

COL. CARLISLE'S TRUNKS HELD ON CUSTOMS CHARGE

New York, May 21.—[Special.]—Col. Charles A. Carlisle, millionaire manufacturer of South Bend, Ind., and former director of the Studebaker company, was detained with Mrs. Carlisle and eight members of their family at the French line piers today while customs men checked over their fifty-three pieces of luggage.

The Carlisles returned from Europe aboard the French liner Paris. After a preliminary examination the inspectors charged that at least $3,000 worth of personal effects, mostly clothing, had not been declared.

The matter of the undeclared articles will be taken up at a hearing before an assistant solicitor of customs tomorrow. It is understood that most of the articles declared not listed were clothes which had been worn. Apparently, it was said, the failure to declare these resulted from a misunderstanding of the regulations.

Married Anna Studebaker.

PINCHOT BEATS VARE ENTRY IN PENNSYLVANIA

Faces '3d Party Wet' for Governorship.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 21.—[Special.]—Former Gov. Gifford Pinchot, for the second time in his stormy political career, has routed the forces of the Vare organization in a party primary and won the Republican gubernatorial nomination by 10,000 to 15,000 majority, on the basis of nearly complete unofficial returns from yesterday's election.

The result is a complete reversal of figures which last night indicated a victory for Francis Shunk Brown, the Vare candidate. Late returns, chiefly from outside the cities, gave Mr. Pinchot the winning margin.

On the other hand, Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, the Vare senatorial candidate, has been returned victor in decisive fashion and every one of the remaining candidates on the Vare state-wide slate has been nominated.

History Repeats Itself.

It was history repeating itself in the governorship fight. In 1922 Mr. Pinchot, running independent of the organization but with the backing of Joseph R. Grundy, defeated George E. Alter by 9,000 votes for the gubernatorial nomination and was elected chief executive of the state the following November.

Now, eight years later, the Pike county forester, defeated by William S. Vare himself in a torrid senatorial battle in the meantime, has returned, with the support of Mr. Grundy, to sweep through sixty of the 67 counties to another victory.

Senator Grundy himself lost the senatorial nomination to Secretary Davis by a plurality that may rest around the 250,000 mark. Francis H. Bohlen, their wet opponent, rolled up an unexpectedly large vote over the state at large.

Wets Make Showing.

The remarkable showing of the wet ticket, which cut deeply into the regular organization's vote, was largely responsible for the defeat of Brown. In one of the most unusual demonstrations in the state's political history, Mr. Pinchot cut slowly into the big lead of 130,000 votes rolled up by Mr. Brown in Philadelphia, finally wiped it out altogether with his upstate plurality, and continued building up a margin of victory for himself.

With only 212 of the state's 8,701 precincts missing the returns on the governorship fight, as compiled by The Associated Press, were:

In the senatorial contest returns from 8,589 of the 8,701 precinct gave: Davis, 715,139; Grundy, 476,279; Bohlen, 333,877.

Won't Admit Defeat.

This plurality of some 10,000 votes for Mr. Pinchot was expected by his supporters to continue climbing to reach 15,000 or more in the complete returns.

Bernard J. Myers, manager of the Davis-Brown campaign, refused to admit defeat for Mr. Brown. He de-

Fear Loss of Life on French Red Sea Boat

LONDON, May 22.—[Thursday.]—(AP)—Lloyd's received a message this morning from Port Sudan, Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, saying that the French steamer Asia was afire with 1,500 pilgrims aboard.

"We fear some loss of life," the message added. It said that the pilgrims, bound for Red sea ports, embarked yesterday and that the fire began at 8 o'clock last night. Port Sudan relayed the message from Jeddah, a port on the Arabian side of the Red sea.

Political Row in Britain May Upset Cabinet

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, May 21.—The continuance of the British Labor government's long period of apparent security suddenly was threatened today by attacks or warnings of attacks from three different angles.

The most significant of these is from within the Labor ranks of the house of commons. This threat was foreshadowed last night by the resignation of Sir Oswald Mosley from the MacDonald cabinet. It reached a critical stage today and may develop into a serious party rupture tomorrow.

Lloyd George's Ultimatum.

On top of this trouble the Liberal leader, David Lloyd George, has delivered an ultimatum to Mr. MacDonald to the effect that if the government does not give early assurance of electoral reform legislation its support by Liberal members of the house of commons will cease. So far that support has been vital to the government, enabling it to defy the Conservative wing of the opposition and its own rebels on nearly every major issue.

Although there is no formal alliance between Labor and the Liberals, their policies on international matters have been practically the same and Mr. Lloyd George has refrained from attacking the government on most domestic issues in the hope that he would be rewarded by a ballot reform act which would give his party representation in parliament more closely proportionate to the total Liberal vote.

Naval Pact Faces Investigation.

The third threat is from the big navy group of Conservative backbenchers who want to kill the naval treaty, contrary to the desire and judgment of their own party leader, former Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin. But they forced him today to consent to introduce a motion in the house of commons for the appointment of a committee to investigate the naval treaty.

Associated with Mr. Baldwin in sponsoring the motion are Sir Austen Chamberlain, former foreign minister, and Winston Churchill, former chancellor of the exchequer. Their motion is "that a select committee be appointed to examine and report upon the proposals contained in the international treaty for the limitation and reduction of naval armament and the committee have the power to send for persons, papers, and records."

It is not likely that such a motion will pass, for, despite their other grievances, the Liberals and Labor extremists all strongly favor the naval treaty and there is not unanimity among the Conservatives against it.

ILLINOIS SENATE VOTES 38-8 FOR HIS PROPOSAL

Battle Scene Shifts Now to House.

BY PARKE BROWN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 21.—[Special.]—By a vote of 38 to 8 the senate this afternoon adopted the resolution for the revision of the revenue article of the state constitution, which would give the general assembly unrestricted power to pass any form of tax legislation by majority vote.

Two-thirds, or thirty-four votes, were required for the action. The thirty-eight consisted of the thirty downstaters and eight Cook county senators. It also included six "lame ducks," three of them from Chicago. Without the Cook county votes or without the lame ducks the resolution would have failed. The eight Cook county members who voted for the resolution included seven Republican and one Democratic senator, the latter a lame duck, beaten for renomination last month for the assembly.

Fight Goes to House.

The fight now goes to the house of representatives, where it is expected it will be pressed by Gov. L. L. Emmerson by the same methods he today was charged with using in the senate. But the fight in the lower house is expected to be stiffer, because the Cook county delegation there voted in conference this morning to oppose consideration of the amendment proposal until the Strawn bills for the relief of Cook county and Chicago local governments have gone through the house and are on final reading in the senate.

Cook Amendments Lose.

The final roll call in the senate came after several successive efforts to attach to the projected amendment some form of protection for Cook county, which for years has been refused the representation in the assembly to which it is entitled under the constitution. One of them was a provision forbidding the levying of an income tax until the state is reapportioned. Another limited the state's share of income tax receipts to 10 per cent except by two-thirds vote. Another would have provided for uniform taxation and kept real estate in one class.

There also was an attempt made to force the postponement of action until next week. This and the proposed amendments to the amendment were voted down by the downstate majority with some help from Cook county, including votes from Senators Barbour, Leonardo, and Marks on one test or another.

Eight from Cook County.

James J. Barbour [Rep.], Sixth district.

John T. Denvir [Dem.], Nineteenth district.

John T. Joyce [Rep.], Twenty-ninth district.

James B. Leonardo [Rep.], Seventeenth district.

Adolph Marks [Rep.], First district.

Theodore R. Steinert [Rep.], Twenty-fifth district.

After battling for the reapportionment amendment, which he introduced, Senator Arthur A. Huebsch [Rep.] of the Seventh district recorded himself as present but not voting. He said he could not vote against the proposed change in the constitution which was drawn by a commission of which he was chairman and that he could not vote for it unless it provided for a representative assembly.

Before the vote was taken it became known that among the visitors to Gov. Emmerson's office during the debate were B. W. Snow, chairman of the Cook county Republican central committee, and George F. Harding, county treasurer and a close political associate.

Crowe Also Calls.

They had been preceded twenty-four hours by Robert E. Crowe, former state's attorney, and his friend, Joseph P. Savage, who is said to be a candidate for attorney of the west park board, a position under Gov. Emmerson's control. Both Crowe and Savage are members of the county committee.

All four left on an afternoon train and no statement was obtained from them concerning the purpose of their visits or any bearing their presence may have had on the positions taken by senators allied with the Cook county organization. It was reported that the attitude of the organization may be made known at a dinner for county candidates to be held in Chicago tomorrow night.

There also was considerable comment upon the fact that both yesterday and today Gov. Emmerson sent messengers to call various Cook county senators to his office and that the number included some of those who supported the constitutional change. His secretary, (Jack) Abbey, and a member of his cabinet, Barney Cohen, director of labor, were in the senate chamber frequently.

There was joy among the Democrats, who asserted that the state administration and the Republican majority had effected the adoption of the resolution. They said it gave them campaign material for use next fall second only to the proposition issue.

"As much as I, as a representative of the people, regret to see this resolution adopted," said Senator Thomas J. Courtney [Dem.], "from the political standpoint there is rejoicing in my heart when this issue is presented to the voters. Coupled with the attitude of the Republican administration at Washington and with Republican 'prosperity,' the prospects for the Democrats in this state are bright. The people will vote down this amendment and vote against the Republicans who forced it through here."

House Has Hearing.

The resolution occupied the attention of the senate during the entire day. On the house side the time was occupied by a public hearing on a bill to permit the purchaser of land for an artillery range at a price of about $150 an acre instead of $100 an acre, as fixed by an appropriation bill for $600,000 voted at the regular session last year. No action was taken upon twelve more Strawn bills introduced in both houses.

The day opened with two conferences on the constitutional amendment. On the house side there was an open meeting to which all representatives and senators from Cook county were summoned. On the senate side there was a secret meeting of the downstaters. But before the two had been in session long Senator Barbour of Evanston was called from the house meeting and sat in with the downstaters and representatives of the agricultural association who have demanded an income tax law for years. It was learned that Senator Leonardo was in the same meeting.

Huebsch for Apportionment.

Senator Huebsch argued emphatically for his apportionment provision.

"The whole principle of this wide open amendment to the constitution," he said, "is predicated on the theory that the legislature fairly represents all the people of the state."

Courtney insisted that all the proposed changes in the amendment be printed and that action be deferred until next week. On a motion to this effect he was voted down on a rising vote as Senators Barbour, Marks and Leonardo joined with the downstaters.

Courtney then moved that inasmuch as Gov. Emmerson in his inaugural address and in his message to the special session had urged the adoption of a revenue amendment the senate invite him to appear before it and state his position on the one under debate. The presiding officer, Lieut. Gov. Sterling, ruled the motion out of order.

Huebsch Motion Loses.

The Huebsch apportionment motion was defeated 29 to 15, and with several others to be considered, Barr moved a recess for luncheon. Later it was learned that during this period efforts were made to recall two downstaters who had left for home without knowing that final action was pending. It also was disclosed that the telegraph and telephone wires were busy last night urging downstate absentee members to come to Springfield today. A number of them appeared.

After the recess the senate was kept waiting for forty minutes for these arrivals. Then Senator Edward J. Hughes submitted the income tax limitation provision. Without debate it was voted down 32 to 11, Leonardo, Marks, and Roberts of Chicago voting with downstate. Hughes then offered an amendment to restore the present provision of the constitution for uniform tax laws and the grouping of all real estate with two exceptions in one class. He accepted defeat by the same roll call. Mason had withdrawn an amendment he proposed yesterday and Barr "suggested" the secretary call the roll.

The count was completed and the senate recessed for the week, to meet again for a brief session next Monday.

The Strawn bills were twelve in number, raising the total introduced from this source to twenty-five, and four more are expected next Monday. The new ones today were eight bills for the Cook county government and one each for the schools, the public library, the municipal tuberculosis sanitarium and the south park board.

Tax Increase Proposed.

The first of the county bills raised the county tax rate from 25 to 32 cents for 1930 and for each even numbered year thereafter, and to 28 cents for 1931 and each odd numbered year thereafter. It also includes budgetary requirements. Two others bills authorize the issuance of two bond issues without referendum, one for $2,500,000 to take care of the 1928 and 1929 income deficiency, and one for $6,500,000, to provide a "working cash fund" that is to be increased from year to year by an annual tax not to exceed 2 cents, the ultimate purpose being to put the county on a cash basis.

The school board bill would raise the school tax rate from $1.35 in 1930 to $1.55 in 1931, to $1.56 in 1932, and place it at $1.54 in 1933. Next week another bill will authorize the school board without referendum to issue $5,700,000 in bonds to cover deficiencies and to pay tax anticipation warrants and interest on warrants. The bill also provides for the issuance of a working fund by the issuance of $25,000,000 of nonreferendum bonds to be supplemented by a 10 cent tax rate beginning in 1935.

The south park board bill changes the tax rate for that system from 18½ cents to 23 cents, which it is said will produce about the same amount of revenue as the present rate did before the reassessment. Another bill for this board to be presented next week will provide for $2,250,000 worth of bonds without a referendum to make up for lost revenue and replace operating revenues used for permanent improvements.

SNOW EXPLAINS TRIP

B. W. Snow, reached at his home last night after his return from Springfield, said that the discussion which he and George F. Harding had with the governor did not concern the tax resolution or the position to be taken by the Cook county Republican organization on the resolution as it affected the Strawn relief bills.

"We confined ourselves in our talk with Gov. Emmerson to a discussion of procedure at the Republican convention to be held on June 19," said Mr. Snow. "We talked over the drafting of a platform and considered the formation of a committee to work upon a platform. We did not once mention the legislation now before the senate and house."

Mr. Snow said he knew Mr. Crowe and Mr. Savage had been to see the governor on Tuesday, but asserted he had not seen the former state's attorney or his friend and knew nothing of the purpose of their visit.

WITNESSES RAP PROSECUTORS IN SLAUGHTER CASE

Two assistant state's attorneys yesterday were in the unusual position of being accused of an endeavor to bring about the acquittal of a man they are supposed to prosecute for murder.

"They are trying to make us say the only reason we identified John Pampinella as the man we saw kill William H. Slaughter is because you paid us to identify him," two colored women witnesses said to Chief of Detectives Stege. "They have been insulting us and pushing us around the state's attorney's office trying to make us change our story. It looks as if they want to try you and us instead of Pampinella."

The women are Mrs. Macie Hadley and Mrs. Ella Officer. The assistant state's attorneys they named are Charles E. Lounsbury and Euclid Taylor. Taylor, who is colored, was a witness for the state in the Granady murder case, which, like the Slaughter murder, had political ramifications.

Stege Talks to Loesch.

Chief Stege, upon hearing the statements of the two women, called Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago Crime commission, a member of President Hoover's law enforcement commission.

"I don't know what the state's attorney's office is trying to do in this case, but I do know that the police department has had strong political oppostion in every move so far pertaining to the Slaughter murder," Stege said to Loesch. "Mr. Slaughter was a Negro preacher and on last registration day he was an anti-Deneen precinct worker in the 42 ward. Pampinella was the Deneen precinct captain at the same polling place.

"Slaughter was killed in an alley near Division and Larrabee streets on that day. Detectives canvassing the neighborhood talked with Mrs. Hadley, who lived at 1166 Larrabee street. She said she and Mrs. Officer were in her house looking out of the window and they saw Pampinella run up behind Slaughter and shoot him.

Pampinella Is Arrested.

"Pampinella was arrested and Richard Prendergast, Deneen leader in the 42d ward, came to his defense. Pampinella was released on bail when an assistant state's attorney told the court there was no evidence against the prisoner.

"We had put the two women witnesses in a hotel for their own protection, as they were afraid to go back to that neighborhood after they identified Pampinella. We had other witnesses in the hotel, too. We couldn't get prompt court action and the police department was put to the expense of $100 a day in maintaining witnesses.

"Finally the crime commission came to our assistance and Pampinella was held to the grand jury and eventually indicted. After we had spent $900 in keeping the witnesses, the state's attorney relieved us of that duty and his office assumed the expense.

"The case is set for trial on Friday and the women were taken to the prosecutor's office yesterday and today. They said Prendergast was there, too. This afternoon they asked the policeman who is guarding them to bring them to see me, which he did."

Chief Stege said he tried to reach State's Attorney Swanson to tell him the latest in the Slaughter case, but was unable to find him at either his offices or last night at his home. Mr. Loesch advised Chief Stege to notify Mr. Swanson today and also to lay the whole matter before Judge Harry B. Miller, who is to preside at the trial of Pampinella.

LET $13,000,000 CONTRACTS FOR TRANSIT WORK

New York, May 21.—[Special.]—Nearly $13,000,000 in rapid transit contracts, mainly for the city's new subway system, were awarded today by the board of transportation.

The major award was a contract to Mason & Hanger company, at the bid price of $11,674,060, for construction of the tunnel under the East river from Rutgers and Madison streets, Manhattan, to Brooklyn.

The tube will be part of the Houston-Essex street line of the new city subway. This company recently constructed the Fulton street tunnel to Brooklyn.

MANUFACTURERS OPPOSE INCOME TAX FOR STATE

The Illinois Manufacturers' association yesterday issued a circular to its membership under the signature of James L. Donnelly, executive president, opposing a state income tax and any constitutional amendment which would make such a tax possible.

"We submit that a state income tax in Illinois at this time would not appreciably relieve the burden on real estate, but would simply be an additional tax," the circular says. "A study of the operation of income tax laws in other states indicates that such form of taxation has resulted in an undue and unreasonable burden on industry and has tended seriously to impair the industrial development of these states."

The association recommends a solution for the tax problem in Illinois a more careful scrutiny of expenditure of public funds and adoption of budget systems by the various counties rather than an increased demand upon taxpayers.

"Before any new or additional forms of taxation can be intelligently considered," the circular states, "there should be an earnest, definite, and cooperative effort on the part of all concerned to secure adoption of budget like methods in the administration of local taxing bodies throughout the state."

We note that a firm of industrial engineers says that "goods produced today do not wear as well as those made in the good old days. That is not necessarily an evil. When cloth was so well made that an overcoat lasted 20 years, our prosperity was not noteworthy."

Poor old industrial engineers!

If they mean to infer that it's better business to make poor-wearing clothing, the ideal clothing industry would be one that made clothes which would wear one day!

Yet our Rogers Peet suits and topcoats are deliberately made of hard-wearing fabrics, stoutly hand-tailored to give long service, and we've prospered these good many years.

Apparently we offer the correct combination of quality products and reasonable prices that makes friends, and keeps 'em!

...ice President's Son Says His Fees Were Legal.

Attorney Harry K. Curtis, son of Vice President Charles Curtis, was questioned at the state's attorney's office yesterday by Chief Investigator ... Roche and Assistant State's Attorney Richard Jackson regarding his dealings with contractors in reference to government building work. After being instructed to bring back his records, including a list of fees which he received from contractors, Curtis was allowed to leave the prosecutor's office, as was Mike Malloy, who has been described by prosecutors as the "go-between" for Curtis and the contractors.

Although several contractors who said they had done business with Curtis were questioned at the state's attorney's office, all of them made it plain that they had not started the investigation. They declared they had no inclination to accuse the son of the Vice President of violating any law.

Roche Explains Inquiry.

Investigator Roche said he started the investigation at the request of an outside agency not connected with any of the contractors. Whether any action will be taken has not been decided at this time, Roche said.

The stories told by the contractors, he said, are to the effect that they had employed Curtis on the assumption that because of his father's position he would be able to help them in getting government contracts. Those who asked for the return of their money received it, Roche said. In all Curtis is said to have accepted elsewhere in the neighborhood of $...,000.

Curtis' explanation, according to Roche, was that he first met Malloy through a friend made during the presidential campaign. He said that his friend introduced Malloy to him as a "good Republican" and a man of integrity. Curtis said that Malloy told him he knew some contractors who wanted to get government contract work.

Curtis Tells His Side.

"I told these men," Curtis said, "that all I could do for them would be to keep in touch with the situation and let them know when money was appropriated for various jobs, when plans and specifications were ready and when bids were to be made and opened.

"Of course, most anybody could have done this work by keeping tab on the various government projects. I legally accepted fees for what I did. I never promised to get any of them contracts. All government work is done by competitive bidding.

"I began to think that something was wrong along toward the end of last year and I refused to have anything more to do with the proposition. Of course, I do not know what Malloy may have said to the various contractors. He may have told people that because of my father's position I had some influence, but I most certainly did not and have no knowledge of his having been done. Any one who complained or was not satisfied was given back his money."

In Washington Vice President Curtis, asked concerning the investigation, said he knew nothing about it. "Harry is a lawyer in Chicago and ought to know what he's doing," Mr. Curtis said. "I don't know anything about the charges."

Hunt George A. Williamson.

Detectives sought George A. Williamson, who operated the Williamson company, Ltd., a secret service, but his office at 64 West Randolph street had been cleaned out. Williamson was supposed to have worked with Malloy, according to Roche. The background of Malloy is more or less unknown to investigators. He has recently become known in several downtown rendezvous. He is not related to Vince Malloy, the boxing promoter.

Williamson, it was learned, has been active many mid-western cities in recent months. The department of justice investigated the matter some months ago, but found no law violations, according to the state's attorney's office. Kenneth G. Rennie, treasurer of the Rush Electric company, said he paid Curtis $500 as he would pay an attorney. His money was returned the following day when he asked for it, he said. Carl Thorgersen, head of the Thorgersen & Erickson company, builders, said he also paid $500. He said he didn't forget about the matter when he paid another $15 for a copy of the Illinois statutes, by which he learned that all government work is only by competitive bidding.

FOUR WARDS GAIN IN CENSUS; LOSS IS SHOWN IN 33D

5th, 6th, 8th, and 40th Increase Population.

Substantial population gains for four Chicago wards and a loss of 7,000 for the Thirty-third ward were shown by census returns released yesterday. The twenty-eight wards tabulated so far show a population of 1,828,138, an estimated increase of 289,808 since the city was redivided into fifty wards in 1921.

Most of the north and south side wards have been tabulated, while the majority of the west side wards are yet to be heard from. Of the twenty-eight recorded, eighteen have shown an increase in population and ten have decreased.

Gains in Many Wards.

The following wards so far enumerated have shown gains as compared with the estimated populations in 1921:

2	55,469	49,231
11	52,427	47,669

34	59,762	58,122
36	55,889	54,577

Decrease in Thirty-third Ward.

The Thirty-third ward, where the 1930 population was released last night by Supervisor John R. Malmquist of the 4th Illinois district, decreased from an estimated population of 52,500 in 1921 to 45,504. This ward extends from Division street on the south to Fullerton avenue on the north, along the west bank of the north branch of the Chicago river. It contains industrial areas. Most of the dwellings are of frame construction.

Three south side wards whose returns were announced yesterday by Supervisor Frederick A. Kuhlman of the 29th district, are the Eighth, with a population of 92,818; the Fifth, with 73,660, and the Sixth, with 62,801. The total increase for these three wards, as compared with the estimates when the wards were formed in 1921, is 66,625, bringing their total population to 229,279.

The 8th ward, with an increase of 41,446 over the estimated population of 1921, shows a gain of almost 81 per cent in nine years.

Evanston Shows Population Gain of 66%; Is Now 61,766

A population increase of 24,532, or almost 66 per cent since 1920, was shown for Evanston by census returns released last evening by Mrs. Martin K. Northam, supervisor for the 3d Illinois district. The 1930 population is 61,766, as against 37,234 in 1920.

Evanston citizens were not surprised by this substantial increase, many of them even expressing disappointment. Estimates on the 1930 population made by Evanston boosters had reached 75,000.

Mrs. Northam released figures on five Lake county communities along with the Evanston returns. These were:

West Deerfield	1,615	3,304
Highwood	1,446	3,625
Cuba	1,123	1,901
Vernon	1,168	1,333
Lake Bluff	819	1,411

Lake county, Indiana, figures tabulated so far show an increase of 9,351 over the 1920 populations, and these do not include the three key cities of Gary, Hammond, and East Chicago, according to Mrs. Alice Drake Jones, supervisor for the First Indiana district. The communities recorded to date in Lake county show the following increases:

City—	1920.	1930.
Whiting	10,145	10,755
Hobart	2,450	5,787
Crown Point	3,232	4,044

Griffith	630	1,157
Dyer	479	672
New Chicago	309	421
Schneider	253	304

The greatest gains in this county are shown in the industrial centers.

SAN ANTONIO, 3D TEXAS CITY NOW, BOASTS 254,562

Houston Forges Ahead with 290,811.

Washington, D. C., May 21.—(AP)—San Antonio, third Texas city to enter the 250,000 class with a more than 50 per cent increase, today emphasized the rise of the south in the 1930 census.

Providence, R. I., twenty-seventh city only ten years ago, has been elbowed aside by Memphis, Birmingham, San Antonio, Dallas, Houston, and Atlanta.

Here's how they stood in 1920:

Forty-first city, San Antonio	161,379
Forty-second city, Dallas	158,976
Forty-fifth city, Houston	138,276

Moving forward at the rate of 110 per cent, 63.8 per cent, and 57.7 per cent respectively, they were climbing in 1930 as follows:

Houston	290,811
Dallas	260,397
San Antonio	254,562

Atlanta [Greater] stepped up at a 73.4 per cent increase rate for a 347,991 total. Her lesser limits gave her a 266,557 total—between Dallas and Houston—but Atlanta tossed aside a few inhibitions in the way of boundary lines to swell her total.

Memphis, with 252,049, showed a 55.2 per cent increase, and Birmingham, with 257,657, moved up at a pace of 44.1 per cent.

Raise San Francisco Total.

San Francisco, Cal., May 21.—(AP)—The 1930 population of San Francisco was officially reported today as 625,974. This is approximately 4,000 more than the preliminary figure announced recently by census supervisors. San Francisco's population in 1920 was 506,767. The 1930 figure is an increase of 119,207 or 23.52 per cent.

INVITES WIFE TO LEAVE; SHE GETS DIVORCE

Superior Judge Sabath yesterday granted a divorce on grounds of desertion to Mrs. Anna C. Trottman, 4957 North Claremont avenue, from William L. Trottman, president of Trottman Brothers Coal company. Mrs. Trottman testified that she upbraided her husband because he spent his evenings with neighbors and he replied that if she didn't like it she could leave.

Mrs. Trottman finally left her husband on June 17, 1927, she said. Judge Sabath dismissed a cross bill filed by Trottman charging desertion on the part of his wife. The judge's ruling is said to establish a precedent. Mrs. Trottman was awarded $18 weekly alimony and the custody of their two children. She was represented by Attorney Harry X. Cole.

LOBBY FACTIONS DENOUNCE BOTH HUSTON, RASKOB

McBride Qualifies Stand on Home Brew.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 21.—[Special.]—Partisan friction between lobby members carried to the senate floor today in reports denouncing both C. H. Huston and J. J. Raskob, chairmen, respectively, of the Republican and Democratic national committees, overshadowed other major developments in the lobby investigation.

Other features, in addition to an eloquent defense of Huston's relations with the Muscle Shoals lobby by Senator A. R. Robinson [Rep., Ind.] and the latter's savage attack on Raskob's activities as a director of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment were:

The effort of F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, before the lobby committee, to qualify his earlier approval of the "home brew for the wets" proposal espoused by F. W. Fort [Rep., N. J.] who, McBride said today, will be supported as a dry candidate for the senate against Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow.

Rockefeller Aid Reported.

A statement by Representative George Holden Tinkham [Rep., Mass.] disclosing that John D. Rockefeller Jr. has contributed a total of $137,117 in the last four years to the Federal Council of Churches which the Massachusetts congressman recently denounced before the lobby committee as a dangerous pacifist organization financed principally by international bankers, lawyers, and other foreign interests.

Rockefeller's contributions to the council, Tinkham declared, were approximately 10 per cent of the organizations' income from all sources and about 40 per cent of the total amount received from contributors of $500 or more in the four year period.

Unexpectedly mild in its reference to the evidence that Huston, having solicited a $36,100 contribution for the Tennessee River Improvement association from the Union Carbide company, deposited the money with New York brokers in a marginal stock trading account, the Muscle Shoals report, drafted by Senator T. J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.] and submitted by Senator T. H. Caraway [Dem., Ark], provoked from Robinson as impassioned a speech as has been heard during the entire session.

Pointing out that Huston produced canceled checks and other records plainly indicating the $36,100 received from the Carbide company was paid over to the Tennessee association when and as needed and that the transaction was merely that of putting the money in one pocket while it was paid out of another, Robinson asserted the report was "wholly and purely political."

Charges Political Reasons.

"It was brought to the senate to achieve only political results on the eve of a political campaign," declared Robinson. "I am wondering what crime Huston committed, unless it is that he happens to be a prominent Republican."

The Indiana senator recalled other evidence before the committee that Senator W. E. Brock [Dem., Tenn.] was treasurer of the Tennessee association for years, while Huston was president of the organization; that the late Senator L. D. Tyson [Dem., Tenn.] was a vice president for many years, and that former Senator Shields, also a Democrat from Tennessee, was active in its affairs with other prominent southern Democrats.

"Prominent Democrats throughout the south," he said, "were members of this association, gave it their unstinted support, and yet in this partisan report made here today from certain members of the subcommittee there is not a word of mention of any of these Democrats and, of course, the reason is perfectly obvious.

Defends Huston's Motives.

"Why should Huston be singled out to be pilloried when there is not a shred of evidence that he expected to make a penny out of all of his years of efforts for the people of the south?" asked Robinson, adding his opinion that Huston was justified in asking the Union Carbide company which was to have benefited if the American Cyanamid company bid for Muscle Shoals was accepted, to contribute to the expenses of the Tennessee association, an avowed lobby in behalf of private operation of the government owned power and fertilizer project.

"What has Huston done?" he continued. "Is it a crime to buy stocks? Then millions of Americans must be criminals. How about J. J. Raskob who advised everybody to go into the market and buy stocks? That's the whole case against Huston, but it had become important to some one on the other side to drag him through the mire to see what damage can be done to his reputation."

Says He Worked for South.

"If," he continued, "Huston was lobbying, it was for the industrial development of Tennessee and the south, while Raskob engaged in lobbying against the constitution of the United States."

Robinson declared that Raskob may be guilty of perjury before the committee, because, after the Democratic national committee chairman testified he did not know the salary paid H. H. Curran, president of the wet association, a contract was found in the association's files showing that Raskob was one of five guarantors of the $25,000 salary received by Curran.

Raskob himself once predicted, Robinson recalled, that the result of Volstead tyranny might be disruption of the union into two or three separate republics.

Points to Contributions.

Pointing out that official records disclose that Raskob has contributed $77,000 to the wet cause since 1927, Robinson read the editorial demand of Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy in the Wilson administration, for Raskob's resignation from the Democratic chairmanship.

Spectators who crowded into the lobby committee's hearing room earlier in the day expecting to see a resumption of the row between Senator J. J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.] and Dr. McBride which abruptly ended yesterday's session, were disappointed in the unusually deferential attitude each assumed toward the other.

The nearest approach to a clash during McBride's two hour cross-examination came when Senator Caraway interrupted to ask if the league will support Representative Fort in the New Jersey senatorial primary and reopened the controversy over McBride's approval of Fort's now famous speech in the house on Jan. 31 last.

"The state league has declared it will support him," answered McBride.

"And the national league says 'Amen' to that?" asked Caraway.

"Yes, it says 'Amen'," declared McBride.

"No," shouted McBride, "and Mr. Fort did not. I'm sorry if the wets got any idea they would get home brew without approval because we're not for it. I'm willing, however, to repeat what I said the other day, that it was a good speech."

In the course of his testimony McBride explained that the $500,000 gift promised the league by S. S. Kresge, chain store magnate, in December, 1927, is being received in installments for division between the league's educational department and the world league against alcoholism, and added that contributions credited to Kresge in reports filed under the corrupt practices act, are the league's share of the annual installments. In accordance with a request from Blaine, the dry leader promised to secure an itemized report of the World League Against Alcoholism expenditures in the United States.

McBride admitted the league was striving, none too successfully, to raise its annual budget to $800,000 a year but, he also admitted, the actual receipts of the organization have ranged between $250,000 to $350,000 for the last four or five years.

Methodists Vote to Conceal Case Against Bishop Cannon

Dallas, Tex., May 21.—(AP)—G. T. Fitzhugh of Memphis, Tenn., today was denied the right to formally protest against the exoneration of Bishop James Cannon Jr. of Washington, D. C., on stock market speculation charges by the quadrennial general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

Fitzhugh, Josephus Daniels of North Carolina, and others of the laymen who signed the accusations against Cannon sought to have written protest spread upon the journal. Overruling Bishop Collins Denny, presiding officer, who held that it was proper for any member to protest any action, the conference voted, 197 to 104, to deny Cannon's accusers any record on their accusations.

Protest Is Read.

The Memphis delegate succeeded, however, in getting his protest read before the conference. He specified many of the alleged transactions of Cannon and explained his reasons for believing the exonerating report returned by the committee on episcopacy illegal and irregular under church rule.

"His confession," said the protest, "made a trial more than ever imperative for all concerned, and diminished the amount of proof needed."

"Extending mercy, however commendable and praiseworthy," he said, "is not within the province of the committee. Our church has been placed in the position of condemning stock market transactions in the abstract and condoning them in the concrete."

The charges lodged by the unofficial "committee of twenty-two" against the bishop were made public for the first time tonight by Fitzhugh.

Reveal "Shady" Deals.

The accusations alleged that for eight months, from Aug. 14, 1927, to April 30, 1928, he was the patron of "an illicit bucket shop carried on under the name of Kable & Co., the real proprietor of which was Harry Goldhurst, whom Bishop Cannon had known intimately for years, and who is now a confessed felon in Atlanta penitentiary."

The allegations listed transactions reputed to have been made during the period, "involving the sale and pretended purchase of stocks, options and calls, aggregating several hundred thousand dollars, and constituted plain gambling on fluctuations in price, there being no actual bona fide receipt for delivery actual or intended, but in all cases a settlement based upon the differences in market quotations."

Dr. Smith Is Elected.

Dr. A. Frank Smith of Houston, Tex., was elected to the college of bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, today, bringing the total number of the college to sixteen.

His election, with the adoption of a special committee report on unification of church boards, cleared the calendar of the quadrennial general conference of its two most important subjects.

PLYMOUTH, May 21.—(AP)—Harry K. Thaw today arrived from New York but made no attempt to go ashore from the French line steamship Ile de France. He said he was going on a continental tour by way of Havre. "I couldn't go ashore if I wanted to," he admitted, and said he was en route to Paris, Berlin, Budapest, and Switzerland on a vacation.

SEES SUICIDE IN DEATH OF GRAIN BROKER

Coroner Allen Kenoyer of Newton county, Ind., said last night the evidence indicated that the death of William Simons, 50 years old, a Chicago grain broker, was suicide. However, the members of the family insisted that the facts showed he had been slain.

Simons' body was found at the side of the Chicago-Indianapolis road, near the Simons home in Kentland, early Tuesday morning. There were two bullet wounds in the head and one in the body. An old type revolver was found beside the body and there were two cartridges to fit it in Simons' pocket. Physicians who examined the body for the coroner were of the opinion that all three wounds could have been self inflicted, a theory the family disputed.

They advanced the belief that Simons had been shot by liquor runners who mistook him either for a hijacker or a police officer. He had left the house before daylight, presumably to catch an early morning train for Chicago, after a customary week-end at Kentland. His daughter said he was carrying an amount of money which was not found on the body.

The coroner's verdict will be delayed until after the funeral today.

RAID STILL ON SOUTH SIDE.

Prohibition agents late yesterday raided a 500 gallon still at 521 West 57th place. Three 5 gallon cans of alcohol were seized, but no arrests were made.

MRS. JULIA HAMILTON SUED FOR ALIENATING LOVE OF A RUSSIAN

New York, May 21.—[Special.]—Mrs. Julia Alexander Currey Hamilton, who was divorced a year ago in Paris from Cosmo Hamilton, novelist and playwright, was sued in the Supreme court today for $25,000 damages on the ground that she alienated the affections of Constantine Penzin Satar-Khan, who was described as a former lieutenant colonel in the Imperial Russian army.

The action was filed by Mrs. Nina Caracciolo Satar-Khan, teacher of dancing, of 44 West 85th street, who states that she married Satar-Khan in March, 1929, and lived with him happily until last November.

Wife Says Mate Tried to Throw Her from Window

William A. Bartlett, an official of the La Salle Realty company, was sued for separate maintenance by his wife, Mrs. Violet Bartlett, 27 years old, living at the Bismarck hotel, in a bill filed yesterday in Superior court. She charges cruelty and says her husband tried to throw her out of the window of their ninth floor apartment. The Bartletts were married on April 1, 1925, at Hollywood, Fla., and separated on May 17 last. Mrs. Bartlett is represented by Attorney George Schein.

For choicer foods, better served, in wider variety, at more reasonable prices, Henrici's is pre-eminent in Chicago

With a tremendously large patronage Henrici's, many years ago, arrived at a stage in the development of its business in which the ordinary problems of restaurant operation were not its chief concern.

☆ ☆ ☆

From that time competition for trade became a diminishing factor. Accomplishments based upon ways of doing things new to the restaurant field, although demonstrated sound in other industrial activities, have long since won for Henrici's the acclaim of a highly intelligent patronage.

☆ ☆ ☆

It is absolutely true that Henrici's has, in its operating methods, progressed upon lines so broad and so sound as to develop a strength and stability which of right should pertain to so basic an enterprise as the restaurant business but which few if any other restaurants anywhere in the world have attained.

☆ ☆ ☆

In plain words, the result, so far as you, reader, are concerned, is summed up in the above headlines. You can come to Henrici's today and every day in the year for breakfast, luncheon, dinner, late supper, or in-between-times with complete assurance that you will receive better value in wholesomeness, variety, deliciousness, size of portions and quality of service than in any other full service restaurant in Chicago.

☆ ☆ ☆

And the chances are that the check you pay at the cashier's desk will be more moderate than that you would pay in any other restaurant you or any logical patron of Henrici's, might patronize. Come today for breakfast, luncheon or dinner and see for yourself.

POLICE OF INDIA WOUND 600 IN SALT PAN RAIDS

2,000 Rush Bins, but Are Beaten Back.

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, May 21.—The Daily Mail's correspondent at Bombay reports salt raids were renewed at Dharsana tonight with several hundred more volunteers wounded. Troops are standing to arms at Bombay.

BOMBAY, May 21.—(AP)—The Indian situation took a definite turn for the worse today, as the government viewed it, with the Nationalist campaign greatly increased in vigor and the resistance of the authorities stiffened proportionately.

The salt pans of Dharsana formed the chief battleground—and battles really occurred today, in contrast to the more or less mild contest of passive resistance that has occurred in the same place for a week.

Violence developed today, and some 600 volunteers were reported to have been injured. In the first raid of the Nationalists this morning, they split into two groups, and while the police were beating back one offensive with their sticks, the others closed in on the barbed wire surrounding the salt pans. The second group also was driven off with about 300 injured.

Refuse to Fight Back.

The second attack was conducted similarly, and about 300 casualties resulted. About 2,000 volunteers participated in the mass raids. They did not fight back, carrying out the orders of Mrs. Sairojini Naidu, who headed the Nationalist campaign following the arrests of Mahatma Gandhi and Abbas Tyabji.

Indian troops numbering 400 were rushed from Bombay to Dungari station, near Dharsana, and it was stated this evening that more were likely to follow as fast as they could be brought into this district.

Patel New Revolt Leader.

The poetess had been watching this morning's raid from a distance, since she had abstained from active participation following her arrest for a few moments last week, but when she approached the scene of the attacks she was taken into custody. Manilal Gandhi, a son of the mahatma, and other prominent volunteers shared the same fate.

Leadership of the volunteers now descends on V. J. Patel, resigned speaker of the legislative assembly, who was at Untadi camp, near Dharsana, tonight, where 300 wounded volunteers are receiving treatment. Police stopped him in an effort to see Mrs. Naidu after her arrest.

Bombay itself was the scene of important events today. Police raided the all-India national congress building, arresting President Mariman and office workers. Many documents were seized. Ninety-five volunteers who started from the congress house to join in a raid on the Wadala salt depot also were arrested.

Rioters Cut Telegraph Wires.

The arrest of 36 prominent nationalist leaders was reported from Wheium, while news from Madras indicated a spread of the civil disobedience in southern India. Dimensions of that outbreak were not known, but government and railway telegraph wires were cut near Gudivada and wire communication to that district was completely halted. Armed police are patrolling the area.

REBELS HEAD FOR BOMBAY

BY CHARLES DAILEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CALCUTTA, May 21.—Despite the determination of authorities to bring a speedy climax to the raids on the four government salt plants, civil disobedience recruits from all over India are heading for the Bombay area to take over the work, while successive leaders are selected to replace those who have been arrested or will be arrested.

Military authorities and their supporting forces are still active on the Peshawar border, but preparations are being made to withdraw from Sholapur, where the military court will yield to the civil magistrates after settling convictions totaling $20,280 in fines and prison terms from two to seven years on agitators and rioters.

The militia will continue in control in the northwest province, particularly at Bein Bannu, where a seven day hartal has been started. Conditions there are similar to martial law, but without proclamation.

Report "Worst Is Over."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 21.—"The worst is over in India and the period of reconstruction is soon to begin." This was the statement today by the India office spokesman, who declared all danger of the disorder spreading is now over.

The British officials also believe that the time is coming when discussion will take place with the Indian extremist leaders. The prison interview granted by Mahatma Gandhi yesterday, which THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE printed and which was also printed in the London Daily Herald, official Labor party organ, is taken as a bid by Mr Gandhi for settlement by discussion.

FIFTY YEARS A BOOTBLACK

Charles Michaels, veteran Tribune Board of Trade reporter, getting shine and listening to William H. Hudlin, for 50 years a bootblack in the Board of Trade building, tell his experiences.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Celebrates Birthday

William H. Hudlin, 3529 Indiana avenue, for 50 years a bootblack at the Board of Trade, celebrated his 67th birthday anniversary yesterday by shining shoes. It has been his life work and he didn't intend to let it be interrupted. Hudlin was born in St. Louis in 1863, and when 17 years old he came to Chicago and started in shining shoes around the Board of Trade under the supervision of his uncle, Joseph Hudlin, who has been janitor of the exchange room also for half a century.

"I've polished shoes for all the big men around the board," he said, "from James A. Patten to Arthur W. Cutten. Mr. Cutten gave me $5 one day for a shine. Another man gave me $100 on Christmas, but that was in the good old days."

Hudlin is married and has a daughter and two granddaughters in New York.

Suit for $150,000 Estate Case Fees Is Continued

The suit of Charles R. Sercomb against Gordan A. Ramsay, former public administrator of Cook county, for $150,000 damages for alleged breach of contract, was continued indefinitely yesterday by Superior Judge Isaacs when attorneys for Sercomb asked permission to withdraw a juror. The case was ready to go to the jury. Sercomb has charged that Ramsay failed to pay him the fees set by the Probate court in some 3,000 estate cases which Sercomb closed as attorney for the public administrator. Ramsay denied the charge from the witness stand.

ARCHITECT SAYS TRIBUNE TOWER SET NEW STYLE

Modern Designs Praised at Convention.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 21.—[Special.]—Competition in designs for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Tower inaugurated a new era of modernism in American architecture, members of the American Institute of Architects were told at their annual convention today by Earl H. Reed Jr., head of the department of architecture of Armour Institute of Technology.

Recalls Chaos of 1893.

Outlining the progress of architectural development in Chicago, Mr. Reed said that at the time of the world's fair in 1893, the city presented a scene of "extraordinary chaos." The fair, with the Windy City, "calm, ordered, coldly classical, alien and outwardly lovely, laid upon us the withering hand of dead ages," he asserted.

After a period of "hopeless desire to solve American problems in the forms of Greece, Rome, or what not," there was a period of depression in Chicago architecture, according to Mr. Reed. This was followed by THE TRIBUNE contest.

"This competition, cast as a hero in a stupendous melodrama," he declared, "resulted in the production of a series of designs which have profoundly affected American architecture. It would be difficult to overestimate the favorable influence of this great competition. Courageous efforts were soon instituted on all sides to attain the goals of vitality and timeliness; emphasis was laid at last upon usefulness, structure and mass, and insipid historical detail was cast aside."

Cites Notable Buildings.

The middle west, and Chicago in particular, has had a flair for innovation, resulting in a notable series of buildings during the last six years, Mr. Reed said. He named among them the Palmolive, Board of Trade, Daily News, 700 North Michigan, Saks, and the 333 building.

"At the threshold of another world's fair," he added, "I am struck by the violence of the contrast offered between it and its predecessor. All concerned, I think, in the design of the exposition which will mark the brief 100 years of Chicago's life are directing all their energies to make its forms fully and freely expressive of its purpose without regard to historic style."

FIRES AT POLICE; SHOT DEAD.

Joseph Gullion, 55 years old, 5315 South La Salle street, a Negro cigarmaker, was shot and killed early yesterday by a police squad at 53d and La Salle streets when he opened fire on Sergt. Edward Harder, who sought to question him.

CHICAGO SUICIDE RATE SHOWS A SHARP DROP; RISES IN OTHER CITIES

New York, May 21.—[Special.]—While suicide, stimulated partly by the stock market collapse, reached a new high average of 18 per 100,000 in American cities last year, the Chicago suicide rate registered a sharp drop from 18.1 to 15.7. These figures were made public today by Dr. Frederick L. Hoffman, consulting statistician for the Prudential Life Insurance company.

Dr. Hoffman finds that "Pacific coast cities outrank all others in their tendency to self-destruction." The five cities with the highest suicide rate in 1929 were: Sacramento, Cal., 52.8; San Diego, Cal., 51.8; San Francisco, 39.3; Atlantic City, N. J., 36.6; Quincy, Ill., 32.7.

Veteran of Chicago Fire of '71 Is Critically Ill

Thomas Canty, 83 years old, one of five survivors of the fire department which fought the great Chicago fire of 1871, is in the county hospital in a critical condition from pneumonia. Canty, who lives at 1133 Madison street, is without known relatives here. He was in the habit of visiting engine houses near his rooming place and when he failed to appear recently firemen asked the police to hunt for him. It was learned that he had been found overcome by illness on the street at Jackson boulevard and Halsted street and taken to the county hospital.

INQUEST VERDICT ON SLAYING.

Michael Mechalis, 50 years old, chef at the Lincoln inn, Lincoln highway and Glenwood road, who was slain by robbers in the roadhouse on Tuesday night, came to his death at the hands of unknown persons, according to a coroner's jury verdict yesterday.

AWARD CONTRACT FOR AMPHIBIAN PLANE LANDING

Ramp in Grant Park Will Cost $17,300.

A contract for the reconstruction of the amphibian aircraft landing beach at the foot of 8th street in Grant park was awarded yesterday to the Mackie, Thompson, Tamm construction company by the south park commissioners. The new ramp will cost $17,300 and will be of concrete and steel.

Permission to construct a coffer dam in the yacht harbor for the amphibian ramp was granted by the war department two weeks ago. The ramp will replace a plank runway built by the park commissioners last year and destroyed by the lake storms last fall.

The new landing will make possible shuttle service between the outlying airports and the lake front enabling the transportation of passengers and merchandise to the loop in a few minutes.

Decree One Way Traffic.

The commissioners also ordered one way traffic in Jackson park starting Monday. The east drive in the park will be used for north bound traffic and the west drive for south bound traffic. Warning signs will be posted in the drives and at the entrance.

A program of lectures by visiting university professors to augment the lectures by the staff members of the Adler planetarium was approved by the commissioners. This is the first step in a plan to make the planetarium the astronomical center of the country, Supt. George T. Donoghue said. Professors from Northwestern university, the University of Chicago and other adjacent schools have signified their willingness to speak.

Ask Data on Fair Building.

The commissioners indicated their intention to use the 1933 fair administration building for a park administration building at the end of the fair when they asked fair officials for an estimate on reinforcing the foundation of the building. It was pointed out that reinforced foundations would be necessary if the building were to be used for many years. The park board would pay $15,000 for the work, it was said.

Action on a $300,000 paving program for Garfield boulevard was postponed, because two members of the board were not present.

MODELS OF WORLD'S FAIR BUILDINGS ARE SHOWN ARCHITECTS

Models of the Administration and Travel and Transport buildings which will be built for the 1933 Century of Progress exposition, were displayed yesterday at the fair headquarters in the Burnham building. Lighting effects to obtain a modernistic atmosphere were shown.

The models were officially examined by architects associated with the fair committee, among them being Harvey Wiley Corbett of New York, chairman of the architectural commission; Raymond Hood of New York, and Edward H. Bennett, John A. Holabird, and Hubert Burnham of Chicago. A steel model of the entire fair was also displayed before the architects and members of the committee on amusement concessions. The model is forty feet long and shows the lake front site from Roosevelt road to 39th street.

PINCHOT WINS CLOSE FIGHT IN PENNSYLVANIA

One indication of the gravity of the situation in the Brown camp was the filing of preëmption papers for a wet "Personal Liberty party" with the state bureau of elections at Harrisburg about the same time that Pinchot went into the lead.

It is a certainty that a wet candidate will take the field against Pinchot in the general election. Those filing the papers were intimately connected with the Brown primary campaign.

Result Pleases Hoover.

Washington, D. C., May 21.—[Special.]—While President Hoover took no part in the Pennsylvania primary campaign, the nomination of Secretary of Labor James J. Davis for United States senator was regarded today as highly satisfactory to him.

Although Senator Joseph R. Grundy, who was defeated by Secretary Davis for the Republican nomination, did not attempt to conduct an anti-administration campaign, it has been well known that he was displeased by the President's failure to favor sky high protection for Pennsylvania industries. Secretary Davis as a senator is expected to be a strong supporter of administration policies.

It is no secret that many of the Republican senators feel relieved by Grundy's defeat. The manner in which the Democrats and radical Republicans have capitalized the Grundy name in connection with the tariff bill and his lobby testimony relative to "backward states" has tended, in the opinion of many Republicans, to injure his usefulness to the party.

Wets Like Davis, Too.

Both wets and drys were particularly interested in analyzing the Pennsylvania results. The heavy vote polled by Bohlen and Phillips, the candidates of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, was regarded by the wets as meaning that the Republicans must recognize the existence of a strong wet sentiment within the party.

The wets also found satisfaction in the nomination of Secretary Davis over Senator Grundy, on the theory that the former, while standing for the Hoover law enforcement program, is personally moist and ultimately if the opportunity offers may vote for modification measures.

CAR OVERTURNS; TOSSES YOUTH OVER A HOUSE

Danville, Ill., May 21.—(AP)—Thrown over the top of a one story frame house when a car in which he was riding turned over five times on the Georgetown road south of the city early today, Vincent Juliano, Westville youth, was seriously injured.

Witnesses to the accident picked him up in the rear of the house, 300 feet from where the car was seen spinning in the air. He was unconscious and had not regained consciousness this evening.

Charles Razavich, Westville, driver of the car, and two Westville girls also were injured in the accident.

MERCURY LEAPS TO 84; SHOWERS EXPECTED TODAY

Summer again peeped around the corner yesterday after an absence of several days, the temperature reaching a maximum of 84 degrees at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, with plenty of sunshine. It was the first time the thermometer had registered in the eighties since May 10.

The weather man is not optimistic, however. "Unsettled, with showers, and cooler at night," was the forecast for today. Hundreds of straw hats made their appearance yesterday in the loop and along the Boul Mich.

Yesterday's temperature was 25 degrees above normal for that date, but did not constitute a record. The high mark for May 21 was reached in 1921 at 91 degrees.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 22.—[Special], [Thursday.]—One hundred and ninety boys under 15 years of age in St. Aemelian's Catholic orphanage on the St. Francis seminary grounds were rescued in night clothes at 1 a. m. today from a fire which destroyed the building. The loss is estimated at $100,000. Twenty-six sisters saved the boys without injury.

FIELD WHERE 'WE' LANDED IN PARIS OUTGROWS SELF

Le Bourget Is Too Small; City Seeks New Airport.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 21.—Le Bourget field has outgrown itself and Paris is seeking a new airport. Military aviation authorities are cooperating with the government and the municipality in examining various sites around the capital to install a modern adequate airdome. The present location, they agree, is too small and is becoming more congested daily.

Andre Maginot, minister of war, insists that the military air force shall have adequate quarters in any airdome constructed for defensive purposes, but the suggestion has been made to provide an additional flying field for private tourist planes and pleasure machines.

Airport Only Five Years Old.

Le Bourget was reconstructed only five years ago, but the huge field where Col. Charles A. Lindbergh landed three years ago today is now recognized as totally inadequate to handle the traffic.

Authorities are seeking a new location beside the Seine or some other body of water so it will be available to hydroplanes as well as land machines. It is confidently expected here that the eventual service to London will be with flying boats, which will be able to land on the Seine and the Thames, obviating the necessity of the hour rides from Le Bourget and Croydon.

St. Quentin pond, along Rambouillet road outside Versailles, is under contemplation, as the surrounding marshes could be drained to provide ample space for the biggest air boats. The field itself is an immense stretch without high tension wires or railway lines near by like at Le Bourget.

Giant Air Beacon Guide.

The giant Mont Valerian beacon, developing 1,000,000 candlepower light, would also serve to guide the machines to the new field just as well as Le Bourget.

It is proposed to transform the Issy-les-Moulineaux airdrome, just beyond St. Cloud, and a fifteen minute taxi ride to Paris, into a tourist airplane station. The field is small, but is still large enough to handle Moth and other private planes.

FILE SUIT TO TEST LAW BARRING HIGH SCHOOL FRAT BOYS

Lansing, Mich., May 21.—[Special.]—A test case to determine the constitutionality of the Michigan act prohibiting high school fraternities in Ingham county circuit court was filed here today by Joseph W. Planck, counsel for forty-one students of Central and Eastern high schools whose credits have been withheld by the school authorities on the ground that they belonged to fraternities.

The petition filed by Planck takes up specifically the case of James Steele, a senior at Central High. He is still in school, although twenty-two of the boys affected have dropped out of their classes. The petition contends that scholastic credits constitute a form of private property and that the suspension of them amounts to deprivation of property without due process of law. It also contends that the definition of fraternity is broad enough to include Sunday school classes.

Britain's Hobo Poet Wears Topper; Calls on King

LONDON, May 21.—Wearing morning dress and a shiny top hat, John Masefield, the people's poet, once a hobo in America, came down from his home at Boars Hill, Oxford, today to be received by King George at Buckingham palace on his appointment as poet laureate. Mr. Masefield's two predecessors in office were practically never seen by the public, but there were crowds in front of the palace today who cheered when the new poet laureate made his appearance.

SENATE'S MANIA FOR QUIZZING HIT AT BANK MEET

Atlantic City, N. J., May 21.—[Special.]—Criticism of western progressives and southern Democrats "working together to handicap the industrial sections of the country" and an attack on the senate's "mania for investigations" were heard here today at the convention of the Pennsylvania Bankers' association.

"Throughout the year," he said, "we have witnessed what seemed to be a stalemate in legislation and a mania for investigation on the part of the United States senate. This mania got so bad that a prominent New York banker, who, in a speech, blamed with some qualification the senate, and particularly the Democratic insurgent group, for the stock market break, was promptly hauled before the lobby committee of the senate and was forced to submit to insulting and insinuating questions.

"As an interested observer and not as an active participant, I have always had some interest in politics and it has puzzled me to know why a so-called Republican from the middle west would combine with a Democrat of the south to embarrass a Republican majority in the senate, and particularly a President of his own party; while all of their shafts seem to be directed at the industrial states of the east, particularly our own state of Pennsylvania."

CANADA PLANS TO DREDGE CHANNEL IN ST. LAWRENCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., May 21.—One of the biggest contracts to be awarded at one time by the Canadian government for a waterway project is about to be handed out at Ottawa. It is for the dredging of a 35 foot channel between Montreal and Quebec. Word was received from the capital today that the General Dredging Contractors, Ltd., of Montreal, have submitted the lowest tender and will probably get the job. This calls for removal of approximately 4,302,446 cubic yards of earth and represents an expenditure of roughly $7,000,000.

A contract cannot be awarded until the estimates go through parliament.

Another announcement from Ottawa of interest to the same parties was that the new Welland ship canal, which cost $120,000,000 to build, and will be part of the St. Lawrence waterways, will be officially opened on Labor day, Sept. 1.

The vessels, which will be 20,000 and 25,000 tonners, will have a speed of 28 knots and be built so they can be converted into auxiliary cruisers or transports in wartime.

DR. CHARLES REED RENEWS HEALTH INSTITUTE FIGHT

Raps "Mass Production" at State Meeting.

Dr. Charles B. Reed, president of the Chicago Medical society, yesterday reopened the controversy involving Dr. Louis E. Schmidt's ouster from the society for his connection with the public health institute. He was speaking before the 80th annual meeting of the Illinois State Medical society at Joliet.

Dispensary clinics, such as the institute, endowed by private philanthropy and administered by a board of laymen, he declared to be "socialistic, bureaucratic, inefficient, and totally at variance with American ideals."

Although he did not name Dr. Schmidt or mention the institute, his meaning was apparent. Dr. Reed referred to "the consulting physician," in a clinic incorporated as "not for profit." He said such a clinic threatened the industrialization of medicine by mass production.

Ethics Ignored, Claim.

Describing such a clinic in detail, he said, "the ethics of medicine have no significance and full page advertisements of social diseases are flaunted in the public press; advertisements so flagrant and so essentially a piece of quackery that the newspapers refuse to publish them unless the names of the honorable board of trustees are also given as a guarantee of good faith.

"This board is composed undoubtedly of honest individuals, conscious of the propriety of their intentions, but the very innocence of their motives, as much as their ignorance, leaves them completely at the mercy of their medical director.

"The extensive advertising attracts a huge volume of business which enables the clinic to underbid the regular practitioner, but the ostensible advantage in price to the patient is easily offset by protracted treatments. . . . The income grows steadily. The receipts exceed $200,000 a year and a sinking fund of $800,000 is established."

"Protest Without Avail."

After asserting that it was "possibly the ultimate purpose of the commercially trained philanthropists to reduce the legal and medical professions to "Fordismus," he said the medical society had protested without avail, and that finally:

"After repeated warnings to the consulting surgeon that his brazen violations of medical faith would bring him before the bar of the society, charges are preferred against him and he is dismissed from professional fellowship."

Continuing, he said:

"That the sentence is just, is evident from the unanimity of the vote. That the penalty is severe is manifested by the frantic efforts of the culprit to escape.

"The exemplary disciplining of this man focusses the attention of the people upon the vexatious and unfair conditions under which the clinic operates, and one of the philanthropic foundations is moved to enter into the affair as an intermediary.

Seek "Belated Respectibility."

"To the influence of this body the lay trustees at length evolve some understanding of the situation and take action. They select a board of reputable physicians to cooperate in the task of bringing to their enterprise a belated, but much-to-be-desired respectability."

One of his chief criticisms of the dispensary clinic was that whereas it is established primarily for "people without means" it frequently happens that is is patronized by "the well to do, who come in taxicabs."

Adverting to advertising, he said "the solicitations of business by or for professions today in most of its aspects is a rank outgrowth of the acquisitive instinct which is irreconcilable with moral wisdom." He added that even "the New York stock exchange forbids its members to advertise except by the publication of their names, their locations and the goods they have to offer."

LOESCH REPORTS PROGRESS IN WAR ON "PUBLIC FOES"

Cites Arrests of Capone and Other Gangsters.

Information on the present day activities of Chicago's "twenty-eight public enemies" was furnished yesterday by the Chicago crime commission, which so designated the city's most notorious gangsters a month ago when it urged a campaign to drive them from the city. The campaign of publicity is having its effect, a communication to public officials from Frank J. Loesch, president of the commission, announced, and the 28 are to be kept under constant surveillance.

Reports on Gangsters.

"It will interest you to know that from almost every city in the country inquiry is being made concerning these men in order that they may be apprehended should they appear in other places," Mr. Loesch wrote. "As far away as Scotland come requests for their finger prints and pictures, with the declaration that should they invade those parts they will be jailed.

"It seems certain that if proper pressure is continued here they will soon be powerless to do great harm in the future."

The watch being kept on the "public enemies" by the commission resulted in a "history," given by Mr. Loesch, for the last month, as follows:

"Alphonse (Scarface) Capone has been absent from Chicago since April 25. He has been put in jail three times in Florida and once in Cuba and efforts are being made to padlock his Florida mansion.

"Anthony (Mops) Volpe was arrested on May 6, but was discharged for lack of evidence after being held in jail for 18 hours.

"Ralph Capone was found guilty of defrauding the government of income tax on April 25, and temporary injunctions have been obtained against two of his night clubs.

McGurn Facing Trial.

"Frank Rio was arrested on May 6 with Volpe. Jack McGurn (Machine Gun Jack) was indicted for carrying concealed weapons and his case is set for trial June 2. James Belcastro, alleged bomb maker, was freed on a disorderly conduct charge on April 29.

"Rocco Fanelli is at present in London, England. Lawrence Mangano was arrested on April 26 for operating a hand book, but was discharged because no warrant had been obtained in advance of the raid.

"Nothing reported during the month for Jack Zuta, Jack Gusick, Edward O'Donnell, Vincent McErlane, William (Klondike) O'Donnell, and James 'Fur' Sammons.

"Frank Diamond is scheduled to go to trial on June 10 for carrying concealed weapons, but he is a fugitive. George (Bugs) Moran is reported to be in Ohio. Joe Aiello has not been observed around his former haunts for a month and is reported to be out of the city. Joe Saltis is operating a summer resort in Wisconsin.

"Frank McErlane and a girl were arrested in a hotel room, but they were discharged on May 3. William Niemoth is in the county jail awaiting action by the Supreme court in his fight to escape extradition to Baltimore, Md., where he is wanted for a pay roll robbery. Danny Stanton is alleged to be organizing an office employés' union. Myles O'Donnell was freed of a manslaughter charge on May 9. Frank Lake is reported to be in the ice business in Detroit. Terry Druggan is awaiting trial in the federal court on June 5 because of failure to pay income tax.

"George Barker and 'Three Finger Jack' White are scheduled for trial on June 3. Joseph Genaro is in Indiana. Leo Mongoven is in Ohio."

Mongoven, however, contrary to Mr. Loesch's report, was in Chicago, having returned from Toledo. He was arrested in the Madison and Kedzie State bank with two loaded revolvers under his belt. He had $2,500 in cash in his pocket. At the detective bureau he sent for a reporter.

"I'm a hoodlum all right, but I'm an angel compared to these business racketeers," he said. "I bought $10,000 worth of bonds a while ago and I was told I could get my money back on them any time. I just heard they were worth only fifty cents on the dollar and I demanded my money back, and I was told to go and get the bonds and they would be redeemed. The bond broker, however, framed to have me arrested."

CRIMINAL COURT.

Herman Busse, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in Pontiac reformatory; Howard Wadhams, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in the county jail by Judge D. J. Normoyle.

Edward Wishoff, robbery, sentenced to 1 year in the county jail by Judge John J. Sullivan.

Edgar Dawson, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Harry B. Miller.

Robert Hayes, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge E. I. Frankhauser.

ITALIAN TROOPS LAND IN ALBANIA; 'TO PROTECT KING'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ZAGREB, Jugo-Slavia, May 21.—The story of how 2,000 Italian troops, with light artillery, landed from an Italian battleship at Scutari this week and took up a position in Albania, not far from the Jugo-Slav frontier, will be told in tomorrow's edition of Zagreb newspapers.

The troops are reported to be under the command of an Italian general. Before disembarking, the general summoned town officials and explained he was authorized by the Albanian government to land troops and guns. The officials objected. At this the Italian commander showed a written order from King Zog.

The troops were distributed through villages along the northern frontier. According to the Jugo-Slav intelligence department, King Zog approved of the arrival of Italian troops to help him quell troublesome tribesmen.

ILLINOIS WOMEN VOTE APPROVAL OF WORLD COURT

Federation Indorsement Voted, 269-131.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 21.—[Special.]—The convention of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, meeting at the Centennial building here today, indorsed the world court. Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick's candidacy for the United States senate was conceded, informally, to have dictated sharp clashes of opinion over the resolution. Mrs. McCormick featured opposition to the court in her primary campaign. The resolution was adopted, 269 to 131.

Downstate districts were unfriendly to the resolution. The Chicago area polled the largest vote in its favor.

Mrs. Frank C. Cole of Peoria objected to the resolution, saying the world court was a political issue and should not occupy the attention of the convention. Mrs. J. Marc Fowler of Chicago, state president, was the most ardent of its supporters. While it had become a senatorship issue in Illinois, she argued, it was not otherwise political and should receive the federation's indorsement. Mrs. Marion H. Biel and Mrs. Charles E. Shearman, both of Chicago, concurred in this view. Mrs. Shearman is chairman of the international affairs committee.

Oppose "Girl" Cigaret Ads.

Introduction of a resolution appealing to cigaret manufacturers to stop using the pictures of young girls in billboard advertising of their product was passed with laughter. The assent was so hearty no attempt was made to poll the "nay" vote.

The name of Mrs. Mary A. Wall of Murphysboro was the only one placed in nomination this morning for president. She will be elected tomorrow by acclamation. Mrs. J. Marc Fowler, the retiring president, was nominated as a director of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, succeeding Mrs. Walter W. Seymour. Mrs. Edward J. Lehman of Sidney was nominated for vice president from the central section, and Mrs. J. Paul Carter of Nashville from the south section.

Gov. Louis L. Emmerson was petitioned to use his influence to secure an adequate appropriation for the work of the immigrants commission in a resolution introduced from the Chicago Woman's club. The annual appropriation, it was pointed out, was withdrawn during Gov. Small's tenure of office. Volunteers have since handled it.

Hear Preparedness Plea.

The federation this evening listened to a strong plea for national preparedness from W. A. L. Beyer, professor of political science at the Illinois state Normal university. Prof. Beyer cited Switzerland's century old military system and assured the women "preparedness is the greatest insurance policy any nation ever took out."

"We do not want to be found again in the position we were in 1916, when the German general staff, which annually estimated the military strength of other nations, placed America in the list of those that did not count," he added.

"In 1914 the war found Switzerland with a citizen army trained through a century, each youth of 18 to 21 with an army experience. So effective was that little Swiss army that the great German war machine paid it the compliment of going around instead of through its territory, and France did the same."

CONGRESS KILLS DEBENTURE PLAN FOR TARIFF BILL

Flexible Provision Not Yet Passed Upon.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 21.—[Special.]—Elimination of the senate's export debenture amendment was definitely agreed upon today by the tariff conferees of the senate and house. The agreement was made possible by the senate's action of Monday releasing its conferees from all obligations and the previous action of the house refusing to accept the debenture scheme, which has been opposed throughout the tariff fight by President Hoover.

The decision of the conferees marks the end of the debenture plan so far as the tariff bill is concerned. The two houses must vote the final conference report up or down and will have no further opportunity to act upon the debenture amendment separately.

The conferees failed to reach the senate amendment for repeal of the flexible tariff, but disposed of virtually all other items remaining in dispute.

A compromise duty of $1 per 1,000 board feet on soft lumber was agreed upon.

The conferees placed logs on the free list, as provided in the senate bill.

The Blease amendment in the senate bill permitting cement used for public works to be imported free was eliminated. The final duty on cement stands at 6 cents per 100 pounds.

Silver, on which the senate imposed a duty, was restored to the free list.

The conferees accepted most of the senate language with respect to membership of the tariff commission.

HOOVER TO GET A DEGREE FROM BEREA COLLEGE

Washington, D. C., May 21.—(AP)—President Hoover expects to go to Berea college, famous Kentucky mountain school, some time during the next twelve months to accept an honorary degree.

William J. Hutchins, president of the college, called at the White House today to invite the President to Berea in June. He was told the chief executive would be unable to go at that time but that during the coming year he would be very glad to accept the invitation.

Cincinnati, O., May 21.—(AP)—Vincent Lynagh, 21, said by relatives to be mentally ill, today beat his father, Steve Lynagh, 76, to death with his fists at their home here. The son walked to a police station after the slaying and surrendered.

DIVORCE WON BY MRS. JONES IN WAUKEGAN

Mrs. Constance Bridges Jones was yesterday granted a divorce from Owen Barton Jones, son of the late David B. Jones, one of Chicago's wealthiest men, by Judge Edward D. Shurtleff in the Circuit court at Waukegan. She charged desertion. Jones did not contest the suit and was not present in court. Attorney Cyrus Bentley, representing Mrs. Jones, said a financial settlement had been made out of court but declined to state what the agreement was. It was reported in the courtroom that Mrs. Jones will receive more than $1,000,000.

A letter written by Jones to his wife on May 2, 1928, in which Jones stated it was for the best interests of both of them that he leave her forever, was introduced. Mrs. Jones' testimony was supported by Jesse L. Moss, who said he was a business partner of Jones, and Miss Olive Allen, a former maid in the Jones residence at 10 West Deerpath road, Lake Forest.

The couple were married in June, 1927, at Cambridge, Mass. They have no children.

SUMMONS MAY REPLACE TICKET IN AUTO CASES

New Plan Discussed by Traffic Group.

A plan to issue a summons instead of a ticket for speeding and reckless driving was discussed yesterday at a meeting of the traffic education and enforcement commission in the office of Police Commissioner Russell as a new method of decreasing automobile fatalities.

In order to make the change it will be necessary to pass a city ordinance making speeding and reckless driving city offenses, according to Chief Justice Olson of the Municipal court, as they now are state offenses only.

Summons Carries Weight.

"If the motorist tears up a summons as he sometimes does with the courtesy ticket he can be held in contempt of court," said Judge Olson. "Or if a policeman or a court clerk makes alterations on the summons they will be candidates for the penitentiary. The summons carries greater weight than a ticket and the motorists will heed them."

Judge Olson said that within a short time he hopes to establish two more speeders' courts. They will be placed at the Fillmore police station for the west side and at the town hall station for the north side. South side violations will be taken care of at the 11th and State street police building. There are more than 600 cases a day in the speeders court, he said, which is more than one judge can handle.

Three Deaths in Day.

Three deaths in Cook county raised the 1930 motor toll to 333. The victims:

Robert Ryden, 3 years old, 1314 North Lorel avenue. Fatally injured while playing in the alley at the rear of his home when an ice truck being backed by William Wickman, 5249 Crystal street, ran over him. Wickman was held.

Edward Jakubek, 13 years old, 1532 West 15th street. Died at the county hospital from injuries received when he was struck by a truck last Monday at Laflin and 14th streets. Stanley Herdina, 1442 West 13th street, was the driver.

Maximilian Wikaryacz Jr., 12 years old, 4900 West 29th place, Cicero. Fatally injured by an automobile when he ran into the street to pick up a baseball. Mrs. Helen Lasica, 3146 South 48th court, Cicero, the driver, was not held.

HUNGRY MOTHER AND CHILD GONE; HELP IS OFFERED

Mrs. George Bennett and her 7 year old daughter, Marie Josephine, widow and daughter of a destitute Canadian war veteran who died of war disability 7 years ago, left the Hudson avenue police station yesterday morning after they had slept there and had been fed by the policemen. A flood of telephone calls offering further aid was received at the station following newspaper accounts of their misfortune, but they had gone.

Mrs. Bennett and her child lived until Tuesday at 4444 West Harrison street, but when their funds were exhausted they were put out. Tuesday night they appealed to police, who took care of them and gave the mother $10. Yesterday morning the mother took the child and went out to hunt work.

FOES OF 1925 FRANCHISE WILL STUDY NEW ONE

Too Early for Statement, Carter Harrison Says.

Two former officials of Chicago who were opposed to the Dever transit franchise ordinance of 1925 said last night they were not prepared to make a public announcement of the position they will take on the new franchise ordinance which provides for a consolidation of the existing transportation facilities with extensions of the surface and elevated lines and the construction of subways. They are Carter H. Harrison, a former mayor, and William L. O'Connell, former commissioner of public works.

"It is a little too early for me to state my position on the ordinance," said Mr. Harrison. "I have just received a copy of it and wish to read it before making any public statement." Mr. O'Connell said he had followed the development of the ordinance generally, but had not yet analyzed the completed document.

Fought 1925 Ordinance.

Mr. Harrison was chairman of the Traction league that fought against the 1925 ordinance and O'Connell joined forces with him. Allied with them was Mayor Thompson, who was out of office then, and former Gov. Edward F. Dunne, another ex-mayor. The new ordinance has been signed by Mayor Thompson and will be placed before the voters at a referendum on July 1.

Ex.-Gov. Dunne declared last night that he is not in favor of the ordinance. He said that he had not examined the ordinance fully, but believed that the city would be surrendering the $61,000,000 traction fund which is to be used to dig subways.

"I am not in a position where I ought to go out and become an evangelist in this matter," said Mr. Dunne. "Also, I am along in years."

Copies Filed with Board.

Certified copies of the transit ordinance and the ordinance calling the special referendum on it were filed with the board of election commissioners by Edward J. Padden, deputy city clerk. With the filing and the publication of the election ordinance yesterday the last steps necessary to hold the referendum have been taken.

Every qualified voter within Chicago may vote upon the ordinance, according to John S. Busch, chief clerk of the election commissioners. The qualifications, he said, call for residence in the precinct for at last 30 days, in the county 90 days, and in the state two years. As there is no registration before the date of the special election all unregistered voters may cast a ballot by signing an affidavit at the polling booth to the effect that they are qualified to vote.

Plan Information Bureau.

The establishment of a bureau where voters may obtain information regarding the ordinance was being considered yesterday by members of the city council. The bureau would explain details of the ordinance and furnish speakers to organizations desiring first hand information.

James W. Breen, first assistant corporation counsel, has ruled that the expense of the special election cannot be paid out of the transit fund. These expenses, he said, must be met by the city's corporate fund. The aldermen have not decided where funds can be obtained to maintain the proposed information bureau.

TWO BURNED IN BOTTLE PLANT.

Byron Lyons, 3541 North Lawndale avenue, and Joseph Swick, 3512 Kilpatrick avenue, were seriously burned yesterday when they dumped a box of celluloid scraps into the furnace of the Western Bottle company, 402 West Randolph street.

PRINCESS SAVES FUTURE BABY'S CLOTHES IN FIRE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OSLO, Norway, May 21.—"Save the baby's clothes," was the cry of Crown Princess Martha to her maid yesterday when she first heard the fire raging through Skougum, the residence of Norway's royal heirs just outside of Oslo. The maid succeeded in saving all of the tiny garments which the princess had made herself. It was feared that the fire might affect the princess, but her doctors declared that the expectant mother suffered little or no shock.

It is believed that almost all of the valuable wedding gifts were saved, as they were contained in a huge fireproof safe in the cellar of the house. Their actual fate is at present uncertain, as owing to the heat it is impossible to open the safe for several days. The presents were valued at $81,000.

During the salvage work a number of workmen discovered that the wine cellar was undamaged and proceeded to help themselves. Several were discovered completely drunk. One was arrested. The police also caught a number of people stealing articles salvaged from the fire.

Cops Accused of Taking Bribes Fired from Force

Two policemen who were charged with soliciting bribes from motorists for overlooking minor traffic violations were expelled from the police force yesterday by the police trial board after a hearing. Policeman Maurice F. O'Connor of the Austin station was charged with accepting $5 to forget one infraction of the traffic rules and 75 cents in a similar incident. Patrolman Thomas F. Zapotocky of the traffic division was charged with demanding $15 of a motorist who did not have a vehicle tag and accepting $5 to forget the incident.

RUBIO REWARDS FARMERS; BUILT 35 MILE ROAD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, May 21.—President Ortiz Rubio today presented Tremendo, a town in the state of Michoacan, with an auto bus for public traffic between Tremendo and the new highway now under construction between Mexico City and Guadalajara.

This gift is a reward for unusual service. The mayor and the town council of Tremendo, a Tarnascan Indian Pueblo, decided that the highway should be built to connect the town with the main highway.

Two thousand farmers, Indians, and peons assembled in Tremendo with tools, teams, drays, and carts; and in three days 35 miles of highway was turnpiked and left ready for use.

CROATIAN SLAPS GUARD IN COURT; GUNS CURB RIOT

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

BELGRADE, May 21.—One of 24 Croatians, who are being tried for sedition, slapped a gendarme in the face today and provoked a disturbance that attained such proportions that gendarmes drew revolvers and bayonets to prevent a riot from breaking out in the courtroom.

Because of a charge that Stefanac and some of his companions had been heard to make insulting remarks about King Alexander and about their guards, while in prison, the president of the court today ordered a new charge of lese majeste be preferred against Stefanac.

While lawyers were arguing over this charge, Ivan Bernardich struck a gendarme witness in the face. Troops with guns stopped the disorders.

CLASH ON EFFECT OF LONDON PACT ON WAR STRATEGY

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 21.—[Special.]—Consideration of the London navy limitation treaty by the senate foreign relations committee today wound up with an altercation between Senator Thomas J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.] and Rear Admiral Mark L. Bristol, chairman of the navy general board, on the strategy that should be adopted by the United States in the event of war with Japan.

Admiral Bristol said that it would be necessary for America to carry the war into Japanese waters and that it would take years and cost billions to subdue Japan, adding that the increased ratio of Japanese to American naval strength allowed by the treaty would only make our job the harder. Senator Walsh held to the view that the mere cutting off of the American market for Japanese silk and other products would force Nippon into submission.

So many new avenues of inquiry were opened up that the hearings probably will extend into next week. Senator Hiram Johnson [Rep., Cal.] said he would not be satisfied until the administration produces the cablegrams exchanged with Prime Minister MacDonald last summer and autumn which led up to the concessions made to the British on cruiser tonnage.

Hoover Calls for Action.

President Hoover is pressing for ratification before the adjournment of this session of congress. Alarmed by reports that action on the treaty might be postponed until the winter session, the President called Senator James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.], majority leader of the senate, to the White House this morning and told him he still insists on ratification at this session. Senator Watson said that is his program, but pointed out that there will be strong opposition in the senate to remaining here for a debate on the treaty in the event the foreign relations committee is not ready to report it by the time the tariff bill is disposed of.

Bristol-Walsh Controversy.

Admiral Bristol testified that without a base in the Philippines, which we are not allowed to develop under the Washington agreement, we need four times as many cruisers as Japan in order to meet her on equality in far eastern waters.

"Could you give us any kind of an idea about what it would cost the United States to go into oriental waters and destroy the Japanese fleet?" asked Walsh.

"No," replied Bristol. "It means a long campaign. I do not remember the exact figures, but this last war cost us around 24 billion dollars, and it was a very short war. If you had no bases over here, and you have got to start out on a campaign, that will take a long time, and the Lord knows what it will cost."

Citing Japan's 400 million dollars of exports to America annually Walsh drew from the witness the admission that war would shut off this trade.

"What kind of a financial condition do you think Japan would be in if she were excluded from 400 million dollars of trade?" asked the Montana senator triumphantly.

"I think she would be badly off," said Bristol. Then followed this colloquy:

WALSH—Badly off! She does not raise enough food to supply her own people, does she?

BRISTOL—No; she gets not her main supply but a good deal of the supply of rice from Saigon and the East Indies.

WALSH—And she buys that with the tea and silk that she sells to the United States, does she not?

BRISTOL—I told you, Mr. Senator, I am not here as a commercial expert, but I am willing to answer your questions in a general way.

WALSH—I am trying to find out the value of the strategy you propose, of sending our fleet over to the oriental waters to destroy the Japanese fleet, and I wanted to see how much profit there was in it.

Not a Commercial Problem.

BRISTOL—That was not the problem. It is a question of war between the United States and Japan, and under those circumstances it is a long campaign. It is not simply sending a fleet over there to destroy her fleet only; it is a question of winning that war by all the means possible; protecting our own lines of commerce and raiding her lines of commerce, and advancing to the final action, which probably will be on the water, and to bring about an understanding between the two of us as to a peace.

WALSH—Yes; and in Japan's trade with the United States we will have denied ourselves her tea and silk for the time of the war. About how long do you think that she would be able to feed her people?

BRISTOL—I have not any idea.

WALSH—As a matter of fact, they would starve to death, would they not?

BRISTOL—No, I do not think so. They would have the whole of China and the East Indies, and they could route their commerce, a good deal of it, across there. They could send their tea and silk to Europe in neutral bottoms.

WALSH—We did not succeed in shipping stuff very well in neutral bottoms during the last war.

BRISTOL—That is the reason we want cruisers, to look out for our commerce.

Admiral Pringle Questioned.

Questioning Rear Admiral J. R. P. Pringle, president of the navy war college and member of the general board, Senator Robert M. La Follette [Rep., Wis.] elicited the information that the Hoover administration had abandoned the traditional American position on cruiser limitation and accepted the British plan before the general board was asked its advice. We had accepted the division of the cruiser category into subcategories of eight inch gun and six inch gun ships which would deprive us of the freedom to put our entire cruiser tonnage into such types as we might desire. We would be limited by the restriction on each subcategory.

"We were not at liberty," said Pringle, "to lay down a proposition entirely as we would on the basis of freedom to choose."

"The board," said La Follette, "was confronted with the problem of arranging these various allotments of tonnages within the categories."

"That is my recollection of the way that proposition came about," Pringle assented.

"In other words, the commitment had already been made that the negotiations were to go forward on the basis that subcategories were to be established."

"I cannot say that a commitment was actually made, but I do recall distinctly that the proposition went forward on that basis."

Johnson Asks Question.

"I want to ask you on what theory was that a matter of such transcendant importance to the other nations, Japan and Great Britain, that they probably would not have made a treaty if we had not abandoned our traditional policy?" Senator Hiram Johnson [Rep., Cal.] inquired.

"What is it that gives that transcendant importance to them so that they insisted upon theirs and we could not insist upon ours? Can you tell us?"

"No, sir; I cannot state that," said the witness.

SENATOR REED—Did you know that after we got to London it became evident that Australia and New Zealand would refuse to sign if America, by demanding twenty-one cruisers, forced Japan to build large cruisers practically to parity with Great Britain? Did you know that they had announced they would not sign?

ADMIRAL PRINGLE—No, sir; I did not.

SENATOR REED—They announced that not only would they not sign but those dominions would of their accord proceed to construct large cruisers themselves.

ADMIRAL PRINGLE—I did not know that, but I am fully prepared to believe it.

BRITAIN ORDERS WARSHIPS HELD UP BY PARLEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 21.—A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, announced in the house of commons today that orders have been given to proceed with the work on the 6-inch gun cruiser Leander, under construction at the Davenport dockyard, and on two destroyers to be built at Portsmouth. He said that tenders for a destroyer flotilla leader and the two destroyers are now being considered.

Britain also proposes to proceed immediately with the building of three submarines—two of 650 tons and one of 1,800 tons. The three submarines are part of the six approved by parliament in the 1929 schedule, the three others having been canceled.

In replying to questions Mr. Alexander explained that this was a part of the 1929 program which was suspended pending the result of the recent naval conference. When pressed by Winston Churchill, former Conservative chancellor of the exchequer, Mr. Alexander admitted that the full program was not yet ready.

Romance doesn't always demand Moonlight

Even picnics have their opportunities and simple frocks their charm

DOROTHY DIX tells girls of CHICAGO

WHY is it so many girls think romance must WAIT for just the RIGHT moment? That moonlight, music, atmosphere are essential?

Romance is everywhere—afternoons at the beach, hiking in the country—simple picnics—all have their OPPORTUNITIES.

But you must always look dainty, colorful, attractive—your charming best.

Men Love Color

Men respond quickly to color—as the old saying goes, "It's color that takes a man's eye." Even on a PICNIC where old clothes are called for, avoid faded blouses, color-dimmed prints. For the loss of original COLOR in a garment means a corresponding loss of ALLURE.

Therefore, let me give you two simple hints—

FIRST: In even your simplest frocks, choose the pretty colors that are most becoming to you.

THEN: Guard the charm of color always from even slight fading—for there is a magnetic appeal in vibrant fresh color.

When I say this, girls often reply that frequent washings—which daintiness demands—too often take the loveliness from colors. If that is the case, you have probably been using the wrong soap.

Ordinary "good" soaps are sometimes not good enough—and some of the color goes with the dirt.

To play absolutely safe, use LUX, which is made to safeguard colors. LUX has a slogan . . . "if it's safe in water, it's safe in LUX." And that's true. DOROTHY DIX

If it's safe in water, it's safe in LUX

THE SECRET OF CLOTHES APPEAL

(Right) Sample after 12 Lux washings—unfaded, live, vibrant as when it was bought, all the magnetism of color is retained.

(Left) Washed 12 times with ordinary "good" soap—Undeniably faded. Not actually ruined, yet it has lost the allure of joyous color.

ARMED FASCISTS DEMAND PREMIER OF AUSTRIA QUIT

Schober Scorns Foes and Political Unrest Seethes

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Austria, May 21.—The Fascist Heimwehr military organization tonight handed an ultimatum to Chancellor Johann Schober in which it practically demanded that he turn over the reins of the government to them, until they have disarmed the Socialists and driven them from power.

The Fascists, who have a highly trained private army with guns and ammunition to back them up, asked the immediate disarming of the Socialist Schutzbund—the Marxist private army; the dismissal of the moderate vice chancellor, Dr. Vincent Schumy and the substitution of a Heimwehr leader in his place. They also ask the immediate dismissal of scores of police officers believed to be sympathetic to the Socialists and their replacement by Fascists.

Refuse to Yield Arms.

Until these demands are fulfilled, the Heimwehr force of 200,000 armed men announced they will refuse to give up a single gun despite the strict government disarmament law, which was to have been passed by parliament Friday, and which would have had an effect of breaking up the two class armies.

Chancellor Schober, seeing his dream of a new $100,000,000 loan, and the regeneration of Austria ruined by the renewal of a class warfare, calmly refused to accept the ultimatum.

He offered, however, to show the ultimatum to his cabinet tomorrow but refused to go further than that.

Bad Blood Exists.

Bad blood between Austria's two armed private armies, of which the Socialists are capable of mobilizing 120,000 well trained troops, has been brewing for several weeks under conditions almost analagous with those which brought the revolution of July 15, 1927, when 98 persons were killed and 200 wounded after the Reds stormed the Palais de Justice, sacked it, and set it ablaze.

Back of the present uprising, it is learned, lies the figure of Maj. Pabst, organizer of the ill-fated putsch on Berlin in 1920, who has been working actively, but under cover, for the last 14 months to put across his dream of a Fascist putsch in Austria. He is now commander-in-chief of the Heimwehr force.

Blanton Defeats Woman but He's Gallant in Victory

Abilene, Tex., May 21.—(AP)—Mrs. R. Q. Lee, widow of Representative R. Q. Lee, today conceded defeat in her contest with Thomas L. Blanton, Democrat, for the unexpired portion of her husband's term in congress.

Blanton, a former congressman, sent the following telegram to the woman candidate:

"Ever, though unsuccessful you made a gallant fight. I have been honored by having so worthy and formidable an opponent. Please command me when I may serve you or your friends."

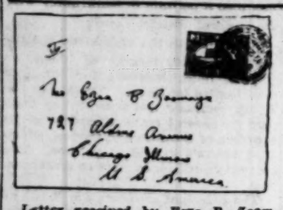
FROM MOSUL, IRAQ



Letter received by Ezra B. Zoomaya, 727 Aldine avenue, Chicago.

"This letter was sent to me by my brother, Hyman B. Zoomaya, who is employed in the British aviation camp near Mosul, Iraq, formerly known as Mesopotamia and now a new government under the British mandate. The sender also has served in the Assyrian army, which in reality is a British corps, for it is maintained by the British government to protect its interests, which are constantly in danger from the native Arabs, Kurds, and Turks.

"Mosul is capital of the state of the same name in Iraq, and is situated on the right bank of the Tigris river, of which we read in the Book of Genesis. It is near the ruins of the ancient biblical city of Nineveh, where many historical discoveries have been made in recent years.

"Mosul is north of Bagdad, the capital of Iraq government. It is noted for its oil fields, and hence has been the cause of many political clashes among Turkey, the United States, and the European powers, particularly Great Britain, which is in control at present. Other minerals are to be found in the Mosul region, sulphur being the principal one.

"It is the largest city north of Bagdad and a business center of a wide area, inhabited by various nationalities who speak different languages and have different religious beliefs. The Arabs are the dominant race; then come the Kurds, Assyrians, Yezids [devil worshipers], and some Jews and Greeks. The city of Mosul has a population of about 40,000.

"Formerly transportation was handled entirely by camels, horses, donkeys, and mules. But now there is a railroad branching off from Bagdad and going up as far north as Mosul. This is the native country of the real sheiks and the famous Arabian horses, noted for their speed. Wheat and cotton are the main crops raised in the Mosul state."

COURT DECLARES TUTHILL MAYOR OF MICHIGAN CITY

Former Judge Harry B. Tuthill was declared mayor of Michigan City, Ind., yesterday in a decision of the Indiana Supreme court on litigation growing out of the last election. The decision ousts Mayor Fred C. Miller, who held over, although defeated last November, on the contention that the Republican ticket on which Tuthill was nominated was not legally entitled to enter the contest against him. The Miller administration is given five days to vacate the city hall by agreement among the litigants.

So They Talk to Her About Ride Slaying.

For several hours yesterday, Mickey O'Hallorahan, a plump and pretty girl of 22 with auburn glint in her hair, a cultured voice, a vocabulary, and a trick of dropping her eyelids, confronted a group of hardshelled detectives.

The young woman was brought to Chicago from Canton, Ill., yesterday. She admitted she had been the sweetheart of Harry Anthony, giant Toledo gambler who was taken for a ride and slain here on May 7. She also [she said] had been a law student at Northwestern university from 1925 to 1927. Although an inspection of the university records failed to support this assertion, Mickey's language and demeanor might have been those of a co-ed.

The Detectives Have Hope.

"Now there is something different," said the detectives, one to another, noting Mickey's simple but close fitting black gown. "We will clear up this Anthony case in no time. She must know all about who killed him. She was with him only an hour or two before he was taken for a ride. This nice girl will tell us all she knows."

Chief of Detectives Stege, Lieut. Walter Storms, Assistant State's Attorney Ditchburne and a number of other experts on examination of witnesses gathered around the young woman and began gently:

"What about that night, Mickey, when two men in an automobile crowded you and Anthony to the curb and told Anthony to stay away from you or he'd be killed?"

Who'd Be Jealous of Micky?

"O, that isn't true at all," said Mickey opening her eyes wide. "That was just an automobile accident and the men didn't say anything. Who would be jealous of poor little me?"

"Why do you think Anthony was murdered?"

"I can't imagine, at all," said Mickey, and her voice dropped to a lower, sorrowful note. "He was such a nice man and so good to me. I never knew that he was a gambler or crook or anything like they say."

The questioning went on, but a sense of disillusionment spread through the police group. Mickey told readily of her studies at Northwestern, of her marriage in 1927 to "a nice boy" whose name she wouldn't reveal, of her subsequent divorce when they "just couldn't get along together," of how her crooning voice got her jobs in cabarets and night clubs within the last year.

Questioners Give It Up.

"Who said this girl was different?" suddenly demanded one of the questioners. "She's like all the rest. She just doesn't know anything about it at all, at all."

Mickey was reading gleefully the afternoon paper accounts of her arrest and questioning.

"Oh, I hope I get a wonderful contract on the stage out of all this publicity," she exclaimed.

"Now I know she's no different," said Chief Stege. And the Anthony murder mystery last night was still unsolved.

SHOT IN BACK, KILLED.

Douglas Parson, colored, 2114 Wentworth avenue, was shot in the back and killed by an unidentified person Tuesday night as he stood in a doorway at 22 West 18th street.

YOUTH REPUDIATES SECOND CONFESSION OF RIBBON KILLING

Chief of Detectives Stege and Assistant State's Attorney Ditchburne took John Putscher, 19 year old burglar, to 5830 Lake street yesterday to have him reenact the murder of Mrs. Mildred Helsing. But Putscher did not reënact any part of the strangling to death of the young wife whose body was found in the Lake street apartment on April 1 with a ribbon drawn around her neck. Instead he repudiated his second confession of the slaying.

"We're going to prove him either guilty or innocent despite his changing stories," said Prosecutor Ditchburne. "We know he was near the Helsing home on the day of the murder. He turned in a rented car at an Austin agency at 4:48 p. m. on April 1. At 6:20 o'clock that evening he rented another car at the same place although he has an automobile of his own.

"When he confessed the murder he said he had given Mrs. Helsing's ring to his girl, but the rings he had given her were not Mrs. Helsing's. Parts of his two stories, his confessions and repudiations, indicate a knowledge on his part of circumstances no one but the killer would know.

"Parts of his confessions were found to be altogether wrong. What we are trying to do now is to investigate his movements from 4:48 to 6:20 o'clock on April 1. We should have the truth in another day or two."

DOMINICAN HELD AS REBEL FREED; MAY JOIN CABINET

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic, May 21.—(AP)—Federico Velasquez, opposition candidate in the recent Dominican presidential election, who was arrested several days ago on charges of fomenting a revolution, has been freed by order of the Court of Appeals.

The charge of fomenting a revolution was left pending, however, although prosecution of it is not expected. The government also announced that Angel Morales, opposition candidate for vice president, will not be arrested.

It is understood that Velasquez now faces accepting a post in the government ministry or declining with the promise that he will not urge the Alianza, or coalition against the government, to open a campaign of criticism against the government.

LIBERTY FIGHTS TO PRINT LIFE OF JEANNE EAGELS

Attorney Defends Freedom of the Press.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 21.—[Special.]—A spirited defense of the freedom of the press was presented today by McDonald Dewitt, attorney for Liberty magazine, in an argument before Supreme Court Justice Louis A. Valente opposing the granting of an injunction restraining the magazine from publishing an allegedly libelous life story of the late Jeanne Eagels, stage and screen star.

The plea for a temporary restraining writ was brought by Mrs. Julia Eagels, mother of the dead actress, and Miss Helen Eagels, a sister. Arthur S. Driscoll of the law firm of O'Brien, Malevinsky & Driscoll acted for the plaintiffs.

Decision Is Awaited.

Justice Valente, after listening to argument, instructed the attorneys to file final briefs before court closed and reserved decision. He is expected to announce his decision tomorrow.

"The mother and sister of Jeanne Eagels," said Mr. Driscoll in opening the argument, "resent the proposed publication in Liberty, beginning May 24, of articles describing Jeanne Eagels as 'genius, drunkard, artist, and hellion.' The mother is getting along in life and her life and that of the sister is faced with disgrace if the magazine is permitted to publish the proposed articles.

"We admit that at common law it is not libel to comment on a dead person. But we contend these relatives have a right to be protected against an invasion of their rights."

Declaring that a publisher has a right to publish what he wants to if he chooses to take the consequences, Mr. Dewitt insisted that the court could not enjoin the publication of an alleged libel since that would be a violation of the constitutional guarantee of the freedom of the press.

In opposing the injunction Mr. Dewitt told the court that the articles on Miss Eagels were to run in fifteen installments and that "we have already printed five issues at a cost of approximately $800,000 and if an injunction is permitted to tie up the distribution of this magazine the loss will be more than $800,000."

Law Held to Be Well Settled.

"The motion should be denied," Mr. Dewitt told the court, "first, because the law is well settled that a court of equity will not enjoin the publication of an alleged libel, and, second, because the complaint fails to state a cause of action in that a libel on the memory of a deceased person is not a cause of action for damages in favor of the surviving relatives of such person where it does not affect their reputation."

Justice Valente interrupted to ask if it was not charged that the articles affected the reputations of the living relatives.

"The complaint in the case at bar does not allege that the articles complained of injure the reputation of the living plaintiffs," continued Mr. Dewitt.

Only Feelings Injured.

"The only injury alleged is the injury to plaintiffs' feelings. The articles do not and could not affect the reputations of the living relatives."

In concluding the attorney for Liberty pointed out that "as the plaintiff herein seeks to enjoin the defendants from publishing the threatened article solely for the reason that it is an alleged libelous publication, and as the court under the authorities cited has no jurisdiction to grant such relief under the circumstances presented, this motion should be denied."

It has been advertised as the story of "a genius and drunkard, an artist and hellion, a poet and devil who battled the stars." The late Jeanne Eagles, star of "Rain" and other Broadway stage hits, had a stormy career on the stage and screen.

CHAIN STORES END "FREE ADS," EDITORS TOLD

Reporting on chain store advertising, J. N. Stonebraker of Webster City, Ia., told the Inland Daily Press association yesterday that as the result of a series of conferences, the National Chain Store association has agreed to eliminate all clip sheets and free publicity formerly mailed to newspapers. The press association closed its two day annual May meeting at the Morrison hotel with his report.

"While it is true that pure news and honest editorial matter comprise the contents of many newspapers," Mr. Stonebreaker said, "it is also true that advertising, masquerading as news, in a large measure makes up much of the reading contents of other newspapers." He added that an estimate has been made that newspapers lose about $25,000,000 annually through "free" advertising.

"The captains of industry must come to know," said Mr. Stonebreaker, "that the press agent and his effort to invade the news columns of the newspaper, with its lowering of reader interest, is not the economic avenue through which the information as to industry's practices and policies may be presented. The advertising columns are the proper and dignified avenues for this presentation."

DEBTS $3,304,586, ASSETS $400, IN BANKRUPT SUIT

With scheduled liabilities of $3,309,586 and assets of $400, exempt by law from the claims of creditors, George N. Moore, president of the Moore Refining company, with offices at 8 South Michigan avenue, yesterday filed a petition in bankruptcy with the federal district court.

According to the schedules, the liabilities consist largely of obligation papers, notes indorsed for the concern headed by Moore. The Moore Refining company has been out of business for several years, according to the law firm of Gardner and Carton, which filed Moore's individual petition. The company's refineries were at Arkansas, Kas.

The principal creditors are listed as the Milliken company, St. Louis, $1,100,000; the General American Tank company, $817,560, and L. H. Wentz, of Ponca City, Okla., $551,560.

"Drunkenness Is a Disease and I Can Cure It"

—Leslie E. Keeley, M. D., LL. D.

THE EDITOR of a powerful Chicago Newspaper before his death, challenged this statement of Dr. Keeley that "Drunkenness is a disease and I can cure it." He doubted Dr. Keeley to cure the man whom he would send to the Institute. The results were so convincing that, through his great newspaper, he was personally responsible for thousands of men and women taking The Keeley Treatment for Liquor.

MAC NIDER GETS APPOINTMENT AS ENVOY TO CANADA

Hoover Picks Iowa Legion Man as Minister.

Washington, D. C., May 21.—[Special.]—Hanford MacNider, former assistant secretary of war and a Hoover supporter during the 1928 presidential campaign, has been appointed minister to Canada. This was announced at the White House today.

Mr. MacNider's selection has met with Canadian approval, and President Hoover will forward the nomination to the senate, probably tomorrow. The new envoy comes from Mason City, Ia., where he is engaged in the banking business.

Former President Coolidge appointed Mr. MacNider assistant secretary of war in 1925 and he served in that capacity until 1928 when he resigned to return to Iowa.

A Former Legion Commander.

Mr. MacNider has been actively engaged in American Legion affairs and is a former national commander. He was a National Guard officer before the war and served with the Second division overseas. He is a wearer of the D. S. C., is 40 years old and was made national commander of the American Legion in 1921.

Mr. MacNider will fill the vacancy left by the resignation last fall of William Phillips, a career man in the state department foreign service.

Canadians Are Pleased.

MONTREAL, Que., May 21.—[Special.]—Announcement at Washington today that Hanford MacNider of Mason City, Ia., will be the new American minister to Canada was received in Montreal with expressions of satisfaction.

The Hon. Vincent Massey, recently retired Canadian minister to the United States, who is in Montreal preparing to sail on Friday for England to take up his new duties as Canadian high commissioner to Great Britain, said:

"I had the pleasure of knowing Mr. MacNider at Washington, when he was a member of President Coolidge's administration, and I know that his qualities are such as to make him very welcome indeed in Canada."

ACCUSED WIFE IS A 'RADIO WIDOW,' SHE TELLS JUDGE

Arraigned in Morals court yesterday charged with preferring the company of William Dandurand, a janitor, to that of her husband, William Daily, a portrait painter, Mrs. Ida Daily, 30 years old, of 3244 Haddon avenue, told Judge Joseph Shulman: "I am a radio widow; my husband sits at the loud speaker, and will never leave the house to take me places." Dandurand, who has a wife and four children at 3852 West Ohio street, took Mrs. Daily to Detroit for three weeks. The judge placed them on probation for a year, with the alternative of a year in the county jail, if they meet again.

GARMENT MAKERS DISPLAY TRACK SUIT STYLE AS SPORT WEAR

A group of models for the International Association of Garment Manufacturers, now in session at the Stevens hotel, walked on Michigan avenue yesterday in costumes which the association considers appropriate hot weather sports and outing wear for men. The costumes consisted mainly of an adaptation of running track garments to less strenuous pursuits, but the adaptation showed little departure from the original except in materials.

The "shorts" which have previously been accepted for wear by only Boy Scouts, were of light cotton in plaid and striped loose woven mixtures. With them were worn a cotton jersey polo shirt open at the neck, a sleeveless coat belted at the back, and three quarter length hose and sport shoes. There were some less daring models for golf use.

For women the models displayed a costume which was neither frock nor pajamas but borrowing from both. There was plenty of color and ornamentation.

At a luncheon meeting of the association yesterday Nelson B. Gaskill, former chairman of the federal trade commission, told the delegates that a frenzy for low prices through machine production had resulted in an oversupply, and that the remedy lay in a return to an emphasis on quality.

FOUND DEAD AT WHEEL OF CAR.

Julius Reinhardt, 58 years old, 5131 Winthrop avenue, a retired real estate dealer, was found dead at the wheel of his automobile in a garage at the rear of 1314 Elmdale avenue yesterday. Police believe he had been adjusting the motor and died of carbon monoxide fumes.

11 MORE JUDGES RECOMMENDED FOR U. S. BENCH

Additions Are Proposed to Cut Congestion.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 21.—[Special.]—Appointment of eleven new federal judges was recommended by the house judiciary committee today as a step toward partial relief for congestion in the courts caused by the increasing number of prohibition law cases.

Coincidentally, it became known that the Wickersham law enforcement commission will meet this week to revise its proposals to speed up the courts through juryless trials in minor liquor cases by United States commissioners instead of judges. Although approving the extra judge bills, the house committee has found itself in a deadlock on the commissioner trial plan, which is bitterly opposed by the wet members.

Seen as Partial Victory.

Agreement upon the new judges, however, was interpreted as a partial victory for President Hoover's law enforcement program, as the President, in his latest message on the subject, said he was wedded to no particular method of relieving the courts if they were relieved.

Under the committee bills approved today seven states and the District of Columbia would receive new judges, distributed as follows: New York, Southern district, two; New York, Eastern district, one; California, Southern district, one; Texas, Southern district, one; Missouri, Eastern district, one; Oklahoma, Western district, one; Michigan, Eastern district, one; Louisiana, at large, one; and District of Columbia, Court of Appeals, two.

Previously the committee had reported individual bills for two new judges of the District Supreme court, and one each for West Virginia, Kentucky, and Minnesota, making a total of sixteen.

Bills Come Out Friday.

Chairman George S. Graham [Rep., Pa.] announced that he will formally report the bills for eleven new judges to the house Friday. He said he thought they would be brought up under a special rule and that the house leaders would give them an immediate right of way with a view to getting them to the White House at this session.

Members of the committee were reluctant to discuss the intercession of the Wickersham commission on the juryless trial bills, although they admitted that George W. Wickersham, chairman, returned from New York to Washington yesterday for a special meeting of his group and that it will submit a report in writing next Monday, when the committee meets again. It also was learned that several dry committeemen conferred with Mr. Wickersham this morning.

Plan Is Storm Center.

The juryless trial plan since its recommendation by the commission last January has been a storm center in the house committee. Chairman Graham, a wet, and three or four of his wet colleagues, have fought it from the start, contending that it overrides constitutional rights. Bone drys on the committee have battled equally hard for the plan. It has been debated at a dozen executive sessions without result.

THE CENTRAL WEST'S NEW GATEWAY.

The senate commerce committee has agreed on the Illinois waterway item in the rivers and harbors bill and has reached a compromise on the New York, Erie, and Oswego canal provision. The Illinois project gets an appropriation of $7,500,000, which will meet the deficiency in state funds and complete the course. The waterway is to be turned over to the federal government.

Further than this, the committee defeated the proposal of Senator Vandenberg of Michigan to limit the diversion of water from the lake into the canal to a maximum of 1,500 cubic feet a second. Government engineers have opposed this limitation as prejudicial to the navigability of the waterway. It would have been economically injurious to the central states and would have hurt their water borne commerce to the south. These considerations were of no value to the senator from one of the states to be affected. Mr. Vandenberg is a notable curiosity in the United States senate.

The committee roll call might be preserved in the Michigan records as the story of how a little boy got lost in the impenetrable forest in Washington. Mr. Vandenberg voted for the Boulder dam appropriation by which the federal government undertakes to give Los Angeles and other southern California cities municipal water supply, by which power is to be developed for the use of these communities and water supplied to make the grass grow on new real estate subdivisions and more farm lands. The element of national interest in these schemes was so ridiculous—flood control—that the Boulder dam advocates mentioned it as little as possible. New York and Chicago have taxed themselves heavily to provide water. So has every other city with this problem, except in California, which had the federal government put up the money. Michigan taxpayers will put up their share of it. They may ask themselves what return they expect on it. Government subsidized competition is what they get.

Mr. Vandenberg earnestly supported Senator Hiram Johnson in getting this money. Senator Johnson, in turn, obliged Senator Vandenberg. When a diversion of water for the economic benefit of Michigan and other central states was in question Mr. Johnson voted against it to repay his Michigan colleague. Paint your own lily and put it in Mr. Vandenberg's hand.

The limitation was rejected by a vote of 8 to 10. New York and the Mississippi valley combining to save the waterway to the gulf from injurious restrictions. The New York project of turning the state canal system over to the government was saved, but by a compromise forced by the Pacific coast-Michigan combination, which requires the federal government to make it as little usable as possible, another high spot in the juvenile statesmanship which represents some of the wheat and lake states.

The Illinois waterway is offered to the nation for little more than half it cost the government to take over that pleasure boat ditch, the Cape Cod canal. It is an almost completed project, and if Illinois had not exhausted its available money it would have been built without federal aid. It will give back the historic asset of this great region of the country, water carried traffic to the New Orleans outlet. That traffic made the nation what it is and gave it its present continental domain. It was the reason for the Louisiana purchase. It brought its present opponents on the Pacific coast and in the wheat states into the Union.

In its construction and in its use it will help restore better conditions of business. It will afford employment directly and indirectly. Workers will be on the pay roll of construction and factory production will be required for the materials of building and operation. It will benefit farmers and industries, in Michigan as well as elsewhere in the central region to which it will afford new traffic routes, new rates, and new markets. It will carry raw material to manufacturing cities with water connections and it will carry out their products.

The central states which permit their representatives to oppose it and try to injure it in combination with the representatives of competing regions unscrupulously seeking advantages have strange ideas of their own welfare.

WILMETTE HARBOR.

As a beginning of a small harbor program for the southwest shore of Lake Michigan the federal government should expand and equip the harbor at Wilmette. By taking over this entrance to the north shore sanitary canal, expanding it to twice or thrice its present size and equipping it with wharfs, slips and other facilities adequate to the needs, the government can make this little harbor of great value to a large residential population. Commercial fishing, package freight, ferry and water taxi service up and down the shore, as well as commercial service by flying boats alone, would justify, it would appear, federal assistance in small harbors of this sort. A system of breakwaters off the canal mouth would in great measure accomplish this end.

Wilmette harbor is now used to capacity by small sailing yachts, and the weekly regatta off the north shore has become one of the bright spots of the summer season. With adequate small harbors along the north shore motor yachts and flying boats as well as sailing vessels will come increasingly there for haven. On the east coast Marblehead, used almost exclusively for yachting, Salem and many another from Maine to Florida are examples of what Wilmette may be. Wilmette harbor, small as it is, is now the only harbor suitable for small boats on the north shore.

PROHIBITION IN THE PENNSYLVANIA ELECTIONS.

James J. Davis, secretary of labor, has won the Republican nomination for the United States senate from Senator Joseph Grundy, who thus becomes a senatorial episode, not the less interesting because episodic. He had the seat which the senate purists would not permit Mr. Vare to occupy because he spent too much although less money than the then United States senator, Mr. Pepper, whom he defeated. Mr. Grundy, a lobbyist for Pennsylvania manufacturing interests who had told Arkansas, Idaho and other small state senators that propriety required silence and a great deal of it from them in economic matters, had the pleasure of being transferred from the witness grill to Mr. Vare's seat among the Conscript Fathers themselves. Mr. Vare, having unintentionally let him in, backed Mr. Davis of the cabinet intentionally to get him out and succeeded.

The secretary of labor, being of the official dry family, canvassed the state as a moderate in prohibition, a little bit of what anybody would care to have backed by the Vare boys in the back room. Mr. Grundy, standing presumably for the solid men, took the dry side. Prof. Francis H. Bohlen entered as a third candidate late in the campaigning to give it a touch of honesty and sincerity on the issue of Volstead and furnished the surprise of the election by getting possibly 300,000 votes.

Prof. Bohlen declared for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment and beat Grundy nearly two to one in Philadelphia. Pinchot, the bone dry candidate for the nomination for governor, was beaten nearly three to one in Philadelphia by Phillips, who was running on the Bohlen platform opposed to prohibition. At this writing Pinchot, after trailing for a day, seems to have won over Vare's mild dry candidate, Brown.

The straightaway opposition to the eighteenth amendment and to Volsteadism was late in making its appearance and it was outside the machines of patronage and funds, but it spoiled a large and significant vote. Bigoted prohibition was defeated and in addition a large number of voters proved that they were not willing to take the middle course represented by candidates carrying the issue as yes and no.

Pennsylvania is another state to reveal that bigotry has only to persevere in its course to come to its overthrow.

METROPOLITAN PEORIA.

With a population gain of more than 33 per cent Peoria becomes metropolitan. For years Peoria has been metropolitan in point of view; today the 1930 census figures, 104,788, show the point of view was justified. Center for a dozen railroads, manufacturer, distributor of corn products and agricultural supplies, Peoria sits on the bluffs above the widened river, pressing massive feet upon the shores, and knows that the strength of the great midland is in her.

Peoria knew the river shores and the fields and forests there before Chicago found existence. The first settler of Chicago, Jean Baptiste Point de Saible, handsome Negro and trader with the red men, came from Peoria. There he owned a farm, and to Peoria he returned, it is said, in 1783 or thereabouts. The first house in Chicago, later the Kinzie house, was built by this Peorian. Chicago is the godson of Peoria and welcomes her advance upon the second hundred thousand.

RAILROAD FRONT YARDS.

If the railroads and big companies would do as much for cleanness and good looks as the small householder usually tries to do for his front yard, the factories and railroad rights of way would have less the look of sterile wastes and desolation and more friendliness and green. Some railroads are neat housekeepers; others are slovenly; but all are barren and unbeautiful. Tree planting along the right of way, as the Flagler lines have done along the sea extension to Key West, shrubbery and vines that cost little, could make the railroads, within the towns at least, less of an eyesore.

The railroads drive their customers away to bus lines and to electric transportation by their own ugliness and dirt. If the railroads would electrify as well as give their roadside natural foliage, if the street car companies would give one-tenth the effort to reducing noise and giving comfort that automobile manufacturers have given, rail transportation today would not need to complain so bitterly against the inroads of the bus and private car. People often would go by rail.

Editorial of the Day

A CANADIAN VIEW OF REPRISALS.

[Winnipeg Tribune.]

Even as late as the commencement of the present session of parliament statements of ministers warranted a feeling in Washington that Canada was prepared to be kicked into a jelly before considering defensive measures. Such statements were not, of course, in accord with the spirit of the Canadian people. They were, as the government was fully aware, in a temper to adopt stern measures, not as reprisals, but in defense of Canada's trade, which is her economic life blood.

A stern warning any time in the last ten years would probably have prevented many of the tariff measures since adopted by the United States. It would, at least, have prevented the severity of their application to Canadian products. That warning never was given. Our response to the steadily rising American tariff has been as steadily to soften the Canadian tariff against American products. We have turned the other cheek, not once but several times.

And now, after this final proof of American determination to shut out Canadian products that are in the slightest degree competitive, what have we done? We have gently slapped Uncle Sam on the wrist. We have put in "countervailing" duties—which are bad in principle any way, and dictated as open reprisals—against a few minor articles of trade, principally food products. We have not touched the substantial items of American trade except a few items in the steel schedule, and it is quite uncertain how these will work out.

WELL, MEN, IT'S WORTH TRYING.

The men have another chance for freedom. Style experts say it's all right for 'em to wear shorts or knee pants this summer. The men talked about wearing pajamas last summer right down the Boul Mich in Chicago or Main street in any other town you happen to think of. But men haven't got the nerve that women have. Look at the short skirts women put on when Paris announced it was the style. And even if their legs were not all they should have been, from a beauty standpoint, they never batted an eye. And then when the long dress thing came in the women put on dresses that looked like nightties, or the Mother Hubbard gowns that the missionaries wished on the natives of Hawaii, and it doesn't feaze 'em a bit.

But men are the cowardy cats. They'll give three cheers for short pants that come only to the knee and maybe put 'em on, but the first girl that sniggers and says, "Oh, pipe the Boy Scout!" will drive 'em right up an alley. Nice, wide shorts ought to be a lot more comfortable than long pants and take just half the cloth, too, and right now, in these days when nobody has any more money than it takes to keep three jumps ahead of the installment collector, if there, that's something worth thinking about. All right, men, get into those short pants!

PERSPECTIVE FROM AN AIRPLANE.

Blossoming peaches—
Pale pink fire,

Shadows of cream
Multi-triangled.
One's senses seem
Pastel tangled.

Amethyst tinted
An alfalfa field,
Flight unstinted,
A lone bird wheeled.

Black jade night,
Rapier starred,
Then faintly light—
Moon-rise marred.

JAYHAWKER.

OUR NAVY had a sham battle off the Virginia coast the other day and didn't lose as many ships as it did at the London peace parley.

AS SOON as Commissioner Whalen launched his campaign on jaywalkers he resigned and went back to his old job at Wanamaker's. It looks like a pretty shrewd piece of business, for even if the maddened populace does pursue him into the store it is quite liable to forget about tearing Mr. Whalen limb from limb and buy something before they go out. You certainly have got to hand it to Mr. Whalen.

"NEWS OF Chicago crime," says Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Association of Commerce, "should properly be placed on the front pages of the newspapers." Oh, Col. Randolph, where have you been all this time, or don't you read the newspapers?

TICKETS, PLEASE!

One of the numerous and best stories told about the late Arthur Twining Hadley is George Northrop's. Dr. Hadley was on a trip out west and when the Southern Pacific conductor came around to collect the tickets he had to wait patiently while Dr. Hadley ransacked a dozen pockets. But after several minutes the search was still fruitless; Dr. Hadley's nervous haste increased, and the conductor's patience wore thin.

"Oh, take your time," said the conductor sarcastically, "I—"

"It was here just a moment ago," plead the professor, beginning his wild search all over again.

"I'll come back for it," said the conductor, giving a parting glance of scorn at the professor, "but I'll tell you one thing, mister, if you'd have a place for everything, and everything in its place, you might get somewhere in the world!"

With that shot, the conductor marched on down the aisle. When he returned, five minutes later, the distinguished president emeritus of Yale university apologetically handed him the mislaid ticket; it was a director's pass on the Southern Pacific railroad!

ARTHRITIS OF THE HANDS.

D. O. W. asks for a rigid diet for arthritis of the hands. He is not interested in a diet for other joint troubles.

Some of the cases of arthritis of the finger joints are gouty. Such are those in which chalky deposits form under the skin. In some cases these can be uncovered and some mineral material scraped away. There is a diet for gout, and that has been given in this column recently.

The great majority of cases of arthritis of the hands and fingers are not gouty, and for them there is no rigid diet. This is the form of joint trouble which usually develops in elderly people—women more noticeably than men. It does not cause any fever, general or local. There is very little soreness or tenderness. The heads of the bones enlarge and the joints become deformed. Fortunately the harm done is about limited to partial disablement of the hands and deformity.

It is generally thought that the cause is some mild, long continued infection, though some think change in blood chemistry is a factor. There is more than a doubt as to the efficacy of dieting in this disorder, and certainly there is no excuse for rigid dieting.

People of that group are liable to be undernourished. Rarely are they overnourished. They are of an age when there is not much urge to overeat or to eat heavy meat meals. This natural tendency of theirs supplies about all the diet regulation that is needed. In fact, it generally goes a little too far and leads to mild undernourishment.

As to the other members of the group, called chronic rheumatics, about the same advice applies. Some of them, and possibly all of them, are due to mild infections of one sort or another. It is certain that variation in blood chemistry is sometimes a contributing factor. Physicians prescribe diets for some of them. Some physicians think they can materially benefit a few of these chronic rheumatic disorders by diet. But there are great practical difficulties. The first relates to decision as to which one of the groups of rheumatics a given case belongs to. When this has been decided, the next question is whether dieting shall be done, and, if so, which.

As illustrating the fact that most physicians think dieting of secondary or less importance is the distribution of the equipment of the New Red Cross Rheumatism clinic in London. There emphasis is put on baths, heat, and light treatment. Stoves, kitchens, and foods are not to the fore.

Most chronic rheumatics are slightly undernourished. They tend to be anemic. The obese are rarely rheumatic and rheumatics are rarely obese. This suggests that the diet of rheumatics is not as liberal as it should be.

SYMPTOMS OF DIABETES.

M. H. writes:

1. What are the chief symptoms of diabetes?
2. Can it be cured?

REPLY.

1. Sugar in the urine, large quantities of urine, excessive blood sugar, excessive thirst and appetite, sometimes boils, headaches, loss of weight.
2. It can be held in check. A few cases are cured.

DREAMS AND BLOOD PRESSURE.

L. M. writes:

1. How can I overcome dreaming every night? I get up in the morning exhausted and with a headache.
2. I also have low blood pressure.

REPLY.

1. Everybody dreams every night. You would be very lonesome if you did not. Comfortable sleep is a matter of mental, physical, and emotional relaxation plus a comfortable bed.
2. Overcoming low blood pressure calls for (a) mental and emotional training or (b) wearing abdominal supporters, or (c) living on a meat, milk, fat, vegetable, fruits diet, playing down breads, pastries, cereals, sugars, desserts, and sweets.

HIT IT WITH A CLUB.

B. M. writes: I am a young woman 24. I have a lump growing on my wrist about as big as an English walnut. It is soft and not painful. I do not want it operated on. Can you suggest a remedy for its removal?

REPLY.

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 22, 1865.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Preparations for the grand review of soldiers on next Tuesday and Wednesday are complete. An elevated covered platform has been erected in front of the White House. President Johnson, his cabinet members, and Gen. Grant will witness the review. It is estimated that there will be about 200,000 soldiers in line on both days. The Army of the Potomac will be the first to be reviewed.

CAIRO, Ill.—It is reported that the rebel, Gen. Mayberry, has surrendered his whole force at Pine Bluff. Rumors are prevalent in New Orleans that Gen. Kirby Smith has been assassinated by one of his own men. A report from Mississippi is that Gen. Forrest was at Grenada on May 14. This is another contradiction of the report that he had been killed.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — President Johnson has appointed Col. Josiah A. Sheets, now commanding the Eighth Illinois Veteran infantry, as brevet brigadier general, to rank from May 15. This is a deserved and well merited promotion. Col. Sheets enlisted at the beginning of the war as a private and has served ever since with steady promotions.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—It is probable that the remaining witnesses of the prosecution in the assassination conspiracy trial will be examined tomorrow. The Hon. Reverdy Johnson is preparing his argument denying the jurisdiction of a military court to try these cases. Counsel for the defendants say they will have 200 witnesses.

NEW YORK.—The Herald's Fortress Monroe correspondent says that with Jeff Davis and his family, who arrived there on the steamer Clyde, were John H. Reagan, recently postmaster general of the confederacy; Vice President Alexander H. Stephens, Clement C. Clay of Alabama, Maj. Gen. Joseph Wheeler, and four staff officers.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—It is positively stated that President Johnson has sent an order to New Orleans for the recall of Gen. Banks.

CHICAGO.—The time for opening the second great sanitary fair in Chicago is near at hand. May 30 will be the opening day—one of the grandest affairs that has ever been seen in Chicago. The great building for the fair is nearly completed. It covers the whole extent of Dearborn park.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In the Supreme court of the United States a decision was handed down which disposes of the Kentucky election case, so far as the courts of the country are concerned, and confirms the seating of Beckham, the Democratic contestant for governor, by the state legislature. The question decided was entirely on jurisdiction and the opinion does not assume to go into the merits of the case. The court held there was no appeal from the assembly's decision, except to the tribunal of the people. Justice Harlan's dissenting opinion, however, apparently went into the merits of the case and allowed it to become evident that in his opinion W. S. Taylor had been fairly elected governor.

LOUISVILLE.—W. S. Taylor fled from Kentucky shortly after the decision of the Supreme court was announced. He crossed the river to Jeffersonville, eluding detectives who were on his trail. He knew that his arrest was certain to follow as soon as Judge Cantrell could convene court. Taylor is accused of being accessory before the fact to the assassination of William Goebel. He will be safe in Indiana as long as Gov. Mount refuses to honor extradition papers from Gov. Beckham. It is openly stated that Taylor has been assured he will be safe in Indianapolis.

CHICAGO.—Chief of Police Kipley was instructed by the city council to galvanize into life the dead letter ordinance against Chicago's street noises. The council unanimously passed an order introduced by Ald. William S. Jackson [4th] which starts a fresh crusade against the ear splitting din of the hucksters and peddlers.

CHICAGO.—F. L. Murray sold his half interest in the Hotel Morrison and the Saratoga hotel to J. K. Sebree for $110,000. The two have been joint owners of the hotels for some time.

LONDON.—Lord Roberts sent official confirmation of the relief of Mafeking. The relief was accomplished by the combined forces of Col. Mahon and Col. Plumer. A dispatch from Lourenco Marques says that British horsemen are now close to the Vaal river and within 40 miles of Johannesburg.

CHICAGO.—Daniel F. Crilly was appointed a member of the south park board to succeed James W. Ellsworth.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 22, 1920.

MEXICO CITY.—Gen. Carranza was killed at Tlexicaltenango, in the state of Hidalgo, by Gen. Rudolfo Herrera, one of his former chiefs. Herrera led an attack on the Carranza bodyguard at 4 o'clock in the morning. They surrounded the president's party and opened a terrific fire. President Carranza fell at the first volley and six of his men were killed. The report is confirmed by Gen. Obregon and Gen. Pablo Gonzalez, who announced that rebel officials are bringing Carranza's body to Mexico City. Whether Cabrera and other important persons were slain during the treacherous coup is not known. Carranza fled from this city on May 6 and took refuge in the mountains of Puebla.

AN ISLAND IN THE LAKE.

Chicago, May 20.—Your recent editorial suggesting an island for recreation purposes five or six miles off shore is interesting from several angles. I never was able to understand why any one is permitted to dump refuse in the lake, even if they are required to go out 13 miles, and I am amazed at the extent to which it is done.

You state that 843 scows loaded with dirt, some of which comes from foundations of loop buildings, some from dredging the river, and some from other sources, were dumped last year beyond the 13 mile limit. Is it the theory that because it is dumped this far out that all this slime, ooze, and filth does not pollute the clear waters of Lake Michigan?

One never sees clear water near the shores as in former years. Instead of the pearly white sands of days gone by you now find dark sand and sometimes even mud lining the shores and bathing beaches. I recently repaired a flush tank over a toilet in my house and found it half full of slimy, sandy ooze deposited there by the water that passed through. This, then, is what is in the water we drink, and where does it come from, if not from the 843 scows, loaded with filth, dumped 13 miles out?

We spend millions every year on a sanitary canal to carry the sewage of the city away from the lake and then dump one-half a million cubic feet of refuse yearly off shore. The limpid waters of the great lakes in all their purity and beauty are not alone a source of good water supply. They are a scenic wonder that future generations have a right to enjoy. Why should all the big cities on their shores be permitted to use them for a dumping ground for dirt?

If your island scheme found no other purpose than a place to keep this vast amount of refuse from being dumped in the lake it would be worth while. Add to this the uses you enumerate that such an island could be put to when built and it is a thought well worthy of consideration.

THE JURY SYSTEM.

Chicago, May 18.—Your editorial entitled "Tinkering with the Jury System," which appeared in this morning's edition, is not without merit, yet I wonder if your contention is entirely sound. The proposal to provide for less than unanimous jury verdicts in all but capital cases might, if accepted, prove more satisfying than the present unanimous rule.

It is not a matter of tinkering with our system, but simply one of trying to remedy a situation which at present is deplorable. If any harm should result I doubt that it could exceed the folly and injustice which are being perpetrated today. Certainly a great deal of the valuable time of our courts would be saved, where now it is being flagrantly wasted, and it is reasonable to conclude that a sensible majority of the members of a jury would render more serious and plausible verdicts.

Your editorial sets out that the defendant would, under the proposed reform, be denied a part of the protection to which he is entitled. As a matter of fact the offender is now afforded a protection which not only exceeds that which he ought under the circumstances to be allowed but in many instances amounts almost to immunity. Our sorriest plight lies not in our jurisprudence but in the failure of our juries to exert their power in bringing the wrongdoer to justice.

In closing I should like to say that so far as capital cases are concerned the jury should be abolished, and in its place ought to preside several judges. These men would at least clearly understand the issues involved and, being empowered to try the facts as well as the law, would be better able to render the justice that is now so sadly lacking.

Do we of this republic, gained at the cost of so much blood and suffering, still believe in the divine right of queens and dare to pay homage to a parasite whom the English require to adorn a traditional and meaningless throne?

No; our society folk are creating a new noblesse and, until they have a throne of their own, they will bow before the thrones of other nations.

HALF FORGOTTEN WATERWAYS.

River Forest, Ill., May 15.—Speaking of waterways for small craft, do you know that the Des Plaines river was declared navigable from its source within the boundaries of this state to the Illinois and Michigan canal, and held a public highway to remain open, free and unobstructed for the passage of all boats and watercraft of every description; also the Big Muddy river in Clay county to township 5 range 3, and the Fox river in Clay county to Watertown, approved and in force Feb. 28, 1839?

Do you know that the feeder connecting the Kankakee river with the Illinois and Michigan canal has been filled up and not used for many years; also the Calumet feeder connecting the Calumet river and the I. and M. canal and the Du Page feeder connecting the Fox river with the canal are both filled up?

The rail feeders have the same status as the Illinois and Michigan canal, must be kept in use and the right of way with 99 feet on both sides belong to the state and cannot be alienated without a majority vote of the people of the state.

Do you know that many big concerns are using this state property for commercial purposes and paying little or no rent? Especially is this true of the Insull properties. ORVILLE C. GAMES.

TAXES IN CRAWFORD COUNTY.

Flat Rock, Ill., May 20.—In reply to Mr. Dick McNeil of Maywood, Ill., I don't pay many taxes myself because I haven't accumulated many properties—yet, but my father pays $350 per year in taxes out of a $1,500 per year income. Why? Because he is honest and turns in his property to the assessor. I'll bet a dollar to a dime there isn't a man in Cook county can tie that. My father is a farmer and a Democrat. Perhaps that is why the Republican administration makes his taxes so high.

A prominent insurance man of Robinson, Ill., just now told me that a man he knew in Chicago told him he had lived in Chicago for years and owned property and never had paid any personal or real estate taxes and never saw an assessor. He said there were many others like him up there.

It is true, as Pat Garrett of Hines, Ill., says, there are many people in Crawford county who don't turn in their properties to the assessor. That is one reason why the honest ones who do have to pay such high taxes. However, the people of Crawford county could have built their own hard roads if they had chosen to do so. But we appreciate Chicago's helping us. Chicago had to have gasoline and couldn't avoid paying the tax unless they bootlegged their gasoline, which is being done now. Chicago isn't losing, though, because every fifth car we see down here is a Chicago car or truck.

My boss says I am all wet; that Chicago should have their share of the representatives in the state legislature according to the constitution, even if she doesn't pay her taxes, but I say Chicago can't keep her own affairs straightened out, and if she controlled the state she would tangle up the state affairs worse than they already are.

THE FEMININE STAMP.

Willmette, Ill., May 20.—I wonder what will be the reaction of women readers to the following Washington news item:

"The bureau is still working on the new 1½ cent Harding and 4 cent Taft stamps, and designs satisfactory to the postmaster general have not as yet been submitted at this writing. It is expected that the new stamps will be available in the early part of June."

The profile of the late ex-President Taft is to displace the likeness of Martha Washington, who has appeared on the 4 or 8 cent issues for the last twenty-seven years with but one short omission. Why pick on Martha? Why not drop Harding or Hayes, Harrison or Grover Cleveland, to make a place for Taft?

With Martha Washington displaced on the 4 center, the only woman to be thus honored by the postoffice department, there will be only men portrayed on the United States stamp issues.

RUSSIA ORDERS U. S. ENGINEERS OUT OF SIBERIA

British - American Mine Concession Halted.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, May 21.—American and British engineers employed on the Lena gold fields concession in Siberia have been ordered to leave Russia and all work on the Lena enterprises has been halted, according to the Moscow Isvestia. The paper says the government was obliged to dismiss the employés because of lack of money to pay their wages.

The concession, which is considered the most important in Russia, was given to a joint British-American company, arranged by Walter Brown, American engineer and friend of President Hoover, who appointed him head of the American relief administration which fought the Russian famine of 1921. After a number of trips to Moscow after the famine relief had ended, Mr. Brown obtained permission from the British Lena gold fields company to regain their property, a New York banking firm assisted in financing the deal.

Operated at a Profit.

The concession operated satisfactorily for several years, making large profits, and the company invested in new dredges and other machinery and began to develop other mines in Siberia.

Several months ago the company admitted having run into difficulties. It was claimed that the difficulties were due to a new soviet ruling forbidding the export of bullion from Russia and that their gold was tied up in the Moscow state bank.

Now, according to the Isvestia, the soviet government proposes to sue the Lena company for failing to keep 20,000 workers in the neighboring Alban gold fields supplied with provisions. The starving workers, says the paper, are deserting the fields.

Reds Accuse Concessioners.

The Isvestia does not claim that the concessioners were obliged by contract to supply the entire region with foodstuffs, but says that because of existing conditions they should have done so. Because of the present disorganization, the soviet government accused the company of sabotaging its agreement, and the chances of the concessioners to obtain their gold from the state bank are said to be slim.

The collapse of the Lena concession leaves Russia without a single important enterprise being run by foreign capital.

SOVIET AGENT IN U. S. KILLS SELF TO AVOID RECALL

Wichita, Kas., May 21.—(AP)—Rather than obey an order from the soviet government to return to Russia, V. A. Hatchatouroff, 37, sent to this country to study oil refining methods, committed suicide here today.

Translation of two notes left by Hatchatouroff revealed that he hated the soviet government for which he worked as an industrial reasearch student, and preferred death as an exile in America to a return to Russia while the present government is in power.

He fired a bullet into his head in his hotel room. He had lived here under the name of Roffia.

Danzig Protests to League Over New Polish Harbor

FREE CITY OF DANZIG, May 21.—(AP)—The Danzig senate has filed a protest against the Polish government with the commissioner of the league of nations alleging that Poland is not living up to the treaty of Versailles. Poland, instead of using to the full extent the entire harbor of Danzig as an outlet to the sea, is concentrating into converting nearby Gydnia into a Polish port, thus paralyzing Danzig.

THE NEW GENERAL

Blow-Out Proof Tire

More people are changing over to Generals than to any TWO other makes of tires

IN every part of the country, thousands of safety-seeking motorists are replacing their present tire equipment with the new Blow-Out Proof Dual-Balloon. Without qualification, it is the most important safety advancement in tire history.

You can't see a blowout coming. It hides under rubber that still looks good—and "blows" when you least expect it. A sudden swerve—a minor break in the pavement . . . a quick, hard push on the brake . . . it's that split second of tremendous strain that brings a blowout—and a crash. The very moment you have to trust your tires is the moment they fail you.

Split seconds that make you realize the priceless value of General's EXTRA MARGIN OF SAFETY

You never need risk your life again on doubtful tires. General's perfection of the Blow-Out Proof Tire gives you the absolute safety of freedom from blowouts . . . and far more.

The lowest pressure ever known, plus built-in rubber shock absorbers, give you easier riding with softer, closer-clinging traction. Skid-safe and Blow-Out Proof means full protection that lasts throughout the whole lifetime of its big mileage.

Exclusive Features:

1. Blow-Out Proof
2. Easier Riding
3. Extra Strength
4. Longer Life
5. Skid-Safe
6. Reduced Car Repairs
7. Saves Power and Gas
8. Easier Steering

You are 2 FEET from Trouble on a Crowded Boulevard

. . . . And Now A SPECIAL TRADE-IN Proposition!

NO matter what brand of tires you are using, no matter how far or how little they have run—our remarkable trade-in plan this week will let you enjoy the positive safety of the Blow-Out Proof Dual-Balloon at a surprisingly small cost! We're known as Trade-in Headquarters. We always have a big demand for used tires of every size and make which gives us a ready market for your old rubber. That's why our customers say of us, "Always the best trade-in deal." Drop in today!

Convenient payments if you do not wish to pay cash. Use our famous G. T. A. C. plan. It is financed by the General Factory. The only economical plan of its kind. No exhorbitant interest or charges.

WATERWAY BILL REVISED; GOES TO SENATE NOW

Authorizes 125 Millions for Canal Work.

Washington, D. C., May 21.—[Special.]—Revision of the house rivers and harbors bill was completed by the senate commerce committee tonight and the measure will be reported to the senate tomorrow or Friday. As finally agreed upon the bill carries authorizations amounting to upward of 125 million dollars as compared with 110 million dollars as passed by the house. Senator A. H. Vanderberg [Rep., Mich.] asserted that actual cost of all projects authorized would reach 335 million dollars. Chairman Hiram Johnson [Rep., Cal.] expressed confidence that the bill would be enacted into law before congress adjourns.

Tennessee Item Added.

The bill includes $7,500,000 for the completion of the controversial Illinois waterway project as approved by the committee last night. $7,500,000 for beginning the deepening of the upper Mississippi river from six to nine feet, a new authorization voted today, an authorization of $29,000,000 for deepening great lakes channels and an authorization permitting the government to take over the Erie and Oswego barge canals in New York state. One of the final items added to the measure by the committee was an authorization of $5,000,000 for improvement of the Tennessee river.

Senator Vandenberg made another unsuccessful effort tonight to incorporate in the Illinois waterway section a limitation of 1,500 cubic feet per second upon the diversion of water to be allowed at Chicago.

Diversion Proviso Rewritten.

As a result of the discussion together with new suggestions by advocates of the Illinois waterway the language of the proviso applying to water diversion was entirely rewritten. The revised proviso is entirely satisfactory to friends of the project and meets the wishes of Senator Vandenberg to a little greater extent than the house bill language. Senator Vandenberg, however, declared his intention to continue his fight for a diversion limitation on the floor of the senate.

The senate committee in approving the deepening of the upper Mississippi from six to nine feet reversed its action of last night when it accepted the house language. An appropriation of only $7,500,000 was authorized, although it is estimated that the ultimate cost of the project will be nearly 100 million dollars. Under the house bill it was provided that any work done in the upper Mississippi should be in harmony with an ultimate nine foot depth, but the nine foot project was not definitely authorized.

Did Dry Law or Sewage Ruin Dam Site? Jury Debates Issue

Whether prohibition or sewage has ruined the Hoffman dam site across the Des Plaines river at Lyons was the perplexing question put to a jury in Superior Judge Paul McWilliams' court yesterday. The point was raised by George Hoffman, proprietor of a recreation resort on the banks of the river near the dam, in a $100,000 damage suit against the villages of La Grange and Brookfield.

Attorney John J. Coburn, representing Hoffman, declared that sewage which the suburbs empty into Salt creek, which flows into the river above the dam, has polluted the water and driven people from the resort. In the old days merry boating parties plied the river while even merrier parties disported in the adjoining park, Coburn said.

Spent $250,000 on Park.

Hoffman was formerly a partner of Hoffman Bros., brewers. He testified that he has spent $250,000 in beautifying the park beside the dam, which was granted his family fifty years ago for the operation of a grist mill. He has built two inns on the grounds, which have been leased to the present owners. The sewage from the two suburbs has driven merry makers from the river, he said. He estimated that his boating business netted him $20,000 a year in former days. The action was brought in 1927.

Attorney Roy Irwin, representing the villages, declared that the boating business was ruined by prohibition and not by the pollution of sewage. With the resulting end of the beer gardens the boating was no longer an attraction to the convivially minded, he declared, asserting that if the law were repealed boaters would return even though the river be muddy with filth.

Offer Other Defense.

The villages also offered the defense that the river is polluted by other communities as far north as Wheeling so that the sewage emptied by the defendant suburbs is of little consequence. Attorneys said that the sewage of the suburbs is rendered harmless by reduction tanks.

The case was submitted to the jury early in the afternoon. After seven hours the jury was still debating the question. If they arrive at an agreement early today they are to return a sealed verdict.

In 1928 the sanitary district constructed a sluiceway around the dam when it was charged that the dam was a menace in that it intercepted the proper flow of sewage. Hoffman had repeatedly refused to open the dam.

FRANCE AND ITALY PLAN RACE TO DEVELOP AFRICA

Propose Railways Far Into Interior.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 21.—Racing for supremacy in the exploitation of the black continent, France and Italy are planning trans-Saharan railways, thrusting steel lines across the desert and penetrating deeply into the untold wealth of equatorial Africa.

The Paris and Rome governments seek to drain the products of this vast territory to the Mediterranean through their respective territories, realizing that the economic and commercial elements involved will inevitably reflect on their political prestige and add immense military values and resources.

Propose Three Schemes.

Following President Doumergue's visit to Algeria, pressure for the immediate construction of a French Saharan railway has redoubled. Parliamentary committees have already investigated the proposition and have proposed three schemes after touring 18,000 miles over the desert. Two of the proposed routes traverse Morocco to the south, and the third descends from Algeria.

Simultaneously with Premier Mussolini's fiery speeches recently at Florence and Leghorn, the Fascist press has burst out with demands that the Fascist government develop a route to the south through Tripoli to Lake Tchad, which is a pivotal strategic point in equatorial Africa, aside from being the shortest line.

A Five Year Job.

French technical experts assert that the trans-Saharan route to the Niger river could be completed in less than five years with improved methods of track laying. They propose the use of oil burning engines, using fuel obtained from local plant life. Linking up with the French colonial empire rail system at Timbuktu, the trans-Saharan would give a direct connection at Oran across the narrow part of the Mediterranean with the French ports of Port Vendres and Marseilles.

The Milan newspaper Ambrosiana said today.

"The shortest route from the equatorial lakes to the Mediterranean is by way of Tripoli, and Italy must do everything possible to prevent natural lines of commerce between the center of the black continent and the Mediterranean being deviated through other nations' territories."

Spain Eyes Situation.

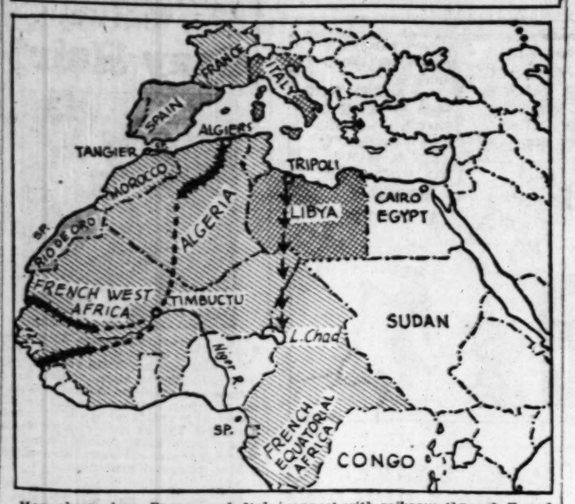
Le Temps tonight said it is inevitable that a great railway line, penetrating clear down through Africa to the Cape of Good Hope, must be connected up to the Mediterranean.

Spain is watching this rivalry closely and is preparing herself to seize some of this important traffic by constructing a standard gauge line from Algeciras straight north through Madrid to Bordeaux, France.

But the Spanish ambition may be thwarted by the fact that Tangier is the sole Mediterranean port available that is internationalized, and Spanish Morocco is entirely hemmed around by the French colony.

The Madrid government is envisaging the possibility of tunneling under the Straits of Gibraltar for through traffic without changing cars. But this is considered financially impractical at present.

RACE TO DEVELOP AFRICA



Map shows how France and Italy plan race to develop equatorial Africa by building railways across the Sahara desert far into the interior, the untold wealth of which has not been exploited.

France has three plans under consideration. The first provides for a railway across the Sahara from Algiers to Timbuctoo, where it would connect with railways through French West Africa to the Atlantic. The other two plans are to run south through Morocco to Timbuctoo. No announcement has been made what the Moroccan terminals would be.

CATCH BANDITS ON STREET CAR; CROWD IN PANIC

Two holdup men were captured on a Chicago avenue street car at State street yesterday, but because the passengers on the well filled car thought detectives, who entered front and rear doors with drawn revolvers after the robbers were themselves bandits, there was almost a panic.

The robbers were trailed to the street car after they got $21 from the manager of an Atlantic and Pacific store at 893 North State street. Policeman William Dyra stopped the car at State street as it was starting to move east as the traffic lights changed.

The two robbers gave their names as Henry Martin, 1052 West Madison street, and Daniel Healy, 675 North Clark street.

Son of Former Judge Is Arrested on Check Charge

Edward J. Mahoney, 36 years old, of 1649 Pratt boulevard, an insurance salesman, was arrested yesterday charged with passing worthless checks to the amount of $3,000. He told officials at the detective bureau that he had two children and was deeply in debt. He is a son of the late John A. Mahoney, who was a municipal court judge.

Census Gives Population of Sweden as 6,120,080

STOCKHOLM, May 21.—(AP)—Sweden has just finished a census and the final figures show that the population is 6,120,080. During 1929 the number increased 14,890, which is considered an exceptionally low figure. Of the major cities Stockholm showed the largest gain and will probably have more than half a million population by the end of the current year.

10,000 CHILDREN TAKE PART IN SCHOOL FETE

The first of Cook county community festivals was held yesterday in the Thatcher Woods forest preserve. More than 10,000 county grade school children participated in the festivities in which the district champions in the annual county school health contest were selected.

Robert Amerant, 12 years old, of Elmwood Park was named the healthiest boy and Margaret Shannon, 12 years old, of River Grove, the healthiest girl. The two will compete with representatives of the other divisions in the final contest to be held in the county building in June.

Similar contests are to be held at the Schiller Park preserve on May 26, at Deer Grove on May 27, at Glenwood on May 28, at Morton Grove on May 29, and at Swallows Cliff on June 6. All of the festivals are under the supervision of County Superintendent of Schools Edward J. Tobin.

THEATER CHAINS SEEK $2,744,250 FROM FILM MEN

Producers Hold Monopoly, It Is Charged.

New York, May 21.—[Special.]—Damages totaling $2,744,250 are asked of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., and its members, comprising the majority of the film producers and distributors in the country, in an action filed today in the United States District court by two theater chain operators of Indianapolis.

The action, filed under the Clayton act governing trusts and monopolies by the F. J. Rembusch Enterprises, Inc., and the Capitol Amusement company, grows out of the promulgation and enforcement of the so-called uniform exhibition contracts and its compulsory arbitration provisions.

Triple Award Sought.

The Rembusch Enterprises allege damages of $499,550 and ask that the exemplary damage clause of the Clayton act be invoked, giving them a triple award of $1,498,650. The Capitol Amusement company alleges actual damages of $415,200 and asks an award of $1,245,600.

The complaint filed today follows the general outline of the action of the department of justice against approximately the same defendants which was dismissed by Judge Thomas D. Thacher on the ground that the government had failed to show any specific damages against a particular exhibitor.

In this action the plaintiffs charge specifically that theaters of their respective chain have been reduced from profitable enterprises to the point where they show substantial deficits as a result of the alleged campaign of monopolism.

Charge Forced Settlements.

The plaintiffs charge that the offending contracts forced exhibitors to settle differences with producers and distributors through film boards of trade, described as "extralegal courts" established by the defendants in key cities of the country.

The defendants, the complaint asserts, control about 95 per cent of the production and 98 per cent of the distribution of the motion picture output of the United States and through a system of blacklisting recalcitrant independent exhibitors set up a virtual control.

Charges Theaters Overcharged.

Washington, D. C., May 21.—(AP)—Charges that the American Telephone and Telegraph company and its subsidiaries are "tyrannizing" the motion picture industry through control of patents were made today before the senate patents committee.

C. C. Colby of Canton, Mass., chairman of the board of directors of the audio research foundation, who made the assertion, added that motion picture theater owners have paid or contracted to pay $25,000,000 more than they would have had to pay independent manufacturers for installation of sound picture equipment.

The telephone companies have "forced" the theaters, Colby said, to agree to pay an additional $50,000,000 for service during the next ten years.

Colby and other witnesses indorsed a bill by Senator Dill [Dem., Del.], to make patents unenforceable if use of them constitutes violation of the anti-trust laws.

Radio Music Honors Deeds of Lindbergh

Orchestral Program Proves of Interest.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

The important New York orchestral program through W-G-N, 7:30 to 8, was devoted to music honoring or musically illustrating the achievements of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. The titles fittingly were "Flight," "Skyward," "Soaring," "Myster of Night," "Air de Ballet," "Spares," "Hands Across the Sea," and so on.

That interesting bass solo, "Big Bass Viol," sung by Wilfred Glenn, was but one of the musical messages that made the New York program through W-G-N, 8:30 to 9:30, the interesting hour it always is. The Revelers' quartet, a regular feature on this program, is distinctive in everything it does.

A special WPG [Atlantic City] program through WMAQ, 9:30 to 10, proved to be the novelty of the evening. One pick-up number came from Philadelphia, the Philadelphia harmonica band of sixty pieces playing the "Poet and Peasant" overture. Another pick-up was a dance orchestra from Detroit.

The history of Chicagoland from 1816 to 1835 was graphically narrated by Quin Ryan from W-G-N, 8 to 8:30. Doing a little research of my own I find that during this period, when the Indians were bidding Chicagoland adieu forever, Haydn, Beethoven, Schubert, Mendelssohn, Chopin, and Schumann were busy in the old world creating masterpieces which we are now hearing from radio stations in radioland every day.

RICH RACE HORSE OWNER REPORTS $35,000 DEMAND

Belleville, Ill., May 21.—(AP)—William Reichart Jr., wealthy race horse owner and milling man, Monday received a telegram demanding $35,000, it was learned today, which he turned over to St. Clair county authorities. He refused to discuss the affair today, saying officials had warned him to keep it out of the papers.

Reichart and his brother operate mills here and at Freeburg, Ill., and their race horse string includes Brown Wisdom and My Dandy, consistent winners at the present Fairmount meeting.

Nine men, principally gamblers and bookmakers, have been kidnaped and held for ransom in the St. Louis district in recent months. A total of $150,000 is reported to have been paid for their release.

CANADIAN PREXY TAKES CRACK AT U.S. HIGH SCHOOLS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., May 21.—Uncle Sam's high school system, noted for its fine buildings, grounds, and stadiums, was rapped today at the annual meeting of the Royal Society of Canada. Sir Robert Falconer, president of the University of Toronto, declared the average Canadian high school graduate is two years behind the British student about to enter university. He placed the blame on the fact that Canada's high school system was derived to a very considerable extent from that of the United States.

It was suggested by the Toronto educationalist that pupils begin their high school work at the ages of 11 or 12. At 18 years, he said, it should be possible to have a quality of student who could enter upon his higher education and eliminate the first two years of the present university course. This would save both time and money and result in scholarship equal to that of entrance students in European universities.

Sir Robert also voiced a warning that universities in the United States are still drawing too many Canadian university graduates.

EX-MAYOR ONCE SAVED FROM MOB AT OMAHA DIES

Smith was mayor from 1919 to 1921, and was the only man to defeat the late James C. Dahlman for that office.

In 1919 Smith was seized by a mob storming the courthouse in search of a Negro prisoner as he sought to pacify them. He was saved by Ben Danbaum, then a former member of the police force and later chief of detectives, when Danbaum fought his way through the mob and led Smith to a waiting car.

Since his retirement from office, Smith had been practicing law. He was born in Henry county, Iowa.

Evangelist Sentenced for Shooting Knife Assailant

Quincy, Ill., May 21.—[Special.]—The Rev. Everett Mikel, an evangelist, was sentenced from one to fourteen years today by Judge Fred G. Wolfe on a charge of assault with intent to kill. He shot Everett Underwood, who came into the preacher's room at a hotel drunk and flourishing a knife. The judge asked the preacher if he was guilty of shooting Underwood. The preacher replied, "Yes, I shot him, for he was coming at me with a knife and I saw he was drunk." The judge said he could do nothing but sentence him after he had pleaded guilty.

FAVORS TRADED FOR VOTES HERE, NYE INFORMED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 21.—[Special.]—Investigation into expenditures in the recent Illinois senatorial primary will include not only inquiry into the amounts spent by the various candidates and campaign methods but also the extent to which political influence, promises, and patronage were used to secure votes, it was asserted today by Senator G. P. Nye [Rep., N. D.], chairman of the special investigating committee.

Rumors that Chicago criminals credited with political power were given favored consideration by officials in one camp or another to influence the votes they controlled have been heard by the committee, according to Nye.

"The expenditure of influence or the use of promises is quite as important as the use of money in a campaign, and the committee does not propose to overlook some of the rumors which have come in," said the senator.

The committee was authorized by senate resolution to investigate the campaign expenditures of the various candidates for the United States senate, the names of persons, firms, or corporations subscribing, the amount contributed, the method of expenditures of said sums, and all facts in relation thereto, not only as to the subscriptions of money and expenditures thereof, but as to the use of any other means or influence, including the promise or use of patronage, and all other facts in relation thereto, which would not only be of public interest, but which would aid the senate in enacting any remedial legislation or in deciding any contest which might be instituted involving the right to a seat in the United States senate."

BROWN RAIDER, DEAD AT 95, GETS SOLDIER BURIAL

Boston, Mass., May 21.—(AP)—Francis K. Knight, 95, known here as the last of John Brown's raiders, was given a soldier's burial today. Members of the G. A. R. stood about the grave as he was laid to rest in an Everett cemetery.

Knight was born at Coventry, Vt., in 1835. As a young man he was active in anti-slavery agitation in Kansas and before the civil war had joined John Brown's band. At the outbreak of the war he enlisted in the 1st Kansas regiment. With the return of peace, he came to this city and settled in the Charlestown section. Last Monday he fell down a flight of stairs, suffering injuries which caused his death. His wife died a week previously.

LAKE GRAVEL TO REDUCE BUILDING COSTS, IS CLAIM

The discovery of large gravel deposits in the southern end of Lake Michigan will cut the cost of this material for construction work, according to J. C. Hoskins of the Marine Dredge and Gravel company of Chicago. The company yesterday exhibited in the river near Wabash avenue the steamboat Brazil, which, Mr. Hoskins said, was built to gather the gravel from the lake bed and wash and screen it for delivery.

"The gravel for construction work heretofore has been taken from land pits," said Mr. Hoskins. "The boat is equipped with pumps to suck the gravel from a 60 foot depth and a separator to take out the sand. This method will make a reduction of 25 per cent in the cost of gravel."

The low bids submitted for the construction of the first section of the outer link bridge were made possible by the new method of obtaining gravel at a reduced cost, according to Mr. Hoskins.

WOLFE DROPS 400 STREETCLEANERS IN ONE MONTH

Exceeds Budget Despite Service Cuts.

Four hundred laborers of the street cleaning and garbage removal force have been discharged in the last month, city hall records showed yesterday. The street department is operated under the direction of Commissioner of Public Works Wolfe.

The order for the last layoff was given last Thursday at a meeting of the fifty ward superintendents. They were told that the appropriations in each ward would have to be cut five per cent in addition to the reductions made previously. The cut was absorbed by the discharge of approximately 100 men.

Exceed Fund Allotment.

One result of the layoffs has been the accumulation of garbage in alleys, according to complaints received by Commissioner Wolfe. The present service calls for removal of garbage once a month and the sweeping of streets which have transit lines three times a week. The inside streets, according to Commissioner Wolfe, have practically no cleaning service.

"At this time," wrote Commissioner Wolfe to the council finance committee, "the wards have overexpended the allotment for the first three and one-half months of the year by $269,800. The expense of snow removal was $302,000. We see the futility of trying to keep within our appropriation even though we give an indifferent service.

Defend Time of Layoff.

"The collection of garbage should be accelerated in hot weather. The department needs an additional appropriation of $1,509,700 in order to pick up garbage and ashes weekly, sweep the surface line streets daily, and give the inside streets a cleaning once every two or three weeks."

The layoff of men began shortly after the April 8 primary and this fact was commented upon by members of the city council. Officials of the street department defended the layoff at that time, declaring that the March snowstorm prohibited the discharge of any employes at an earlier date.

"The department has exceeded the proportionate rate at which the appropriation should have been expended," said one official, "and we are now trying to live within the remainder of the appropriation."

U. S. Mothers Bow at Mounds In Argonne Where Sons Lie

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROMAGNE-SOUS-MONTFAUCON, France, May 21.—"This looks so restful." Standing on a green hillside, with the smoky ridges of the Argonne running in a blue haze into the distance, a gold star mother here this morning looked out over the crosses, row on row, that mark the graves of some 14,000 American soldiers, and in those simple words expressed the common realization of the 108 mothers in the group that here was peace.

The mothers were scattered singly or in little groups throughout the cemetery. Some were sobbing hysterically, some were kneeling beside the graves, while some—and these were the most tragic of all—stood in silence, suddenly realizing that twelve years had blotted out everything but an impotent sense of loss.

Brings Wreath from Ohio.

The visit of the group lasted two hours and was terminated by rain. One mother carried a wreath of artificial flowers all the way from Middletown, O. Others laid wreaths of evergreens intertwined with pansies and carnations.

Following luncheon, close by the cemetery, the mothers returned to Verdun by way of Montfaucon, where the Americans suffered some of the heaviest losses in the war. Their shell fire, just before the successful attack, completely destroyed the village. Montfaucon has since been rebuilt, but lower on the hill, and the old town is nothing but a wilderness of shattered dugouts and gaunt skeletons of houses. It was on top of this hill, which commands a view of the whole Verdun region, that the German crown prince, safely protected from stray shells, watched through a giant periscope the battle of Verdun in 1916.

The observation tower used by the prince was somehow preserved from shell fire, but suddenly collapsed one stormy night five years ago and now is nothing but ruins.

Pillbox Ruins Remain.

On the way down from Montfaucon pillboxes that today are only tangles every ridge is littered with concrete of steel rails and crumbled cement, but which housed deadly machine guns that for four years checked every attack.

It is easy to see how the machine gun dominated all other factors in the war until by the sheer force of explosives the majority of these death traps were blown to bits. No bombardment could get them all, however, and that is the main reason why there are 14,000 American soldiers buried in the Romagne cemetery.

Visit Peace Treaty Site.

PARIS, May 21.—(AP)—The visiting American gold star mothers had a perfect health record today, not a single case of illness being reported from the doctors attending the five groups scattered throughout France. The Paris group of 16 mothers motored again to Suresnes cemetery after luncheon and visited Versailles, where the peace treaty was signed.

Receive Mementos of Trip.

ST. QUENTIN, May 21.—(AP)—American war mothers whose sons lie in the Bony cemetery today found their grief shared by the people of this city, which was half destroyed in the war. The city itself had a printed card of remembrance bearing each mother's name and the city's coat of arms.

23 See Thiaucourt Graves.

THIACOURT, May 21.—(AP)—Here in the American Military cemetery, where more than 4,000 lie buried, 23 gold star mothers today saw their sons' graves. Wreaths of flowers were prepared for them and each mother placed some on the graves.

View American Memorial.

CHATEAU THIERRY, May 21.—(AP)—Seventeen gold star mothers today saw the spot where their American sons fell in the determined stand that stopped the German advance toward Paris in 1918. They were received afterward at the Methodist Memorial and then went to the top of the famous hill 204 to see the American monument there nearing completion.

91 Year Old Mother Sails.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 21.—Another contingent of gold star mothers, one of them 91 years old, sailed for France today on the United States liner George Washington to visit the graves of their sons. Mrs. Elizabeth Hutchins of Oakland, Cal., the oldest of the contingent and mother of a boy killed in the St. Mihiel offensive, was accompanied by a special nurse provided by the government because of her extreme age.

TURNS ON GAS TO END LIFE.

Lee Burt White, 51 years old, a waiter, put a pillow on a four burner gas range yesterday in the single room in which he and Mrs. White lived at 25 West Huron street, lay his head on it, and turned on the gas. He was dead when found.

IKE BLOOM BALKS ON TESTIFYING IN SANITARY QUIZ

Perjury Threats Made to Recalcitrant Witnesses.

First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup admitted yesterday that many of the witnesses he has called before the special grand jury investigating sanitary district conditions under the régime of Timothy J. Crowe as president have not given the testimony he expected from them. As a result, he said, perjury indictments might be expected in the near future.

Ike Bloom, one time owner of a well known south side café, is the latest recalcitrant witness before the jury. He spent several hours before the jury yesterday and was ordered to return again this morning, at which time he was told "he would be fixed" for his attitude before the jury.

Says Bloom Faces Prison.

"Bloom will talk before that grand jury or I will send him to the penitentiary," said Prosecutor Northup as he emerged from the grand jury room yesterday.

Bloom, who is crippled, is reported to have complained to his attorneys that Prosecutor Northup was trying to get him to make admission about matters of which he had no knowledge.

William J. Connors, 42d ward Democratic chieftain, is to be called back before the jury today. Prosecutor Northup told him on Monday that he is gong to grant him immunity under the special bribery statute and make him testify, it is reported. Connors denied any knowledge of any bribery.

Cullerton to Be Recalled.

Maurice [Mossy] Cullerton, southwest side Democratic leader, is also scheduled for another session with the grand jury today. He, too, is reported to have been a recalitrant witness.

The grand jury so far has taken up matters which were investigated more than one year ago and on which indictments were returned, but not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office. The reason for this, it is reported, is because George L. Chamberlain, head of the U. S. A. company, electrical contractors, cannot be found by detectives. Northup announced beforehand that he was serving a subpoena on Chamberlain, and now neither he nor his wife, Louise, can be found.

Circulate Petitions Asking Ouster of Detroit Mayor

Detroit, Mich., May 21.—(AP)—Petitions asking the recall of Mayor Charles Bowles made their appearance late today, only a few hours after the mayor had formally discharged Harold H. Emmons as police commissioner. Twelve charges are cited, among them that the mayor had "tolerated lawlessness by law enforcement agencies."

Mothers, it's for you

. . . this new, delicious cereal with a "VEGETABLE EFFECT"

. . . to help you regulate your children's health in a manner so attractive that they give you complete cooperation in a most delightful way.

HEINZ of "57" fame now offers oven-toasted, crunchy, crisp, delicious rice flakes with bulk and roughage qualities similar to those of vegetables . . . a food that practically every child is fond of—plus effects that you, perhaps, have had to struggle for till now. Think what this means to you! Now meals can be "happier"; and mothers and children can be better pals.

HIDDEN IN ATTRACTION

No, this isn't a bran-food. All the benefits are hidden in the daintiest of texture and most delicious flavor you have ever known in flaked foods.

By a special process owned and used by HEINZ exclusively, a fine food-substance known as vegetable-cellulose—a part of rice itself—is retained in the flakes.

This food-substance increases in bulk, or volume, four to six times when moisture is absorbed after eating.

Thus it forms one of the mildest, gentlest, yet most effective types of bulk and roughage that Science knows—the same type, in fact, as that contained in vegetables themselves—not harsh or irritant in any way. In the form used by HEINZ its preparation costs much more than the rice grain itself, yet you pay no more. No other cereal of any kind provides this feature. HEINZ Rice Flakes alone supply it.

REAL IMPROVEMENT

Let your children try these alluring rice flakes. Serve twice daily for one week—in the morning or for dessert at lunch or dinner—to start the benefits; once daily thereafter to maintain them.

See how children like HEINZ Rice Flakes—then how they begin to brighten and improve. If they prefer others, or if you don't notice real improvement in health-habits in one week, your grocer will gladly refund the purchase price.

Remember that this important "vegetable effect" comes only in HEINZ Rice Flakes, so when you order be sure to insist on HEINZ.

All the usual energizing food value of rice is included, so this new value in HEINZ Rice Flakes is pure gain to you.

Just as good for grown-ups as for children, so let your men folks also have HEINZ Rice Flakes.

"That cellulose is both a natural and valuable food constituent is evident.

That it is practically essential is not too extravagant a claim.

It is particularly high in such vegetables as celery, lettuce, cabbage, spinach and asparagus.

*Fellow, Mellon Institute of Industrial Research.

WHY WRESTLE? MAT CHAMPION SOLVES RIDDLE

Some Things Worse, Sonnenberg Says.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., May 21.—He came into the diner as the train crashed by the cement works in Gary, Ind., and took a chair opposite mine at one of the small tables. Looking him over with that rather sulky stealth which strangers show one another on trains, I noticed that his right ear was gnarled like a swollen dried apple. The hands, now holding the menu, were thick, strong hands with finger nails as big as nickels, and I first thought he might be a fighter. But, after a time, he asked for the sugar and, like water leaking through a pinhole in a bucket, acquaintance came through this little opening.

He said his name was Sonnenberg—Gus Sonnenberg, who calls himself the heavyweight wrestling champion of the world. Among those who interest themselves in wrestling, there is some dispute as to whether he is champion or not, but I am not one of those and so the controversy did not come up.

Why He Won't Meet Shikat.

I did ask him, once, why he would not take on Dick Shikat, the bull of Jack Curley's herd of wrestlers, who also claims to be champion, and settle the thing, not for any sporting or chivalrous reason, but because such a bout, properly publicized and produced in some ball yard, would draw a big gate.

He said he was afraid of being jobbed by some referee at the instigation of some mob of gunmen and I had to admit that there was much in what he said, because the boxing commissions which also purport to govern wrestling, have yielded up control to murderers and brothel keepers and thieves.

Mr. Sonnenberg wrestled 113 times last year and is now carrying on at a slightly diminished rate and laying by his money, thousands of dollars every week. He is 30 years old, born when his father was 60 and his mother more than 50. They had produced one family, up in the peninsula of Michigan, but lost seven children in one year in a typhoid epidemic. So they had another family and Gus was the last of thirteen.

Tells How He Changed Schools.

I asked him about the report that he got $2,500 to quit the Dartmouth team and play out his remaining two years of intercollegiate football at the University of Detroit, back in his college days, just after the war.

"No, it wasn't $2,500," he said. "I got $500 to pay off my debts at Dartmouth, and beyond this they gave me a scholarship and a job teaching manual training, geology and astronomy in a public high school in Detroit. This job paid me $150 a month at first and about $200 a month, later on. The education at Detroit was as good as the one I was getting at Dartmouth and I was tired of scrubbing floors, stoking a furnace, piling up dirty dishes in a lunchroom and pressing clothes for the barest kind of living.

"I went to Dartmouth because a Dartmouth alumnus had told me all about the wonderful atmosphere of the place.

What Price Education?

"My day began at 5 in the morning. I was firing a furnace for a whole city block. At 6 o'clock I reported to the Grill café, and worked as a bus boy, stacking the soiled dishes. This isn't esthetic work. At 8 o'clock I reported for class. From 1 until 2 I was back in the Grill café. I stacked millions of dishes, for 20 cents an hour, and scrubbed the floor on my hands and knees. After class in the afternoons, from 5:30 until 7:30, I stacked dishes again. I saw dishes and forks and spoons with old egg and gravy on them, and the soggy soles of pie crust, in my boyhood dreams at Dartmouth.

"At 8 o'clock I would start the rounds of the dormitories, collecting suits for a cooperative pressing club. For $5 a year you could send your suits as often as you liked. I didn't belong to the pressing club. I had only one suit, anyway, and, besides, I would have had to press it myself. We had one of those steam pressers and I was paid 2½ cents a suit.

"I finished delivering clothes at

POT POURRI.

GARRY HERRMANN, we are informed, will receive a pension of $8 weekly from the International Typographical union, of which he was a life member and to which he paid dues through all the years after he left the ranks of printers.

Garry Herrmann, baseball magnate and one time political power in Cincinnati, was a "good fellow." He was a spender. His various salaries were just a drop in the bucket to his expenses in the days when he was the self-appointed host at gatherings of baseball moguls. The door to Garry's hotel quarters always was open and there always was a bottle on the table on such occasions.

We recall once when Garry entertained in Chicago at a well known cafe whose reputation, even in those pre-war days, was none too savory. The check ran to four figures, for which he gave a check. It probably was an overcharge, but the astute proprietor saw how easy was the entertainer, and the next day presented another bill for $100 more, alleging a wine charge had been overlooked. Garry paid that, too, with, "I'm no doubt being robbed, but you can't argue about this thing."

Now Garry will receive a pension of $8 a week, in addition to his baseball annuity. If any one can draw a moral from this, they're welcome to it.

On the other hand, we find "Curly" Brown, builder of Arlington, leaving an estate of $650,000. If he had kept out of racing and the warfare he always precipitated it would have been several times that amount. So far as we know, he never operated at a profit any of the race tracks which he built. There was money made in Havana, but it came from the casino, not the race track.

If you haven't a golf foursome already scheduled for Saturday afternoon, remember, there's a Big Ten track and field meet at Dyche stadium. The class of competitors is considerably above average in several running events.

Track and Basketball.

It is difficult for The Wake to understand the differentiation in principle between approving Stagg's interscholastic track and field meet and his national scholastic basketball tourney. The former will be sanctioned and the latter refused a sanction by the National High School association. To a mere outsider it would seem "overemphasis of athletics" applied as much to one as the other. Of course, track meets seldom are profitable at the gate, while cage tourneys are.

Col. Winn May Have to Build Another Gate

The Washington Park Jockey club plans to start court proceedings today against Dr. and Mrs. R. V. Spencer, who have erected a fence across the main automobile entrance to the race track. The Spencers claim ownership to a narrow strip of land which lies between Halsted street and the gate.

Col. Matt Winn, representing Washington Park, said last night that the club will ask an injunction to restrain the Spencers from blocking the gate and possibly file suit for damages. He said that if court action is delayed, a new entrance will be made before the race meeting opens on Monday.

An interurban railway line once ran along the disputed strip. Col. Winn maintains that when it was abandoned by the railway it reverted to the Washington Park Jockey club. The Spencers contend that they hold title to the land and leased it to the interurban company. They said they are willing to sell it to the jockey club for a reasonable price but fear that their title will be jeopardized if it continues to be used as a thoroughfare.

IOWA TO SEEK REINSTATEMENT OF 8 ATHLETES

"Minor Infractions" Rule to Be Invoked.

Iowa City, Ia., May 21.—[Special.]—Another attempt will be made by the University of Iowa at the meeting of the faculty committee of the Western Conference in Chicago Friday night to have the Big Ten reinstate eight Hawkeye athletes who were declared ineligible last December as part of the price for Iowa's restoration to good standing in the conference.

The eight athletes are those remaining from a list of fourteen who were barred by Hawkeye officials last winter. The others have become ineligible for further competition by graduation or, as in the case of Oran H. Pape, football star, by an admission of charges of professionalism.

Barred for Taking Loans.

Iowa's appeal will be made under the conference "minor infractions" rule. The athletes were barred at the insistence of the Big Ten for receiving loans from an alleged "slush fund."

When Iowa was restored to good standing in the conference, the Big Ten faculty representatives warned the Hawkeyes against further attempts at that time to have the athletes reinstated.

Reports that the Old Gold officials intended to press their appeal for reinstatement was confirmed, however, when it was disclosed today that Mike Farroh, co-captain-elect of the football team and one of the ineligible athletes, will be taken to Evanston with the Hawkeye track squad in the hope of entering him in the discus throw should he be restored to good standing.

Others for whom the appeal will be made are Boyd Liddle, swimmer; Floyd Mitchell, Doyal Plunkitt and Laurence Benson, basketball players; Irving Nelson, three-sport star; and Pete Affre, football reserve.

IT'S NEWS TO GRIFFITH.

When informed last night that Iowa would present its "ineligibles" for conference action, Maj. John L. Griffith, Big Ten commissioner of athletics, said it was the first he had heard of the matter.

"I had not known Iowa was contemplating this action," Maj. Griffith said, "and I know of no correspondence with the University of Iowa which would reopen the case."

Cubs Use Rookie Hurlers; Lose to Pittsburgh, 10 to 3

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 21.—The Cubs continue to grope around in the wilderness in quest of the skill that last year lifted them to a title. Today a rookie pitcher was summoned to lead them out of the woods. He stumbled and fell just as the veteran members of the staff have been stumbling for a month, and the titleholders curled up feebly by a 10 to 3 score in the opener of a four day visit with the Pirates.

Bud Teachout, the ex-collegian who works with his left arm, was drawn from the reserves with the idea of showing the world that the Cubs might be down but not out. All that Bud did was to start well. Then after two innings the bad news began to strike him, and it continued to circulate freely until he was removed at the end of the sixth.

By that time the scoreboard was decorated with seven Pirate runs and a final cluster of three more was hung up in the seventh when Lynn Nelson, another hopeful who hasn't yet budded, was summoned. There were only a dozen hits delivered against this pair, but not many of them went to waste.

Murderers' Row Silent.

It appears as if Manager McCarthy can make use of a few men adept in the art of handling a bat as well as a new supply of pitchers. Today the attack that frequently has been known to flatten everything opposing it again was reduced to a feather. In five innings there were only three blows off Ray Kremer. In the sixth it was a bit better. Three hits, one of them a homer by Kiki Cuyler, accounted for the Cubs' only runs. After that they went into another spell of passive resistance, but they at least managed to bring about Kremer's removal in the seventh. However, passes, and not hits, did it.

Having tried both veterans and rookies on the mound, McCarthy might consult the ouija board before making tomorrow's choice. He wants to start Bob Osborn, but at the last moment might turn to Hal Carlson. Swetonic is expected to start for the Pirates.

Teachout Strong at Start.

Until Teachout was scored on once in the third he had kept the Pirates in their place. In two innings only one single marred his performance. This was a scratch to short off the bat of Pie Traynor, who was back in action to determine whether his eyesight is normal.

Opening the third, Kremer, ordinarily a hitter of no importance, swung at the first pitch and the ball looped down into the right field corner, where Heathcote couldn't reach it. Kremer made two bases on the wallop. Flagstead filed deep to Heathcote, and after the catch Kremer made what appeared to be a foolhardy start for third, but he made it on Cliff's wide throw in. Then Grantham shoved the run home by singling to right.

Pirates Score Three Times.

Three Pirate runs were scored in the fourth. Suhr led off with a single to left. Traynor bunted in front of the plate. Hartnett endeavored to head off Suhr at second, but the throw was late and both men were safe. Bool clouted a single to left, scoring Suhr and placing Traynor on third. Bool moved to second on the return throw. Bartell then hit to right, Traynor and Bool romping home. Teachout managed to nip the next three batters.

The Cubs' attack in the front half of the game was not boisterous, but they started as if they were about to engage in a big afternoon. English opened with a double, but nobody could assist him. The next hit was a single off Grimm's bat with one out in the second. He didn't progress. In the third English survived on a fumble by Kremer. He, too, was left on base. Then in the fifth a lucky stab stopped them. Bell singled for a starter, and with one out Teachout walked. English hit a hard liner toward right, but Suhr speared it with

BY EDWARD BURNS.

It's beginning to appear that this boy, Ted Lyons, is going to cinch his job on the 1930 Chicago White Sox. Yesterday he pitched his seventh and the Sox's twelfth victory of the season, the Detroit Tigers being the crushed contenders. The score was 9 to 3. It was also Lyons' fifth consecutive triumph.

While Ted may be secure with the Sox, he'd better be careful, or he'll be thrown out of the National Brotherhood of Baseball Pitchers on charges of versatility. Yesterday Ted continued his rôle of fielder par excellence and made three hits, two of them with two out, when there was desperate need for the runs which ensued.

Drives in First Sox Run.

With the score standing 1 to 0 against him in the last of the fifth, two out, Bill Kamm on third, and Johnny Riddle on first, Ted singled, scoring Kamm with the tying run and putting Riddle on third, whence Johnny scored the second run of the inning.

In the last of the seventh, with the score still 2 to 1, Ted fortified against an eighth inning Detroit rally which followed. After two were out he drove in Riddle with the third Sox run and later scored what proved to be the winning run.

In the next inning he threw in a single for good measure. This one scored Kamm and sent Riddle from first to third, after which Johnny scored his third run without having made a hit himself.

In the matter of fielding Ted's principal contribution was to launch a double play which ended a Tiger threat in the fourth. He also halted a party which the Tigers had under way in the fifth by nice fielding of a mean bounder, hit by Johnson, to end the inning.

A Moral in Tonsils.

Before we turn to other factors in the game we'd like to set down a little study in contrasts, the examples being Ted Lyons with his tonsil remnants fretting him and Ted Lyons sans the tonsil remnants. The fellow with the tonsils won 14 games last year and lost 20. The fellow without the tonsils thus far has won 7 and lost 1. The moral of this is: Get shet of your tonsils and be sure the riddance is in toto.

But, passing from Ted and his tonsils and lack of same, let's start by talking about the three Bills—Hunnefield, Kamm, and Cissell. Bill Hunnefield, now playing better than ever before, got two hits and a sacrifice in five trips to the plate, drove in three runs and scored one himself. He had but one chance afield and turned that into as pretty a double play as you'd want to look at.

Bill Kamm got two doubles and a walk, and both the hits were factors in the scoring.

that none of the hits figured in the scoring.

And then there's Harris, whose name happens to be Dave instead of Bill.—Dave knocked a homer into the upper deck of the left field stand to start off the big eighth inning.

The game had at least one more cheering aspect. It was the first time this year that our boys were able to beat a left hander. The first seven left handers to face them whipped them, and the best left hander of them all—Lefty Grove—got out with a 6 to 6 rain soaked tie. To Earl Whitehill fell this dubious distinction and even Earl was able to hold the Comiskeys to one hit in the first four innings.

This afternoon Dutch Henry, who has pitched some mighty good baseball and some mighty bad baseball, will seek to effect a better balance in the Lyons vs. the Whole Staff ratio.

Both Break Loose in 5th.

The scoring business was conducted on a 0 to 0 basis by both nines until the fifth inning, then both outfits broke loose.

In the first of the fifth Rice singled with one out and went to third when Akers also singled. Hargrave then drove one to the right field wall but it went only for a single, Rice scoring and Akers stopping at third. Whitehill popped to Kamm and Lyons threw out Johnson.

The Sox then took the lead in their half of the fifth by scoring two runs after two were out. Jolley started things with a single, and, whether you're willing to credit the statement or not, stole second. Cissell popped to Akers. Kamm doubled over Johnson's head but the chance was sufficient to make Smead hold second until the ball hit the ground. As a consequence Smead advanced only to third on Kamm's blow. Riddle grounded to Akers and Jolley was thrown out at the plate, Kamm reaching third. Lyons then drove in the tying run with the first of his three singles and Riddle went to third. Riddle scored on Hunnefield's single to left. Reynolds then forced Hunnefield.

Sox Score Three in Seventh.

The Sox got busy again in the seventh and made three runs, despite early discouragements in the inning. Cissell doubled and Kamm walked, but Riddle bunted and Cissell was forced at third. Kamm was caught trying to steal third, Riddle taking second. Lyons made the second of his hits, a single to right, which scored Riddle with the third of the Sox runs. Rice was given an error for his throw to the plate and Lyons reached second. Hunnefield again came through with a single, scoring Lyons. Hunnefield taking second on the throw in. Reynolds dropped a Texas leaguer in center, scoring Hunnefield. Shires then tapped to Gehringer.

The Tigers sort of acted up in the eighth. Cissell's muff of Johnson's hot grounder started them on the way. McManus followed with a double off Reynolds' glove, Johnson stopping at third. McManus singled, scoring Johnson, Gehringer stopping at third, whence he scored on Alexader's sacrifice fly to Reynolds. Stone flied to Watwood, who had taken Jolley's place in right. Rice singled, McManus stopping at second. Then Akers forced Rice.

Sox Have Merry Round.

Our lads made merry in the eighth. Harris started it with his homer. Watwood singled and went to second on Cissell's sacrifice bunt. Kamm doubled, and Watwood after pausing at second to see where the ball was going, overran third. Akers got the ball on the return, and in seeking to trap Watwood, threw to the dugout, Watwood scoring and Kamm taking third. Riddle was hit by a pitched ball. Lyons singled, scoring Kamm and putting Riddle on third and Hunnefield sent a sacrifice fly to Stone which scored Riddle.

The game ended in an unusual way. Kamm ran to the steps which lead to the dressing room and made a freak one handed catch of Johnson's foul. He then ran down the steps and was half way to the showers before most folks realized the ball game was over.

one hand and doubled Teachout off the bag.

A Pirate run off Teachout in the fifth was the result of the loss of a double play opportunity by Hornsby. After Waner had lined to center, Comorosky singled to Heathcote's territory. Suhr grounded to second and this should have been an easy twin killing, but Hornsby fumbled momentarily and had to confine his effort to getting the runner going to first. This left Comorosky on second, and he scored a moment later on Traynor's single to center.

The revival of the Cubs in the sixth, when they finally got around to the important business of scoring, began with Heathcote's single to right. Hornsby shot one in the same direction, and Cliff hiked to third.

Despite a frantic swing, Hack was able to knock the ball only as far as Kremer. It resulted in Heathcote being run down between third and home. Then Cuyler swung on Kremer's first pitch and arched it over the left field fence for a homer.

The Pirates replied to the Cubs' rally by nicking Teachout for two more runs in the sixth. The first item in this session was a pass to Bartell. Kremer bunted to Teachout, whose throw to second was too late. Flagstead's sacrifice moved the two runners along. Then with the infield drawn in Grantham bounced a single over Teachout's head, Bartell and Kremer scoring.

Wilson Fails in Pinch.

For a few moments in the seventh it appeared as if the Cubs were on the verge of some important development. After Blair had popped out for Teachout, a triple rattled off English's bat. Kremer walked both Heathcote and Hornsby, filling the bases and also bringing about his retirement. Meine filled the vacancy. With three on and Wilson up there was nothing left to be desired, but Hack bounced to Meine for a double play and the rally was no more.

Nelson started all right in the seventh, but after getting two men he ceased to be puzzling. Bartell beat out a bunt and Meine walked. Both scored on Flagstead's triple to right. Then Grantham walked and P. Waner singled to score Flagstead with the last run of the game.

"So one summer when I was working in Albany for money to pay the next year's tuition I was naturally interested in the proposition from the University of Detroit. I didn't get so much glory there and the atmosphere may not have been as rare, but you can't wear glory for a suit and you can't eat atmosphere.

"I had some trouble with my astronomy class in Detroit, not knowing one star from another myself, but I used to study each day's lesson one day ahead of the class and was just barely nosing them out as the year went on.

"Anyway, that is how it was about me and Dartmouth and Detroit.

"I have no illusions about the wrestling business. One night in Milwaukee I threw a fellow twice inside of three minutes, and the crowd got so mad that somebody in the gallery broke a three-pound cast iron armrest off a seat and threw it at me in the ring.

"I am not worried about Shikat or any one else claiming to be champion. I don't go around yelling for matches with any of those fellows. But they all want to wrestle me for the championship, at the same time insisting that I am not the champion. Why don't they get out and hustle as I am doing?

"Wrestling is a pretty dirty business. I have to work on foul mats that haven't been cleaned or aired for years. You know what goes on in a ring. Did it ever occur to you that after two or three years of regular use a wrestling mat is not a pleasant mattress to roll around on? I have to meet all kinds of men. Some of them are diseased, with open bruises and cuts. The body contacts are very close. A man might pick up anything—skin diseases, eye infections, blood diseases.

"I'm earning all I get and never any more will you see Gus Sonnenberg down on his knees, scrubbing floors for 20 cents an hour."

Helen Jacobs, Tilden Win in French Meet

AUTEUIL, France, May 21.—(AP)—All the American players who managed to dodge intermittent showers long enough to remain on the courts and dispute their matches came through with victories in the French tennis championship today.

Playing under cold and wet tennis conditions, Helen Jacobs of Berkeley, Cal., and her Belgian partner, Jeanne Sigart, defeated Mme. Lebernerais and Mlle. Claude Anet, France, 6-2, 6-2, to enter the third round of women's doubles.

The German-American combination of Cecilie Aussem and Bill Tilden advanced to the third round of mixed doubles by a 6-1, 6-2 victoy over Mlle. Anet and Tamio Abe of Japan's Davis cup team.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody was not scheduled and rain caused postponement of a doubles match in which Miss Jacobs and her partner, Wilbur Coen of Kansas City, were to have appeared. Because of two days of rain, the play in all three doubles divisions is considerably behind schedule.

The only thing approaching an upset came when Otto Frotzheim and Edmund Nourney of Germany eliminated Paul Feret, former French professional in the Pyle circus, and Lyttleton Rogers of Ireland's Davis cup team. The Rogers-Feret combine had been expected to reach the semi-finals.

Takeichi Harada and Tamio Abe of Japan put out Baron Humbert de Morpurgo of Italy and Count Ludwig Salm von Hoogstraten of Austria in three straight sets.

Put Your "Best Face" Forward!

Appearance Has a Definite Dollars-and-Cents Value!

SMOOTH—powder made for men only. Kills "shine" without showing powder. Just snap back the top of the box, click the cap and apply the powder with the side of the handy mitt. In a package for men, 50c.

It pays to appear to advantage! The world rates you largely by your looks. The smarter the man the more attention he will pay to the "little things"—the condition of his fingernails, skin, complexion, hair, etc.

To help man increase his face value, a special line of men's toilet needs has been created. Here it is—BRISK, The Mint Julep Shave and his four brothers—ZEST, SMOOTH, TRIM and STIP.

Have You Ever Had a Mint Julep Shave?

BRISK gives you a shave that brings to mind all the coolness and exhilaration of that famous Kentucky potion. Because, first of all, BRISK makes plenty of lather—and plenty of lather is the first requirement of a good shave! BRISK produces two to three times the lather, because it absorbs two to three times the amount of water. That means not only a profuse lather, but one that stays moist on your face until you finish shaving!

You know how a bit of soap on a saw eases its passage through a log—well, that's how BRISK smooths the path of the razor. The razor does not "pull," skip or chop, but glides sweetly over the skin mowing down the hair cleanly at each stroke.

And as a finishing touch, BRISK acts as a balm. Leaves the skin soft and supple as a fine kid glove. Enables you to put your "best" face forward.

BRISK, at 50c, is a good "buy" from the quantity as well as quality standpoint. You get an amazing lot of shaves from a box because you have to use so little.

RUTH DRIVES OUT 3 HOME RUNS, BUT YANKS LOSE PAIR

30,000 See Macks Win, 15-7 and 4-1.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 21.—(AP)—Before 30,000 fans the champion Philadelphia Athletics turned back the New York Yankees in both games of a double header today. Although Babe Ruth added one more record to his home run hitting feats by connecting for three circuit blows, the Mackmen won the first game, 15 to 7. Rube Walberg pitched them to a 4 to 1 victory in the second.

Ruth became the first major league player to hit three home runs in a game on three different occasions by socking George Earnshaw for two on his first two trips to the plate and getting another off Bob Grove in the eighth inning.

Illinois Scores Double Victory in Big Ten Golf

BY HARLAND ROHM.

Nervousness, over anxiety, or whatever affects golfers, cost Jarvis Hicks, husky Michigan sophomore, the Big Ten individual championship at Westmoreland yesterday. Dick Martin, captain of the Illinois team, nosed out Hicks by one stroke with a total of 305 for the 72 holes.

The Illinois team also won the team championship with a total of 1,247, beating Michigan 11 strokes, and scored a "slam" for the Illini in the annual tournament.

Martin Comes from Behind.

Martin won the title by steady, consistent play. He had rounds of 79-76-75-75 for his total. Starting the last 18 holes yesterday he was three strokes behind Hicks. At the end of the first nine holes Martin had overcome this handicap by shooting a 35, even par, while Hicks took 41 to make the turn, principally because he could not sink his putts.

Hicks, off the 18th tee, needed a par four to win. A five would tie. On his second shot he sent the ball into a trap. He tried to explode out and got the ball just on the edge of the green. Still he had two putts to tie, but he missed them both and had to take another six, giving him a total of 306.

Minnesota Finishes Third.

Minnesota, defending the team title, could do no better than a total of 1266 for third place, and Northwestern, due to consistent teamwork, took fourth with 1290.

Final team scores follow:

Michigan—Jarvis Hicks, 306; J. R. Royster, 323; John Howard, 319; Jack Lenfesty, 310; total, 1,258.

Instructor Tells Golf Pupil About Loft in Clubhead

Alec Cunningham, professional at North Shore, who is tutoring Howard Rich in THE TRIBUNE'S novice golf contest, gave his pupil a short lecture in his sixth lesson, which would cut the scores of many more experienced golfers if they'd follow the advice. Cunningham explained how to use the club in different lies.

"It's only a matter of common sense," the professional said. "Use a club with enough loft to put the ball where you want it to go, if you have a good lie, but if you have a bad one use a club with enough loft to get you out of it. It's better to get out in one short shot than to try for distance with too straight faced a club and waste two or three shots getting out of it."

Howard, who has been going from one extreme to the other, is improving. He shot a 68 for one nine at Mid-City, but he played every shot, whether the ball was in a depression or not. A couple of blisters, due to gripping the club too tight, didn't help much, either.

Seeing the blisters, Cunningham told Howard that a tight grip not only brings on a crop of them, but it cramps the wrist action. Howard had a tendency to top shots from trying to hit the ball by pushing his right shoulder over and not swinging his arms. He was punching instead of pivoting, and slicing the ball to the right.

"You're cutting across the ball, causing that spin that curves the ball to the right because you're hitting from the outside," Cunningham told him. "And you're hitting from the outside because your right elbow is too high at the top of your swing. You're also straightening up at the finish of the swing, and that makes you cut across the ball.

Warne, Walter Carry Purple Track Hopes

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Warne and Walter, Northwestern's chances for Big Ten championships Saturday in the outdoor meet depend on these athletes. Coach Hill expects each to come through and Tom Warne should set a conference record in the pole vault.

While Rut Walter probably cannot break Dismond's 14 year mark in the quarter mile, he should win the event, if he is in form. Dismond, former Chicago star, traveled the 440 in 47 2-5 seconds in 1916 and Walter's best time is 47.9 when he tied for the National Collegiate title last year.

Walter Won in '29.

Walter will be defending the conference quarter mile title he won last year. It's his last year of competition and the former Kokomo, Ind., prep star has visions of repeating as a finale to his Big Ten career.

Tom Warne has the best chance of any of the 324 athletes entered in the meet to set a world record. He has failed twice this year by narrowest of margins. He and Capt. Verne McDermont of Illinois tied last year for the Big Ten championship with a vault of 13 feet 7 inches. Warne also tied for the National Collegiate title with the bar at 13 feet 8¼ inches.

Nears Mark at Drake.

This season he has been a consistently improved performer. At the Drake relays Warne vaulted 13 feet 11 inches. One week later at the Ohio games he topped 13 feet 11¼ inches, the best mark of his career. On each occasion he tried for the world record at 14 feet 2 inches. At Drake he apparently cleared the bar but struck it with his arm as he descended.

In the quadrangular meet last Saturday at Columbus, O., Warne won his event with a jump of 13 feet 7½ inches. If weather conditions are favorable Saturday Northwestern may have a world champion.

The world's record is 14 feet 1½ inches, recognized Tuesday at the meeting of the International Amateur Athletic federation in Berlin. Lee Barnes is the holder displacing Sabin Carr of Yale whose mark was 14 feet 1 inch.

Tolan's Title in Danger.

Eddie Tolan is the world's champion sprinter for 100 yards. But he'll have to travel a bit faster than he has this spring if he is to retain his Big Ten championship in Saturday's games.

Tolan's record time of :09.5 made in last year's meet was accepted by the International federation this week.

Giants Trade Larry Benton for Hugh Critz

New York, May 21.—(AP)—A pair of big baseball shoes standing practically empty around second base at the Polo Grounds since Frankie Frisch and Rogers Hornsby went away were filled today by a little fellow from way down in Mississippi. The Giants announced that Hughey Critz had been procurred from the Cincinnati Reds in a trade for Larry Benton, right handed pitcher.

Critz, by more or less common consent for the last six years, has been acclaimed the best defensive second baseman in the National league.

The coming of Critz to the Giants breaks up one of the greatest double play combinations baseball has known. Horace Ford teamed with Critz in pulling spectacular defensive stunts, helping the Reds set a new record of 194 double plays for the 1928 season. In a game against the Giants in 1925 they made six double plays, tying the record.

Benton won 25 games and lost six in 1928, when his earned run average per nine innings was 2.73, but last year he won only 11 while losing 17 with an average of 4.14. In seven years of major league pitching he has won 91 games and lost 70. This year Benton has been credited with one victory and charged with three defeats.

Critz batted only .247 last year, but his six year batting average is .282. His best year was 1924, when he hit for .322. In 1928 he batted .296.

TROUT ANGLERS ENJOY BEAUTY OF WOODLANDS

Scenery Half the Fun on Michigan Stream.

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Blaney, Mich., May 21.—At least one-half of the fun of trout fishing up here in the north country is contact with the woods and absence of the clatter and clamor which go with city streets. Today our fishing expedition led us to the Fox river for an all too brief taste of the trout fishin' which this beautiful stream can offer.

Fish Hitting Fast.

Our gang had only forty minutes on this river. We came to it at a time when the warm sun was putting a little life in the fish. They were hitting so fast for a few minutes it was just one shout after another as Carroll Gray Jr., fishing a bend up stream, and F. N. Bard, bucking the swift water down stream, alternately reported their luck with lusty voices.

Here was a setting such as the trout fisherman who lives in a large city dreams about. A fifty foot sand bank hung over the Fox. It was clear of trees so that we could sit on the top of the bluff and look either down or up stream. Below us the river executed a sweeping curve to touch the foot of the bluff. Alders hugged the banks and from them sang the song sparrows, happy because the sunshine had come to drive away the chilly weather.

Birds Furnish Music.

From beyond the alders, the rushing river of dark red water and the excited trout fishermen cautiously picking their way around the deep holes, came the songs of the white throated sparrows which always make the north country a world of music during May. Behind us stretched the open deserted timber country which today is just a mass of old stumps because they logged this section many years ago.

Aurora Sees Cockrill Win His 6th Race

BY FRENCH LANE.

For a good many years wise breeding men have been saying that the sire Sand Mole will some day produce a great race horse. Maybe Sand Mole's son, Cockrill, which won the Rogers Park purse at Aurora yesterday, isn't a great race horse, but he's good enough to perform consistently against fairly high class selling platers.

Cockrill rolled up his sixth victory of the season in the Rogers Park and it was the third triumph in four starts he has scored at Aurora. Except for the fleet sprinter Morsun, no horse at Aurora has a record that compares with the one made by Cockrill.

Cockrill Starts Slow.

It was a mile and 70 yard contest in which Cockrill ran against six others of his kind, all entered to be claimed for around $3,000. Cockrill didn't figure so much in the early running and most of those in the crowd of 7,500 who had backed him so stoutly that he became the favorite lost heart when Alto, Leyland, and Jack Alexander were out making a dizzy pace in the early stages.

Jockey Mulrooney on Cockrill made his move at the head of the stretch while he was still well back. But it didn't take Cockrill long to find his race legs and, with all those in front of him floundering, he went on to win by a length and a half and was going away when the verdict was reached. Leyland, a long shot, hung on to second, and Alto, also heavily backed, was third. Cockrill's time for the mile and seventy yards was 1:46, and in the mutuel betting he paid $5.30.

Jack Alexander Fails.

There was a belated plunge on Jack Alexander and when he showed some early foot getting around the first turn his admirers began to cheer, but Jockey Ayraud soon had old Jack into a pocket on the back stretch and after that bit of unpleasantness Jack refused to extend himself.

Nani Hawaii, another consistent plater of the Aurora season, won the Howard P. Savage claiming purse, the secondary feature. The race was at a mile and three-sixteenths and such noted route runners as Black Bart, Flag Lieutenant, Pat Field, and Sir John K. were in the skirmish, but they all faded out of the picture behind the fast running Nani Hawaii. Tangram, the favorite, was second, and old Tom Byrne, an extreme outsider, was third.

The players had apparently forgotten Nani Hawaii's easy victories earlier in the season for she rewarded her backers at 6 to 1, but won like an even money shot. Her time for the mile and three-sixteenths was 2:02.

. . and note that Clicquot gives you FOUR ounces more for your money

Clicquot Club Pale Dry, the famous AGED ginger ale comes in full 16 ounce bottles. Most dry ginger ales give you a scanty 12 ounces

WE OFFER women a plan to greatly reduce the cost of buying ginger ale. A simple comparative test will prove to you the economy of buying Clicquot Club Pale Dry.

Just go to your dealer and pick up a bottle of Clicquot Club Pale Dry. Compare it with a bottle of any other nationally known dry ginger ale. You'll instantly notice that the Clicquot bottle is larger. Then read the labels on these bottles. You'll find the fluid contents plainly printed on each one. The Clicquot Club bottle contains 16 ounces, one full pint. The other bottle holds but 12 ounces.

The clever housewife knows that the little 12 ounce pint is never quite enough to go around. And the near quart or family size bottle so often "goes flat" before it is used up. The most economical size of all is one full pint. And that's what you get in Clicquot Club Pale Dry.

Compare flavor too

When you have seen for yourself that Clicquot actually does give you more for your money, we urge you to test this ginger ale for taste. Try a glass of Clicquot Club Pale Dry. Then a sip of any other dry ginger ale. Instantly you will note that Clicquot has greater zest and sparkle. That's because it's fully carbonated. And its mild and mellow flavor comes from ageing six months in the making.

This ageing is a secret process known to the makers of no other ginger ale. Our formula, too, is secret. Fine Jamaica ginger, pure table sugar, real fruit flavors and pure spring water are all skillfully blended to give Clicquot Club Pale Dry a flavor that can't be duplicated.

When you buy Clicquot, you can always be sure of its purity and its goodness. It is made under the most sanitary conditions, and it's bottled in clean new bottles.

And so you see that Clicquot really offers much more than ordinary ginger ales. A visit to your dealer today will prove it.

Directors Declare $1 Payment.

BY O. A. MATHER.

After seven years of waiting, the common stockholders of the Missouri-Kansas - Texas railroad have come into their own. The directors inaugurated dividends on the junior stock by declaring a payment of $1 a share, which was assumed to be a quarterly dividend, although not so stated.

M. H. CAHILL.

This is the first return on the common stock since the "Katy," which is a 2,173 mile system in the southwest, was reorganized in 1922. Dividends have been paid on the preferred stock since 1925, ranging from 5 to 7 per cent. There are 197,702 no par common shares outstanding.

In the last seven years about $48,000,000 has been plowed back into the property in completing an extensive rehabilitation program. An issue of adjustment bonds has been reduced from $55,809,667 to $13,750,000, and when the latter amount is converted the railroad will have a funded debt of about $93,718,779 and $68,888,000 of preferred stock. Its funded debt on June 30, 1929, was approximately $103,000,000.

Good Cash Position.

"In declaring the dividend at this time," Chairman Michael H. Cahill explained, "the directors have given full consideration to the decrease in business and believe the earning power of the company, based on the experience of the last seven years, and prospects for the future, justifies the disbursement. The cash position of the company, as shown by its report

Draws Distinction Between Private, Gov't Monopolies

BY SCRUTATOR.

Fears of monopoly are no longer justified, in the light of present evidence, in the United States. Possibilities of substitution are so great that there can, in fact, be no monopolies unless they justify their existence by a species of superefficiency.

It is not always easy to convince people who naturally believe the opposing view is correct that this is universally true. So far as foodstuffs are concerned, substitution appears regularly in easily understandable form. A sharp rise in the price of butter is reflected almost at once in a lowering of that product's consumption and an increase in sales of oleomargarine. The local milkman has no cinch on his trade. A rise in his prices, or even a lowering of the incomes of his customers through short employment—comparable in its effects—drives those customers to cheaper canned milk.

Former Attitude.

Products produced and sold on a vast scale by corporations bear the brunt of the fears. Once monopoly in the oil business was so great a bugbear that the Standard Oil company was dissolved officially. But if that concern had all the oil in the country it would not have a monopoly control of enough power to be dangerous. It would have to sell its fuel oil, as the units of the industry do now, in competition with coal and the gas made from it; to some extent in competition with hydro electricity.

There is no inescapable command that even our internal combustion automobiles have to be driven by petroleum products. If the costs of operating buses were somewhat higher, the electric interurban railroads of the country would be doing more business instead of less each year. Cheapness of bus transportation has actually halted interurban railroad expansion and shifted demand for fuel from coal, with which electricity is usually most cheaply generated in most sections, to gasoline.

Competitive Rates.

In form the electric utility is a monopoly and is commonly regarded as one. It remains one even for lighting only while it furnishes light at a fair price. Coal gas, natural gas, vegetable and even animal oils could be substituted if it were worth while. Industrial power can be derived in so many ways that every utility company in the country has to keep its rates for such use on a competitive basis.

The telephone, its local use usually in monopoly form, competes with the telegraph and the air mail and just plain mail. If one big packing firm controlled all the meat in the country it would still have to keep its prices reasonable or there would be a per capita decrease in the consumption of pork and beef and mutton and an increase in the eating of eggs and poultry and vegetables.

Powers of Consumer.

Discussions of monopoly usually overlook the important fact that the holding off power of the consumer, especially in times of flush production, like the present, exceeds the forcing power of the producer. Copper would appear to be an irreplaceable metal, but the great producing companies found it impossible early this year to maintain their price of 18 cents a pound. Big buying came out when the drop to the present levels, about 5 cents a pound lower, occurred.

Monopoly has no dangers so long as it must earn profits in competition with the whole world of business. It becomes dangerous to the general welfare when it is government operated and can make up its losses, when these occur, from taxes levied on businesses that are more efficient.

The merger of the two radio companies will become effective as soon as 55 per cent of the Amrad stock has been deposited. The merger is on the basis of seven shares of Magnavox for each share of Amrad.

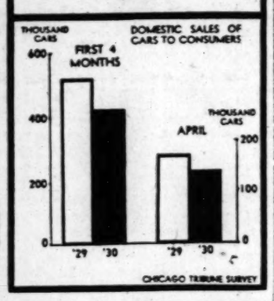
Real Silk Hosiery Now Operating at Capacity

Plants of the Real Silk Hosiery Mills are being operated at capacity, according to President Porter M. Farrell, who reported yesterday that the company's sales for every month this year have surpassed the same month in 1929.

Great Western Company Reduces Sugar Prices

Denver, Colo., May 21.—(AP)—The Great Western Sugar company today announced a cut of 20 cents per hundred pounds in the price of sugar. The new price is $5.37 for beet and $5.57 for cane sugar.

GENERAL MOTORS' SALES CONTINUE BELOW LAST YEAR



TRANSFER PROVIDES FOR NEW SHORT RAIL LINE TO CHICAGO

Washington, D. C., May 21.—(AP)—Approval for transfer of the ownership of the Buffalo and Susquehanna railroad to the Baltimore and Ohio system was announced today by the interstate commerce commission.

The acquisition will enable the Baltimore and Ohio to establish a new short rail route from New York to Chicago running north of Pittsburgh.

The Susquehanna line extends from Sagamore, Pa., a distance of 189 miles, to Addison, N. Y., and control of it has been purchased by the Baltimore and Ohio for about $5,611,000.

As a condition to its approval the commission attached a requirement that the Baltimore and Ohio should agree to purcase all minority Susquehanna stock at the same price that has been paid for control. Further the Baltimore and Ohio was enjoined to keep open all routes over the Susquehanna for other roads connecting with it in the movement of traffic.

The chief importance of the transfer, the decision explained, attaches to the plan for the new railroad from Chicago to New York, by using the line of the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh, which system the Baltimore and Ohio recently purchased, and by combining the Susquehanna line from the Rochester line junction to Sinnemahoning, Pa., and by building 75 miles of new line from that point to Williamsport the Baltimore and Ohio would consummate its plan.

Farrell Tells of Progress in Nation's Foreign Trade

Los Angeles, Cal., May 21.—(AP)—Despite a considerable recent decline in activity, foreign trade for 1929 set a new record for both the United States and the world, James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel corporation, told the seventeenth annual convention of the national foreign trade council here today. Mr. Farrell, as chairman of the council, opened the convention and presided.

J. A. FARRELL. [P. and A. Photo.]

If it is true that the slackening of world trade was due to some extent to money market conditions in the United States preceding the break in security prices it seems also probable, Mr. Farrell said, that "the break itself may ultimately cause some measures of remedy," for, the chairman pointed out, "it has been followed by an easing of money rates which is already turning the attention of American investors toward sound foreign securities."

Los Angeles Gains.

Mr. Farrell declared California had taken fourth place among the states as a source of American exports and that Los Angeles "has shown the most startling increase in foreign trade, exports having multiplied in value 200 times in fourteen years."

"The international commerce of the world is passing through a period which finds no close parallel in recent years," he said. "The present rate of activity is shown to be considerably slower than that of only a few months ago. The rate of the first eight or nine months of 1929 proceeded at an unusual pace, so that despite the slackening that occurred toward the close of the year the aggregate for the full twelve months constituted a new record, both for the United States and for the world.

"Our exports for 1929 approximated 5 1-4 billion dollars. In volume they were greatest ever recorded, a fact which is emphasized by consideration of the lower commodity prices which obtained generally throughout the year.

Change in Character.

"Probably the outstanding feature of American trade during the last score of years has been the marked change that has occurred in its character, the steady decrease in the proportion borne by raw materials and food stuffs in the total of our exports and the corresponding increase in the proportion won by the product of manufacture.

"There is genuine encouragement to be found in this for it is notable that the gain was achieved in precisely that element of our export trade that is directly response to merchandising enterprise and skill."

COURT APPROVES REORGANIZATION OF AMER. PIANO

New York, May 21.—(AP)—Federal Judge Coxe today approved the reorganization plan of the American Piano company, which has been in receivership since last fall.

The plan submitted by a reorganization committee provides for acquisition by a new company of the company's properties at an upset price of $1,348,167.

The American Piano company was one of the largest manufacturers of pianos, and controlled seven subsidiaries, among which were the Chickering & Sons, Ampico corporation, William Knabe, and Mason & Hamlin. The concern went into receivership Dec. 26, 1929.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 21.—Railroad shares provided almost the only noteworthy feature of a generally "flat, stale, and unprofitable" stock market today. The carrier issues were turned over in quite lively fashion at intervals and prices were carried upward 1 to 4 points.

Buffalo and Susquehanna sold to a new high on news of a favorable report by a commerce commission examiner on the Baltimore and Ohio's proposition to merge the road. Chesapeake and Ohio was strong on its good April earnings statement and most of the others were influenced by improved income reports. Norfolk and Western advanced 3 points, Rock Island 2¼, and New Haven 1¼.

The utilities found a somewhat better market and baking company stocks were in demand, but that is about all there is to be said on the bull side of the account. The general drift was toward lower levels, with scattered issues dipping quite sharply.

Volume Is 2,078,400.

Again the news as it developed was not of a character calculated to inspire any wild enthusiasm on the long side of the market. The steel trade journals agreed in reporting conditions in the steel industry as of a disappointing nature. Car loadings were the

MAJESTIC POST MAGNET IN STOCK TRADING HERE

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

A milling crowd of traders swarmed around the Majestic Household post on the Chicago exchange floor yesterday making trades in the stock as the price rose to 64½, a net gain of 8 points over the previous day.

The heavy dealings in the stock were made while the rest of the market was shifting without a definite goal. About the only news concerning Majestic which the day produced were unofficial reports that the company will begin distribution of its new refrigerator about July 15 and bullish estimates on the volume of advance orders that the company has received.

Other Changes Narrow.

With the exception of Majestic and a few other shares significant changes in the list were scarce. Binks Manufacturing was a strong spot and advanced around 2 points accompanied by gossip that the company may be taken over by a large corporation. Great Lakes Dredge climbed ten points on light trade and Lynch moved up to 26. Auburn fell off around 5 to 150, its low for the year.

Stockholders of Lynch Glass Machine have approved an increase in the capital stock from 75,000 to 150,000 shares. Change in the company's name to the Lynch corporation was also approved. Directors have declared a quarterly dividend of 1 per cent in stock and 50 cents in cash, placing the stock on an annual basis of 4 per cent in stock and $2 cash.

Super Maid sold down over 2 on announcement by the company that earnings during the first quarter amounted to $97,495, equivalent to 64 cents a share on 150,000 shares of stock, compared with $260,949, or $1.74 a share, in the corresponding period last year.

List Gas Issue.

Evidence of the growing importance of Chicago as a national market for utility securities was seen in the action yesterday of the exchange governors in approving the listing of 1,125,000 shares of common stock of the Duquesne Gas corporation. Public offerings of a block of the stock which had been previously privately owned was made recently by a banking group. The corporation owns and operates natural gas properties in the Pittsburgh territory.

Other original listings approved were: Albuquerque Natural Gas company 6½ per cent convertible debentures, $1,000,000 principal amount; Allegheny Gas corporation first mortgage and collateral bonds, $1,789,000 principal amount; Saxtet company, 650,000 shares of common stock. Initial trading in all of the issues except the Saxtet company will being today.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, May 21.—(AP)—Cotton goods a little more active in the gray goods division. More demand for wash fabrics and cotton novelties for home making purposes. Novelty worsted yarns doing better, chiefly for sweaters. Burlaps steady. Calcutta mills holding meetings trying to agree to reduce production 10 per cent, beginning July 1. Raw silk quiet, with more interest taken in new fall silks. Wool goods steady, demand moderate.

SENATE PASSES BILL TO SUSPEND RAIL MERGERS

Couzens Resolution Now Goes to House.

Washington, D. C., May 21.—(AP)—The senate today passed and sent to the house the Couzens resolution to suspend until March 4, 1931, the authority of the interstate commerce commission to approve consolidations or unifications of railroads. The vote was 46 to 37.

The resolution would make illegal any control of railroads through holding companies or otherwise without the authorization of the interstate commerce commission and would prescribe protection of labor in unifications allowed.

Chairman Parker of the house interstate commerce committee said today that more than a hundred railroad holdings and investment trust companies had refused to reply to the questionnaire issued by his committee in its investigation of railroad consolidation and ownership.

Six hundred questionnaires were mailed by the committee to the holding and investment companies with a request that they reply by May 10. Fewer than 500 have been received, Parker said.

"Practically all of the major holding and investment companies have replied," Parker said, "but the others have taken the attitude that their activities are none of our business. However, we have all the power we need to compel them to give us definite information as to their holdings and we intend to do so."

The committee plans to begin hearings in the cities where the large holding companies have headquarters late in the fall.

BRITISH WONDER AT GOLD BUYING OF FRENCH BANK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 21.—British financiers are alarmed at the recent heavy purchases of gold by the Bank of France, over $53,460,000 worth being bought from the Bank of England in the last fortnight.

In London circles it is stated that there is no financial need for this gold and therefore it is supposed to be a political move. The argument is that France is figuring that Great Britain, rather than face the necessity of raising the bank rate to stop the exportation of gold, may be more amenable to French dominance in the organization of the Bank for International Settlements and particularly may agree to take a larger quota of the reparations loan than she is now willing to take.

Radio-Keith-Orpheum.

I am buying some Radio-Keith-Orpheum common stock and would like to have some information from you about this company.—M. W. J.

Radio-Keith-Orpheum corporation was formed in the fall of 1928 as a holding company. It controls F. B. O. Productions, Inc., a film producing and distributing company, and Keith-Albee-Orpheum Corporation, leading vaudeville unit. The company's 500,000 shares of class B stock is owned by Radio Corporation of America, which has granted Radio-Keith-Orpheum a fifteen year license for the use of the Photophone method for making talking pictures.

In its report for the three months ended March 31, 1930, the corporation revealed for the first time its actual earning power with both theaters and film divisions operating on a normal basis. Net profit for the quarter was $1,815,903, against $608,209 in the like period of 1929. These quarterly earnings were equal to 87 cents per share on 1,850,169 shares of no par class A stock, against 21 cents per share in the first quarter of 1929.

As of Dec. 31, 1929, current assets were $8,412,513 and current liabilities were $4,793,841, leaving a net working capital of $3,618,672, against $856,871 a year before. Surplus was increased from $2,329,368 to $5,549,178 during 1929.

The production schedule calls for the expenditure of about $15,000,000 in 1930 on twelve super feature pictures and about thirty regular features. During 1929 about $3,000,000 was spent on new sound studios and an equal amount will be spent this year on further additions which will double the present capacity for film production.

The class A stock has preference over the class B as to $2 cumulative dividends. Thereafter both share equally in any further distribution.

Penick & Ford.

Please tell me about Penick & Ford. What are its past earnings and its future outlook? Does it pay dividends, and how often and how much? —H. O. E.

Penick & Ford, Ltd., large manufacturer and packer of molasses, cane sirup, corn sirups, and other corn products, has reported increasing earnings since 1926.

Net profit for 1929 was $1,882,441, equal, after preferred dividends, to $3.97 per share on 424,965 no par common shares, against net profit of $1,293,196 in 1928, and $1,076,389 in 1927.

The retirement of bonds has improved the position of the common stock. This stock is regarded as medium grade. Dividends are 25 cents quarterly.

SAYS SINCLAIR, PRAIRIE MERGER IS PROGRESSING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 21.—An increase in the common stock of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation from 10,000,000 to 20,000,000 no par shares to provide for possible expansion and consolidation purposes was voted by stockholders of Sinclair Consolidated in their annual meeting today.

H. F. Sinclair, president, said that the merger negotiations with Prairie Oil and Gas were "still alive and progressing," adding that such a consolidation was a large undertaking with many ramifications.

"I think the oil situation now is in hand," said the president. "The prorating of production has been a healthy development. Although prices are a little better than in the early months this year, they cannot be considered entirely satisfactory.

"The consumption of gasoline has shown an unusual increase of 14 per cent over last year. In 1929 the consumption of gasoline was about 12 per cent over the preceding year."

News and Gossip of Stock Marts

Deadline Friday.

Although American Telephone stock is selling about 30 points below the level at which it stood when the latest stock offering was announced and the prices are quoted a fraction above 20, as against an early price of 25, there is no question about full subscription to the company's offer. Friday will be the last day to subscribe and the history of Telephone is that the stock feels more buoyant after rights are out of the way.

National Biscuit.

Despite the dullness of the general market and the prevalence of bearish sentiment, friends of National Biscuit are predicting 100 for the issue on its current move.

Performs Well.

Few stocks on the "big board" have acted as well marketwise during the last week or so as has Hershey Chocolate. Sponsors of the issue expect 1930 to be the best year in the company's history.

Utility Shorts.

The short interest is to be found chiefly in the utilities. This isn't difficult to explain. These stocks have furnished a greater portion of the daily turnover than any others. Naturally, professional bears concentrate on the active issues or large floating supply.

Hiram Walker.

Gossip by the group operating in Hiram Walker centers around the two Scotch distilleries which the company recently acquired. Earnings for the first quarter this year are said to have been less than in 1929, but it is likely that heavier operations in the latter half will leave a margin above dividends.

Hear Van Sweringens Add to White Motor Holdings

New York, May 21.—Reports were current in Wall street today that the Van Sweringen Brothers of Cleveland have recently increased their holdings in the White Motor company, manufacturers of motor vehicles with headquarters in Cleveland, following purchase of from 20,000 to 30,000 shares last fall. The Van Sweringens were said to have taken an interest in the company as a potential future source of supply for motor buses and trucks for their railroads.

Property and Territory: Illinois Commercial Telephone Company, incorporated in 1928 under the laws of Illinois, owns and operates 189 telephone exchanges serving 401 communities and surrounding territory in 56 counties in the southern, southeastern, and northern parts of the State of Illinois. These communities are the center of important agricultural and diversified industrial activities and the territory served has excellent transportation facilities as well as a net work of well built concrete roads. The territory served covers an area of 18,000 square miles and includes a population in excess of 654,160. The properties operate 81,988 stations. Through connections with the Bell System, the toll facilities of the latter are available to all subscribers, thus affording a nation-wide telephone service. The properties are well grouped for economical operation and are in excellent operating condition.

The territory served includes the cities of Belvidere, Lawrenceville, Bridgeport, Robinson, Sandwich, Mendota, Paxton, Tuscola, Fairbury, Monticello, Mt. Carmel, Carbondale, West Frankfort, Harrisburg, Duquoin, Marion, Herrin, Benton, Murphysboro, Chester, Carmi, Olney, Kewanee, Monmouth, Macomb, and Lincoln.

Security: These bonds, in the opinion of counsel, will be secured by a first mortgage on all the fixed property, rights and franchises of the Company now owned and on such property hereafter acquired against which any bonds may be issued under the mortgage. The value of the fixed property of the Company, as determined by independent engineers, is largely in excess of the first mortgage bonds to be presently outstanding, including this issue.

Earnings: Earnings (including the earnings of all properties now owned) for the years ended December 31, 1928, December 31, 1929, and February 28, 1930, after giving effect to the present financing, were as follows:

	Dec. 31, 1928	YEARS ENDED Dec. 31, 1929	Feb. 28, 1930
Gross Earnings	$2,129,143.15	$2,244,361.48	$2,254,367.40
Operating Expenses, Maintenance and Taxes	1,263,925.38	1,323,713.49	1,317,727.99
Net Earnings before Depreciation	$ 865,217.77	$ 920,647.99	$ 936,639.41
Annual Interest Requirements on Entire Funded Debt (including this issue)			287,500.00
Balance Available for Reserves, Federal Taxes, and Dividends			$ 649,139.41

The net earnings, as above set forth for the year ended February 28, 1930, were more than 3.2 times the interest requirements on all the outstanding funded indebtedness. After deducting provision for depreciation for the year amounting to $186,105.87 net earnings were $750,533.54 or more than 2.6 times the annual interest requirements on the funded debt outstanding.

Purpose of Issue: Proceeds from the sale of these bonds will be used to retire bonds and other obligations of properties recently acquired, to reimburse the Company for expenditures for additions to property and for other corporate purposes.

Franchises: In the opinion of counsel, the franchises under which the Company operates are satisfactory and free from burdensome restrictions.

Management: This corporation is a part of the Associated Telephone Utilities System. The management is in the hands of experienced telephone men whose ability as economical and efficient operators has been thoroughly demonstrated.

Price 95½ and Interest, to Yield about 5.30%

WHEAT FINISHES NEAR TOP DUE TO SHORT COVERING

Prices Close at Net Gains of 3-8@3-4 Cents.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Professional operators were the dominating influence yesterday in the wheat market, the news having little lasting effect. An unexpected upturn of ¼@½d in Liverpool led to short covering early, which was followed by a break of 1@1½c on commission house selling and also local pressure, but the finish was well toward the top due to covering by the pit element. The close was at net gains of ⅝@¾c with May $1.03¾, and July $1.04⅝@1.04½.

There was nothing in the news to account for the recession from the top, nor for the subsequent rally, although it was the gossip of the seaboard trade that the Stabilization corporation had bought around 1,000,000 bu hard winter wheat at Buffalo, Georgian Bay and Montreal at a price slightly better than it could be shipped back to Chicago.

New Influences Needed.

Under normal conditions it is usually hard to maintain advances in the wheat market at this season of the year, as the outlook for the new crop is frequently favorable, this season being no exception. There has been a sameness in the character of news for some weeks and new influences are regarded as needed if the market is to get out of the rut.

A number of commission houses and local operators are of the belief that a strong upturn might come at any time were the news to change slightly and be backed by substantial foreign buying of domestic hard winters, as the world situation outside of North America is decidedly bullish from a statistical standpoint. There is no evidence at the present time, however, of foreigners taking hold on a liberal scale.

Export sales of 500,000 to 600,000 bu were claimed in all positions, including some hard winter afloat to Italy. The latter appears to be getting nervous over the poor quality of the Argentine grain recently bought for mixing purposes.

Hard winter wheat in the Liverpool parcel market sold Wednesday at equal to $1.14¾ per bu, or ½c under Rosario, Argentina, 63 lb grain and 1¼c under No. 4 Manitobas, going to the widest discount in some time past. Liverpool July finished at $1.14⅝. It is figured by Liverpool operators that a fair amount of American hard winter will have to be bought for delivery purposes, as stocks in the United Kingdom are decreasing rapidly. Weather conditions in Europe leave much to be desired, with drought prevailing in Spain and it is wet and cold elsewhere. Spain has prohibited imports of foreign wheat, but has removed the tax on grain. Winnipeg finished ⅝@⅞c higher for the day.

Country Sells Cash Corn.

Corn planting is nearing completion over part of the main belt, and the country has started to sell its surplus old grain, purchases to arrive yesterday being estimated at 111,000 bu, the largest quantity booked in one day for some time. This with fair and warm weather over the west, which is favorable for field work, led to local and commission house selling of futures and a lower level of values. Buying against bids checked the decline, and toward the last there was short covering in sympathy with the rally in wheat.

Final trades were unchanged on May and ¼@½c lower on the deferred futures, May being 78⅞c, and July 79½@79⅝c. Shipping demand was fair, with sales of 93,000 bu.

Oats market showed independent strength with May acting tight as the result of buying by cash interests to remove hedges against shipping sales of 205,000 bu. It went to 1⅝c over July at the last, the best premium so far. Final trades were ⅝@1¼c higher with May 41¾c, and July 40c.

Rye was weak on selling by commission houses and cash interests and prices averaged lower with the finish at net losses of ¼@⅝c, July being 61¾c, and September 63⅝c. May was not quoted.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

A more conservative feeling is developing in the grain trade. A number of the largest operators who have been bearish for upwards of a year, express themselves as believing that prices are too low to expect large profits on short sales of wheat or the coarse grains. They argue that all the accidents to the crop in North America and the world over are in favor of holders. The situation, as these traders see it, is for smaller crops abroad than last year and they believe there are prospects for a better export business. In wheat the disposition is to trade more in the September and December.

Harvey Williams of Thomson McKinnon asserts the actual cost of carrying wheat from September to December is about 7c a bu and present trading differences only about 4¼c. "It looks like a good spread to sell September and buy December for a long pull," he said.

Applications for tickets to the Board of Trade banquet on Monday, June 9, are so numerous that a member of the committee said that it would be easy to fill the Soldiers' Field.

Says "Business Rests on Broader Foundation" Now

New York, May 21.—(AP)—S. H. Logan, general manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, today said that a world-wide survey of economic conditions since 1925 showed that, "notwithstanding the great drop recently in commodity prices, the physical situation of world business today rests on a broader foundation than ever before."

Ten yesterday, $10.00; average, $9.65.
Estimated receipts at Chicago today, 6,000 cattle, 23,000 hogs, and 12,000 sheep.

Cattle and hog prices were forced lower on increased receipts yesterday, and sales in the hog market equaling the lowest point since middle of last January. Lambs were in good demand and prices equal to the highest in two weeks and fully 25c above the general selling Tuesday.

Hog prices broke 10@15c, the extreme top at $10.15 showing 15c loss, while the general average was down 10c at $9.90. The extreme top has not been below $10.15 since Jan. 17. Demand increased some in mid-session and closing sales of light weights were slightly above the low spot of the afternoon, in face of the 23,000 estimated for today.

Few of the 6,000 left at the close were offered for sale and some late buyers encountered some difficulty in filling orders. The increase in Chicago receipts was partly offset by the decreases at other points. Arrivals during the first three days were below the corresponding period in several years.

Trading in hog futures was slow and barely steady yesterday. September light sold near the close at $10.20 equaling the price paid for similar contracts Tuesday. Bid for July light ranged up to $10.30 and for September mediums, $10.10.

Receipts of cattle at 10,000 compared with 5,872 the previous Wednesday. Trade resulted in a slow weak to 25c lower market for all but a few topnotchers. Two loads of well finished 1,360 lb steers at $14.35 equaled the week's top, while bulk of sales held at $10.25 @12.25.

A load of 1,052 lb yearlings reached $13.25. Beef cows showed little change but light heifers ruled weak to 25c lower. Calves sold steady. Stockers and feeders were scarce and steady.

Lamb Supply Short.

The reported shortage in the supply of California spring lambs, coupled with the fact that the Colorado season is practically at a close, sent prices up mostly 25c more yesterday. Western lambs brought $9.00@10.00 and a few lots of native springers sold at $10.00@11.25.

Aged and yearling sheep were scarce and stronger, one lot of choice handy weight fed western ewes bringing $8.50. Feeding lambs were steady. The supply of California spring lambs at Chicago so far this season is running 25 per cent smaller than a year ago.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 6,000 cattle, 23,000 hogs and 12,000 sheep, against 7,375 cattle, 33,147 hogs, and 14,158 sheep the previous Thursday, and 9,188 cattle, 22,580 hogs and 16,129 sheep a year ago.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, May 21.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was easier today under increased offerings of duty paid, with prices 1-32c lower at 3.17c for spots. Refiners continued to show interest in specified positions only, pending the outcome of the tariff. Sales confirmed included about 85,000 bags of Cuban afloat and for prompt shipment at 3.31c to local refiners and 21,000 bags of Philippines for late-June shipment to an outport refiner at 3.30c. A sale of 22,400 Porto Rican afloat was reported yesterday and today to a refiner at 3.17c. It was also reported that Europe had purchased 10,000 tons of Cuban sugar for May shipments at a price equal to 1.40c f.a.s. Cuba. There was only a small turnover in raw sugar futures, with operators refused to limit fresh commitments and await the outcome of the tariff question and then active demand for the spot article. Domestic sales were only 19,400 tons. Closing prices: No. 2, May, 3.21c; July, 3.29c; September, 3.41c; December, 3.54c. No. 1 prices follow:

A SAFE FORM OF INVESTMENT

Here is one truth that no investor can afford to overlook: "The loss of principal on one worthless investment represents the interest return at 6% on a similar amount of money for nearly 16 years." That is why SAFETY is so important. Principal and interest are guaranteed on Dobry Bonds by two insurance companies—making them unusually safe.

Ask for circular explaining these bonds in detail.

ADD 84 ACRES TO COOK COUNTY'S FOREST RESERVE

2 Tracts on Des Plaines River Bought.

BY AL CHASE.

Two tracts of land totaling eighty-four acres, both on the Des Plaines river, were purchased yesterday by the Forest Preserve district of Cook county. The larger of the two, containing approximately sixty-eight acres, was bought from Richard Curran Jr. for an indicated $73,579. It adjoins the boundary line between Cook and Lake counties, and is 900 feet east of Milwaukee avenue. It lies on both sides of the river.

The second tract purchased comprises sixteen acres on the south side of North avenue, just west of the North avenue bridge over the Des Plaines river. The river makes a sharp bend to the west at this point, so that the river forms the south boundary to the property just bought. It was secured from Alfonso Alfino. Neither of the tracts has any buildings on it.

Joseph H. Gately Buys House.

Joseph H. Gately, owner of the People's store of Roseland, has purchased from Mrs. J. Little a residence at the northeast corner of 107th street and South Hoyne avenue. The grounds are approximately 100x150. The house has ten rooms and three baths and was designed by John T. Hetherington. Mr. Gately then sold his home on 113th street, near Indiana avenue, adjoining the Calumet Commercial club of Roseland, to Alwin L. Pearson, a broker associated with A. G. Becker & Co. Both deals were negotiated by Racine Thompson, of Teninga Bros. & Co.

Foust & Nelson, opticians, have rented the store at 725 West 63d for five years, and the Famous Permanent Wave shops have taken space at No. 721 for a period of years, both leases being negotiated by Harry M. and Louis Englestein.

Sells Montrose-Cicero Corner.

Constantine and Politimi Loomos have sold the southwest corner of Montrose and Cicero avenues, 100x140, to Dorothy A. Wallace for an undisclosed price. The property is improved with a two story building containing nine stores, fourteen flats and three offices. Oliver D. Collender, Inc., of Evanston was broker.

The twenty-four apartment building at 4813-27 North Christiana avenue, lot 100x150, was sold by Mr. and Mrs. Albert S. Hecht of Evanston to Oscar Frederick Swanson and Karl Anderson for an undisclosed price, subject to a mortgage of $65,000. John P. Cracraft & Co. were brokers.

APPROVES LOAN OF $15,750,000 TO U. S. LINES

Washington, May 21.—(AP)—A loan of $15,750,000 to the United States Lines for two new 20 knot passenger cargo ships to be operated on the New York to Hamburg line was authorized by the shipping board.

The ships, which will cost $21,000,000, are to be 705 feet long and of 12,000 tons deadweight, and will be constructed by the New York Shipbuilding company.

The shipping board said these vessels would be the largest merchant ships ever built in a United States ship yard. The loan will not affect a pending application by the company for a loan on two 28 knot ships.

The United Mail Steamship company, a subsidiary of the United Fruit company of Boston, was awarded a loan of $15,412,500 for construction of six passenger cargo ships. The loans for each ship will total $2,568,750, including $75,000 for hotel equipment.

Each ship will cost $3,425,000, the shipping board said. Three are to be built by the Newport News Shipbuilding company and three at the Bethlehem Shipbuilding yard, Fore River, Mass.

SYNOPSIS.

Catherine West of Boston, on her way to Paris, meets Geoffrey Macadam in the boat train to Paris train. Macadam is an Englishman who lives in Paris. Catherine tells him that she is going to visit her cousin's widow, Mme. Belmont Bender. She is a little apprehensive about the coming visit because she had received just before sailing a letter from Hermione Cushing, who tells her that Mme. Bender is far from well. Macadam is a lawyer and he tells Catherine that his firm handles Mme. Bender's affairs, but doesn't know the widow very well. He had heard that she was ill. Arrived in Paris Catherine is a little disappointed when her cousin's chauffeur is not at the station to meet her. Geoffrey sees her into a taxi, giving her his address and telephone number, telling her that he will be anxious to know how things are at the Bender apartment and the promises to call him. Arrived at Mme. Bender's apartment, she is treated coldly by the servants and Jeanne, Mme. Bender's maid, suggests that she go to a hotel. Catherine insists on staying in the apartment, as she is suspicious of the servants. Jeanne tells her that Mme. Bender attempted to commit suicide the night before. The next morning Catherine goes in to see Germaine Bender, who is pathetically glad to see her. She tells Catherine how she had taken poison by mistake.

Geoffrey invites Catherine to dine with him and it is a relief for her to get out of the apartment and to tell him of her vague fears. He is disturbed, too. Geoffrey escorts her back to the apartment. The door is locked, but Geoffrey arouses Eduardo, who says he thought Miss West had come in long before.

The next morning Catherine calls on Miss Cushing, who takes her to her milliner. There she sees a man she has noticed hanging around the Bender apartment. Back in the apartment she finds the gallery open for the first time and she goes in only to discover a number of pictures and tapestries missing. She asks Jeanne about them and the maid says they were sold shortly before Mr. Bender's death. Catherine feels she is lying and believes she and Eduardo are thieves. She finds Jeanne is exerting a baneful influence on Mme. Bender. She denounces Catherine to the invalid. Catherine tells Geoffrey her fears and he puts an investigator to work on the case.

INSTALLMENT XLVI.

A NIGHT HAUNT.

"Very. Hermione says the line is extinct."

He pondered the matter for a while, then drawing a notebook from his pocket scribbled the single word "Dieulefit" on an empty page. She watched him with interest but said nothing, though she noticed that his forehead was still knit with speculation.

The sole Mornay arriving, they attacked it with relish, nor until it was a thing of the past did they recur to any serious topic. Then Geoffrey asked if the doctor had yet settled the matter of Jeanne's holiday.

"I don't know. He came yesterday afternoon, but she has not said anything. So annoying of her! She's always a riddle to me. Still, sooner or later I'm bound to find out."

It was nearly 3 o'clock when they got into the car again to drive along the green arteries of the Bois through the formal gardens of St. Cloud, and so to the open country beyond. Larks sang, while high in the air vague doodlets floated like puffs of smoke across an azure sky. Flowering fruit trees appeared, bouquets of pink and white bloom, varied by golden bloom and gorse. As Catherine's eye wandered over the landscape she sighed with contentment. Spring, the smooth motion of a well-run car, and a man beside her whose companionship was agreeably sympathetic—they were three sure ingredients to happiness so satisfying that she felt she could go on and on, living in the present moment, jealous of what the future might bring to mar its perfection. It was hard to believe that she had spent nearly the whole of yesterday in a turgid tangle of doubts and fears. Now all life seemed bathed in the same soft sunshine which spread its radiance over the low-lying hills.

At 5 o'clock they stopped at a place unknown to her, but familiar to Paris pleasure seekers. An ancient farm house nestled beside a narrow stream, spanned by an inclosed bridge where in bad weather one might eat under cover. Now a score of motorists in gay attire sat under orange umbrellas at tables with orange cloths, along the length of the brook, whose edges glowed with thickly planted spring flowers, vivid blue and yellow. Gardens like those in a picture book spread on each side, and a little distance away an outlet from the stream chattered over a rockery to fall into a pool.

Tea was brought in an orange teapot, together with toast, home made confiture and butter smoothly molded into little brown crocks. The air having given them appetites, they fell to with a will.

When the second cups of tea were poured and they had lit cigarets, Catherine moved slightly closer to her companion and for a second laid her hand on his arm.

"Geoffrey," she said, "something has been on my mind since yesterday. About this agent you are employing. You understand, of course, that I must insist on paying for him. I can, you know. I don't want you to think——"

He reddened a little.

"Must we speak of that? I wish you wouldn't."

"Well, then, I won't. But before we go any further, you must promise to let me know how much it comes to, otherwise I shall make it unpleasant for you!"

Seeing the fixed determination of her manner, he nodded briefly.

"Well, then, I promise. Now let's talk about something else."

But for a moment both were silent, while the look which passed between them left Catherine a little breathless. Why was Geoffrey so different today? She began to wonder if she knew him so well after all.

They dined late at a small restaurant in the Rue Jacob, where the food was good, and although Catherine protested that she could not possibly be hungry again, the sight of the oysters Geoffrey ordered and the young duck with delicate petits pois made her change her mind.

"O, dear!" she sighed, "when I'm with you I do nothing but eat!"

"You need to," he assured her lightly. "I am sure that when you are at home you are half starved!"

It was true that, lovely as she looked today, she had grown a bit thinner since their first meeting, while he noticed a faint shadow beneath her eyes which disturbed him, suggesting, as it did, a constant state of apprehension. But blind to the absurdity of his action, he heaped her plate high with wild strawberries and piled thick cream upon them till she was obliged to stay his hand.

"I'm not a Strasbourg goose, you know!" she reminded him, laughing.

"Tired?"

"No—only blissfully content. I can't bear to think that today it over."

"It isn't," he returned, glancing at his watch. "There is something else I want you to do this evening."

"What is it?" she inquired languidly.

She fancied there was a slight air of secrecy about him as he paid the bill and left a ten franc note on the saucer. Then, with his characteristic caution, he answered her question.

"Nothing much. Wait and see. But I hope it may prove worth while."

It was almost 10 o'clock, but according to Geoffrey it was yet too early for what he planned to do. Catherine asked no further questions and her soul in patience as they drove slowly about for half an hour, crossed the quais, up to the Bois and back, and around the Cité and the Ile St. Louis. The night was perfect. The twin truncated towers of Notre Dame stood out in bold relief against a starlit sky, the river, swiftly flowing between its inky parapets, was studded with gems of light. One after another they passed the stately Palais de Justice, the Hotel Dieu, and the old house where Abelard introduced the classics into the head of Heloise and love into her heart.

At last Geoffrey recrossed the river, and threading the garishly lighted Boul' Mich', teeming with humanity, turned into the Boulevard Montparnasse. Here, a few hundred yards to the right, he parked his car at the tail end of a long cue of motors drawn up before a small building, the lower walls of which were painted in the crudest possible version of the futurist style. Catherine looked at it with surprise. The name, "Tattenham Corner," roughly inscribed over the door, told her that it was a night haunt then much in vogue, but which she had not visited and had heard her companion mention with some contempt. Why he had brought her here she could not guess.

A blare of strident jazz music greeted them together with a hot rush of fetid air, heavily laden with scent, stale smoke, and the odor of perspiring bodies. Shrill laughter and the babel of many tongues rose above unvibrant saxophones, and as they lifted a grimy curtain hung over a doorway, they had a confused impression of seething, jostling couples, hugged in tight embrace and swaying, cheek to cheek, upon a dance floor little larger than a fourth rug. Hell let loose was all Catherine could think of. Amusing, but loathsome! Instinctively she drew closer to Geoffrey, who put out a strong arm to shield her from the horde of boisterous students who surged in behind them, shoving their way to the fore by brute force.

Good Morning!

If that Utopian day ever arrives when There Is No More War, surely the world will have to lift up its face and give thanks to the Movies that have brought home, as no other medium could have done, the truth about the trenches.

I have just seen "All Quiet on the Western Front" and I feel as I imagine I would had I spent a couple of hours in an orphanage watching the babies being murdered.

The bayonet's gleam in the sunshine,
Vanished, the music of bands
Along with the keen thrill of triumph.
Victory? That we have won—
English, American, French,
German—a cry universal.
Dying—and crying aloud
Out in the mire of the trenches . . .

Erich Maria Remarque's unforgettable book, "All Quiet on the Western Front" which presents a nineteen year old German boy's simply told story of what happens to the lads who go to war and find themselves in the front line trenches, has been made into an unforgettable picture.

In "Journey's End" you saw young men and old men get theirs—and that was pretty bad. But they were men, who, after all had known something of the sweetness and adventure of living before being called upon to make the great sacrifice. In "All Quiet on the Western Front" you witness the slaughter of the innocents. For when the men have been crunched by the iron jaws of war, ah, there is firm young flesh; fresh young blood in the schoolrooms . . .

That's where the picture starts—in a schoolroom—where a master exhorts his class of boys to forget their dreams and aims and plans and remember only that their kaiser needs them and that it is glorious to die for one's country. He will not ask them to enlist, BUT—O, how proud he will be if they do. And there shall be NO MORE LESSONS——!

Well—after they have gone—what then? This picture will show you everything that happens in dugout, trench, hospital, behind the lines and on the field of battle. Hard to watch? Terrible. We who stay at home feel the war very keenly—and still there is war. Perhaps, there wouldn't be any, if, as Louis Wolheim [Militiaman Kat] suggests, a field were hired and the kaisers and generals and certain other interested parties were turned into it to fight differences out among themselves.

Says George Summerville [Tjaden]: "Me and the kaiser are fighting this war—only I'm here and he isn't."

And Paul Baumer [Lewis Ayres], leader of the class of boys who enlisted, and the one who is telling the story, cries into the dead ears of the man he has stabbed: "Comrade, I did not want to kill you . . . I see you are a man just like me . . . why do they never tell us that you are just poor devils like us, that your mothers are just as anxious as ours and that we have the same fear of death, and the same dying and the same agony! Forgive me, comrade; how could you be my enemy? If we threw away the rifles and this uniform you could be my brother just like Kat and Albert . . .!"

A sniper gets this last one of those clear eyed boys who sat in the schoolroom that morning, as, forgetting caution, he creeps from his hiding place and reaches out a young, young hand to touch a butterfly that has brought down to the harrowed earth a spot of softness and beauty.

Too much cannot be said for the acting and direction of "All Quiet on the Western Front." It is almost impossible to believe that some of the battle scenes were staged, and that you are not, in truth, listening to the rounds that made the world hideous a few years ago.

A great picture! And I say of it as I said of "Journey's End"—"if all the world were to witness it, it just seems to me there couldn't be another war."

See you soon.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Question.

The Answers.

Miss Ruth Smith, 4009 Waveland avenue, typist — The new styles do make women look older, but how much older I don't know. We have to wear the longer dresses because they are in style, but I shorten mine a bit, just the same.

Dr. Alex W. Marmor, 2409 North Kedzie avenue, physician—The new styles make women look older and they are not generally flattering. The preceding styles, with the short skirts, were more graceful, more sanitary. Since making women look younger, those styles had the psychological effect of making them feel younger.

Miss Kathryn O'Brien, 6158 Grace street, clerk — I have the new dresses. I don't feel ten years older and I don't believe I look ten years older. I think they are more appropriate for evening wear, the shorter dresses better for business use.

Alfred Buchman, 3700 North Richmond street, bookkeeper—Possibly they do and perhaps not. Neither the dress nor the years make a woman. The woman must make a costume seem attractive. Some women are the more attractive in short dresses, others are not.

Mrs. Anna Joseph, 4936 Kedzie avenue, clerk — The new styles make women look older. I am wearing them because that's supposed to be the thing to do, but I like the short skirts much better, as neater, trimmer, more youthful.

To Spend $25,000,000.

Los Angeles, May 21.—(AP)—The 1930-'31 program of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, calling for fifty feature productions at an expenditure estimated at $25,000,000, was announced today. The program of pictures will include adaptations from 23 books of plays. Some of the pictures will be made in foreign languages.

NEGRO LONDON HAILS MIGHT BE GOTHAM'S PROPRIETY PROBLEM

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, May 21.—Paul Robeson, American Negro actor, when interviewed today, admitted he could not play "Othello" in New York as he now is doing here nightly, though it is understood Jed Harris is contemplating producing the play with Robeson in New York later.

In the present production Robeson and Peggy Ashcroft, a young English actress, cast as Desdemona, kiss each other several times.

"I was a little disturbed," Robeson said, "when I started rehearsals and rumors of objection came to my notice. I felt that in London trouble couldn't possibly arise on racial grounds. People here are too broad-minded for that.

"People who object to my kissing Miss Ashcroft must realize she is supposed to be my wife. I can say quite frankly I do not know how these kissing scenes would get along in New York. Difficulties are sure to crop up there. They certainly would not stand for kissing and the scene wherein I use Miss Ashcroft roughly in Amerika.

Chicago Girls Get Place in City's Future

Today Starts Their Fetes to Remind Elders.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

For a full week Chicago girls took a back seat in favor of their brothers. They heard boyhood glorified as the hope of tomorrow's civic life. Now the girls will have something to say.

Today will start the three day celebration honoring Chicago's girlhood. Leaders have pointed out that the boy alone cannot carry the responsibility of the next generation's attainments. The women of tomorrow must do their share. The recently organized Girls' Week federation, of which Miss Mary Livingston, principal of Horace Mann school, is president, is insisting that a valuation be placed on the girls' abilities and ambitions.

This afternoon and evening activities will be centered at the Health and Education exposition. A play, "The Mixing Bowl of Health," will be presented by Girl Reserves; Girl Scouts will present "The Clown Circus," and Miss Olga Menn and her Junior Friends of Art will give "Pandora Up-to-Date." The Pandora play deals with Chicago's smoke problem, showing smoke as the modern evil genius which spoils a happy world for children.

The Austin High School Girls' band, the only one in the city entirely composed of girls, will play, and the Life Saving Guards will give a play, "Death to the Fly." Girls of Northwestern university settlement and Chicago commons will give folk dances.

The John Marshall High School Girls' chorus will sing in the afternoon, and McKinley High School chorus will sing in the evening.

Tomorrow most of the events will be in the schools. Programs in which girls will take part and their activities will be demonstrated will be held in school assembly halls. Among them will be Englewood, Phillips, Kelwyn Junior high, Cregier Junior high, and the Austin schools.

The largest celebration will be on Saturday morning at the Chicago Woman's club on 11th street and Michigan avenue. About 700 delegates from the schools will attend the program given by that organization. Norwood Park school girls will present a flag and salute it. Mrs. Emile Levy will welcome the girl delegates on behalf of the woman's club. Addresses will also be given by Miss Rose A. LIFE 20 YRS. LONGER FOR AVERAGE MAN, METHODISTS SAY

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The average American today may look for 20 more years of life than the average 25 years ago. Statements to this effect were given yesterday in a report of the board of hospitals, homes and deaconess work of the Methodist Episcopal church. The board is meeting this week at the Congress hotel under the chairmanship of Bishop Charles L. Mead, Denver, Colo.

The increase in average length of life of Americans is due to the advance in medical and surgical sciences, together with improvement of hospital methods and equipment during the last quarter of a century. The Methodist Episcopal church now has 240 hospitals, homes and deaconess institutions, according to the report. These institutions have a total value exceeding $70,000,000.

Dr. A. J. Diekmann, superintendent of the Bethesda hospital, Cincinnati, O., spoke yesterday on the development of standardization of equipment and methods among hospitals yesterday afternoon. He stated that all but four of the Methodist hospitals are now up to the standards set by the American College of Surgeons.

Attention was paid to the high cost of hospital work and the criticism along that line directed at hospitals by various periodicals. Dr. Diekmann pointed to the report of the board, which states that about one-third of the patients coming to hospitals of the Methodist church pay their way, "while the hospitals incur the larger expense than two-thirds of the patients themselves pay."

A point in connection with hospital expense to the patients was made of the fact that ten years ago the average stay of the patient was 20 days. The average stay at present is but 12 days, Dr. Diekmann stated. Mortality rate in the hospitals is 2½ per cent. The present hospital population under the board of the Methodist Episcopal church is 250,000 annually, for whom $1,500,000 worth of renumerative work is done. The Methodist hospitals are manned by 7,000 salaried workers and 2,000 deaconesses, the report revealed.

Church Council Called Political Agent for International Finance

Washington, D. C., May 21.—(AP)—Renewing his charge that the Federal Council of Churches has violated the principal of separation of church and state by engaging in political affairs, Representative Tinkham [Rep., Mass.] said in a statement tonight that John D. Rockefeller Jr. has contributed about 10 per cent of the total income of the organization.

"It is well known," he said, "that the large international oil interests, international bankers and large international business interests are profoundly interested in having the United States change its foreign policy for their own purposes.

"Under these circumstances, the following facts should be of much interest: That this council receives only about one-fourth of its income from its church constituency, the remaining being received from 'other sources,' on its face a highly dangerous financial policy for the organized church participating in politics to pursue.

"Recent revelations show that John D. Rockefeller Jr. contributed $35,650 in 1926, $32,717 in 1927, $36,250 in 1928, and $32,500 in 1929, about 10 per cent of the total annual income from all sources, and about 35 to 45 per cent of the amounts received from contributors of $500 and over during those four years."

Representative Tinkham has assailed the council in testimony before the senate lobby committee. He asked that the lobby committee make an investigation. A representative of the council is expected to appear later.

Jane Addams Given Greek Military Medal for Social Service

Miss Jane Addams of Hull house has been decorated by the Greek government. That was revealed yesterday through George De Pesta, Greek consul general. She was awarded the gold medal of military merit in recognition of her "Phil-Hellenic spirit and the encouragement and consideration extended to the Greeks of Chicago for the last forty years."

"Miss Addams' name is in the heart of every Greek in the country, because in the earliest stages of Greek immigration Hull house was recognized as an oasis for immigrants, who were given the rudiments of education and taught the symbolization of Greek and American ideals," the consul general said. "Her generosity and hospitality to Greeks attracted wide attention not only in this country but also in Greece, particularly when she staged two ancient Greek plays at Hull house, 'The Return of Ulysses' and 'Ajax,' written by Sophocles, in the ancient Greek language."

Choral Singers of Senn High Set New Mark

Few Groups of Adults Equal It, Critic Says.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

It is not so many years ago that there was occasion to think uncharitably of the musical development, or lack thereof, displayed in the public schools of Chicago. That time is over, one hopes for good, and the opinion is being devised as rapidly as circumstances will permit. A few more performances like that of last night and it will be completely transformed.

Within a few weeks there has been occasion to hear the Senn High school band and the Crane High school orchestra, both topnotchers of their kind. Last night at Orchestra hall the Senn A Cappella chorus appeared under the direction of Noble Cain, and the program came near to being the most inspiring of all.

Four hundred and fifty girls and boys, clad in robes of scholastic cut, but most unscholastic brilliancy of hue, decorated the stage as it does not become decorated more than once a year. Four hundred and fifty voices were raised in song, and the song was nothing short of bewitching. Mr. Cain in his foreword said that they can do anything. I am inclined to believe him.

Imagine tone that spins out to the finest thread of gleaming sound, then expands to full volume and never loses its quality. Imagine English words compounded in their issuance from 450 throats, yet so clearly enunciated and on such exact rhythm that they are understandable in the rear row of Orchestra hall.

Imagine a program of the finest choral music, old and new, from an Elizabethan madrigal to the modern Russian liturgy of Gretchaninoff and Rachmaninoff, with a few American but somewhat glorified spirituals mixed in. Finally, imagine these songs being sung with the enthusiasm of youth which even on a hot night never lost its fervor, and you will have some slight idea of what is being done for the art of song in at least one of the Chicago high schools.

If there is a temptation to grow rhapsodic over the concert, the program and its performance justified the temptation. This is a case where there is no need to summon up tolerance for an ambitious attempt by young people. It stood on its own base considered by any standard that one desires to apply. In fact, if the adult choruses that appear here and there throughout a Chicago season could summon up one-half or one-quarter of the purity, beauty, accuracy, and general persuasiveness that these young people from Senn displayed last night, the whole matter of choral singing would be several times as popular as it is now.

A joint recital was given in Curtiss hall last night by Zelma Paduls, coloratura soprano, and Violette Allfree, dramatic soprano. The program consisted of duets and individual groups of solos. Charles Lurvey was the accompanist.

Ruth Svedburg, soprano, will be the soloist in a concert given by the Judson Bible class at the Swedish Baptist church of Englewood on Saturday evening.

The concert sponsored by the Brotherhood of the Saron Lutheran church, 2900 Shakespeare avenue, for today at 1:15 p. m., will feature Howard Preston, baritone, member of the Chicago Civic Opera company; Mildred Gerber, soprano, protégé of Madame Irene Pavlovska; Ebba Sundstrom, violinist, and conductor of the Woman's Symphony orchestra; and the Chicago Welsh Male choir under the direction of Daniel Protheroe.

"Siamese Cat" Strange Beast, But It's "Art"

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The thirty-sixth annual exhibition of oil paintings by members of the Palette and Chisel club has just opened in the club galleries at 1013 North Dearborn street. It is a good show and repays the casual visitor for the dangers and tribulations a crossing of Dearborn street now entails. For that thoroughfare is nothing but a mass of excavations, workmen, and attendant smells in the city's effort to lay new mains, pipes and whatnot and simultaneously repair an almost forgotten pavement.

There is a slight risk of an injustice being done to this exhibit. The Bonteaux prize always is one of the chief features of the yearly show. This year there is some danger that the prize will be split and that the jury in an overdevelopment of zeal will give it to a trick canvas by Stark Davis and a bedraggled melancholy picture of farmhouse and yard whose title escapes the memory, lost in a remembrance of its uninspiring brownness. Stark Davis calls his picture "Siamese Cat" and it is evidently one of those concoctions shot off with the tongue in the cheek. Give it an open mouth and it could be mistaken for a child's milk pitcher. The body is porcelain, the tail reinforced with wire, the head wicked, black with blue-green eyes cut through by malicious slits. The beast perches on the top of a yellow cushion that resembles a pumpkin. Possibly it is a pumpkin and resembles a cushion. At all events these two are not the outstanding paintings in the exhibit and when one remembers that the winning paintings remain the property of the club and must hang permanently on its walls [of course the coal cellar could be resorted to] it is uncomfortable to feel that they may be the jury's choice.

The portrait of Leo Marzola by Fred G. Gray is one of the outstanding paintings in the show. Maurice Greenberg's "Reverie" is another, a delightful and exquisite canvas. Othmar Hoffler has a third in his well composed "Mimi." Anthony Buchta has a fourth in "Dunes and Clouds," James Topping another in "With the Summer Breeze," Edward T. Grigware another in "After the Rain," Louis J. Kaep another in his "Still Life," and J. Jeffry Grant another in "Industry."

On the whole the exhibition is remarkably good. It will continue to June 16, and the several prize awards will be made and announced toward the end of the show.

Couturiers Exhibit Jeweled Decolletes

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—In their efforts to make wearable the richness and variety the new formal mode demands, the Paris couturiers have resorted to many ingenious devices. Paris elegantes are all dressing up after dark. One might more accurately call it "dressing down," for the décolleté is de rigueur at most all evening functions.

For the woman without a limousine, and in Paris there are many such, this is apt to complicate life. She cannot trust trailing yards of delicate chiffon to the comparative cleanliness of the taxi; yet she wishes to appear as well dressed as, if not better than, her neighbor. The Paris couturiers settle that question with the tailored evening frock of satin, lamé, or faille. And lest such frocks seem too severely simple, they add richness by jeweled girdles, jeweled accessories and, last, but most important, this season, jeweled décolletés.

This evening frock from Doeuillet-Doucet is a perfect model of the genre. It is tailored, yes! But of firmament blue triple georgette, and it is no easy matter to handle this soft material, as though it were taffeta. The skirt is shorter at the front and back and just escapes the floor at the sides.

In the back it is left free on each side from the high waistline to the shoulders, thus suggesting the absent décolleté. Jewel embroidery of large strasse motifs cut like diamonds forms a square corsage in the front echoing the square neckline. It extends over the shoulders into a little pointed collar. A strasse necklace with a three cornered pendant accompanies this frock, which is equally suitable for the formal home dinner, the dinner at the smart restaurant, and the opera or ball.

Buxom Curves Still Out of the Fashion Picture

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Latest news from a Ziegfeld front row is that girls must be 125 pounds for their 5 feet 6 inches—and BRUNETTE. That little item came out of Hollywood, where all that greets the eye is blonde—straw, peroxide, hennaed, or natural, but BLONDE. Proving, perhaps, that a whole community of blondes gives rise to a yen for a good brunette.

But about the weight clause in a Follies contract. It's a nice weight for 5 feet 6. The standard weight charts for girls of Follies age are from three to five and six pounds more generous. So, though Mr. Ziegfeld is reported as advocating curves, they're still the curves that don't protrude.

That means that we've got to be up and at 'em again if ours are of the protrudin' variety. There jest ain't no rest for the flesh, is there?

How about making your attack on flesh from a new angle? We are [or should be] getting wiser all the time about reducing. Some of us are fleshy from head to foot. This calls for dieting with some exercise, the latter not strenuous if the flesh weight is great. Some run to fat about the shoulders and arms, the rest being well proportioned. Now, this type could do better for herself with the sort of exercise prescribed for arm work only.

Large hips and thighs comprise another group that needs to investigate what exercise would be best for the individual case. Some run to large calves and ankles only, and while this is the hardest superfluous flesh to beat off, it can be done with especially prescribed leg movements.

Large double chins usually go with a large allover body. But sometimes there'll be a double chin without excess fat anywhere else. This chin can be lifted off with a few determined weeks of head movements. If you are in doubt as to what to do in an exercise way under any of the named plump circumstances, hustle along your stamped, addressed envelope, naming the fat locations, and I'll send

James Brown, Now in Palace, Dons Costume, Honors and Manners

EDINBURGH, Scotland, May 21.—(AP)—James Brown, the former miner who is now a member of parliament and lord high commissioner of the Church of Scotland, held a levee yesterday at Hollyrood palace, which will be his official residence for ten days.

Later he drove in a state procession to the opening of the general assembly of the church.

As lord high commissioner Mr. Brown is personal representative of King George at the church conference. The palace he occupies once was the home of the Stuart dynasty.

With the installation in the palace of Mr. and Mrs. Brown a marchioness is lady-in-waiting to a former mill girl and the heir to a dukedom is aide de camp to the former miner during the church assembly.

Mr. Brown's aide de camp is the marquis of Clydesdale, noted amateur boxer and heir of the duke of Hamilton. Mrs. Brown's lady-in-waiting is the marchioness of Ailsa. Among her four maids of honor is the Hon. Victoria Bruce, daughter of Lord Balfour of Burleigh.

"My wife was a mill girl when we were married," said the man who for this ten day assembly is known as his grace. "I started to work in the coal pits when I was 12.

"For forty years I've been superintendent of the Sunday school at home and the kirk has made me what I am.

"Just because a socialist and a tenant of a $50 a year miner's cottage has been given the office it does not mean that any of the old dignities or traditions will be departed from.

"I am going to show Scotland and England as well that a socialist and a miner can do things properly and maintain historic traditions.

"As a wee laddie I used to be taken over Holyrood castle and looked with awe at the ancient home of the Stuart kings, never dreaming that one day I'd go to live there."

Society Plans Parties for the Racing Season

BY THALIA

The opening of the race meeting at Washington Park next Monday promises to be an auspicious beginning for the Chicago racing season. The report that many prominent easterners are to bring their strings of horses here a little later when the season is in full swing indicates that the "sport of kings" is to be an even more fashionable diversion than last year, when it enjoyed a renaissance of interest and favor.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuyvesant Peabody are to have a party of 60 guests to luncheon before the races, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard F. Gillette are to entertain a group almost as large in the good looking clubhouse dining room. Other boxholders include Misses MacVeagh, Arthur Meekers, Clive Runnells, and Charles Knickerbocker. With the Gillettes will be Mr. and Mrs. Eugene V. R. Thayer, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph El Otis, Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Dunham, Mrs. Francis J. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. I. Newton Perry, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. Dawson, the Ernest R. Grahams, the Frederick T. Haskells, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Head, Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Foreman, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Glore, John E. May, John W. O'Leary, the Roy D. Keehns, Col. and Mrs. George Tayloe Langhorne, the Howard Ettings, the George A. Ranneys, and the Edward H. Bennetts.

Harry Payne Whitney, Mrs. Helen Hay Whitney, William Woodward, owner of Gallant Fox, John R. Macomber, Mrs. Henry C. Phipps, called the luckiest woman in racing with the possible exception of Mrs. John Knight; Walter J. Salmon, Mrs. Katherine Elkins Hitt, and Gifford A. Cochran are among the important race people who are expected to come west for the latter part of the Washington Park meet, and for events at Arlington in July.

Prince Amoradat Kridakara, Siamese minister to the United States, and formerly chief aid to the king of Siam, is to be the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan William MacChesney at their residence at 568 Hawthorne place from Saturday to next Thursday. Prince Amoradat was in Chicago in 1925, when he and the then Prince Prajatipok, who later became king, were guests of Mr. MacChesney, counsel general for Siam.

Prince Amoradat was educated in England, is a general in the Siamese army, and served with the allies in France during the world war. The program of entertainment that has been planned for him during his visit includes a luncheon at the Knollwood Country club on the day of his arrival; a dinner to be given by Col. and Mrs. Frederick A. Brown at their country place, the Larches, at Libertyville; a luncheon to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus McCormick Jr. at "Walden," the Lake Forest residence of Mr. McCormick's father, Cyrus Hall McCormick; a luncheon at the University club on Monday.

There also will be a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. MacChesney at their residence on Monday evening; a luncheon at which Dr. and Mrs. Ernst Freund are to be hosts on Tuesday at the Freund residence at 5730 Woodlawn avenue; and a dinner on Tuesday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dauchy of 525 Hawthorne place.

On Sunday afternoon Prince Amoradat will visit the country places of Lucius Teter, John O'Leary, Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keehn, and others, and will have tea with the MacChesneys at their Riverhill farm. He will be taken to see Northwestern university, the University of Chicago, Armour institute, the Field museum, Adler planetarium, Garfield park conservatory, the stockyards, the steel mills, and one or two financial institutions.

All of which would seem to be a pretty heavy program for the visitor.

The English Speaking Union will give a luncheon today at 12:15 o'clock in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer house. Edward Price Bell will speak on the London naval conference.

The committee for the June carnival to be held at the Potter Palmer place, as it will doubtless be known until it is level to the ground, are to meet for tea next Monday afternoon in the roof house on the Sherman hotel to discuss final plans for the affair.

Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman, who has been one of the most active workers for the Red, White and Blue club, that is to receive the proceeds from the carnival, will not be here when it takes place on June 6 and 7. Poor health in the last few years has made it necessary for her to relinquish her charitable activities. She is to leave on Monday for California, to be at the Biltmore in Santa Barbara for the summer.

The annual alumnae breakfast of the University School for Girls is to be held at the school on Saturday morning at 12:30 o'clock.

The Radcliffe club of Chicago is to hold its spring meeting on Saturday at the residence of Mrs. Walter T. Fisher in Hubbard Woods. Miss Harriet Leonard is president of the organization.

Mrs. Howard Van Doren Shaw of 2450 Lake View avenue; her daughter, Frances Theodora, and one of the latter's schoolmates are to sail on June 6 for a tour of Iceland, Scandinavia, and Russia. Sailing on the same vessel for the same tour will be Mr. and Mrs. Charles Boyden and Mrs. Clyde M. Carr. The itinerary of the trip includes a one day stay in Moscow, which is about as long as the travelers care to take a chance on conditions in Russia.

3 Publishers to Cut Prices for New Books

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

New York, May 21.—[Special.]—The great news of the booksellers' convention today certainly happened outside the convention. Today it was learned that some of the publishers, three houses, all young organizations, are to sell books for the price of a neighborhood table d'hôte.

New novels are being promised at a dollar and a dollar and a half. These are not to be reprints of popular fiction of a year past, or of best selling nonfiction of two years or so ago, but pristine fruits of the press. Whether the public will succumb, of course, remains to be seen.

What the booksellers will do about this also is a mystery, one which certainly will not be solved in this convention. For the assembled booksellers don't know anything about it; probably won't until Saturday morning, when they read the publishers' announcements. Booksellers who read THE TRIBUNE thus will have the drop on the world as far as this news is concerned.

The reading public has been complaining for years that new books cost too much.

The three firms in this new and revolutionary campaign are Coward-McCann, Simon & Schuster, and Farrar & Rinehart. They are publishers of such successes as "Coronet," Joan Lowell's and Trader Horn's sagas, "Young Man of Manhattan," and "The Door," all continuous best sellers. Their move certainly will influence the trend of the other publishers' actions, although no one else is at this time making an announcement of $1 novels. Doubleday, Doran & Co. probably will follow them soon, however.

Simon & Schuster and Farrar & Rinehart will publish all of their light fall fiction at $1. Farrar & Rinehart will reprint "Young Man of Manhattan" and "The Door," their two best sellers of the moment, and add to them all of the lighter manuscripts of the fall. Their books will be almost identical in appearance with the present $2 editions, bound in cloth. Simon & Schuster will publish theirs in a uniform size to fit a pocket in very heavy paper, not cloth. Coward-McCann will publish at $1.50 instead of $1, and in the exact style of their present $2 and $2.50 novels. And they will make an arrangement with booksellers so that all unsold copies will be returnable to the publishers for credit, which is the way that books are sold in France.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Parents at Fault.

"Dear Miss Blake: Is it fair for parents to make a girl of 16 keep company with a fellow when she does not want to? CHICKIE."

Parents should not ask or expect a daughter to go out with any boy she does not like.

Teens Mark Most Troublous Times for All Concerned

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Perhaps the phase during which parents and children have the most noticeably troublous times is that which begins at about 12 with girls and 13 with boys, and continues until they are about 18. During these adolescent years the individuality of the boy or girl becomes more noticeable again—as it did in the earliest years. And this, of course, shows itself in his social development.

Again we must make our statement about excepting the exceptions before we generalize. So, there are many children who go serenely through this time—many parents for whom family life flows as smoothly as before. Children below normal, highly gifted children, unusual circumstances of one sort or another are exceptions which may make a great difference in the social development of the boy or girl during this time, and so he cannot be included in the following general statements.

Observation and studies of thousands of girls and boys make it clear that in general certain things are to be expected—indeed are normal, during this adolescent time.

First, we can scarcely ignore the effect of the physical changes that take place because these changes are so great. With them a quite logical feeling of grownupness shows itself in many ways. And sometimes a psychological change, too, will come in as short a time as one month.

There is now a growing sense of independence, which we're all familiar with—and a consciousness of individuality. They may be even a recurrence of the little boy and girl showing off instinct during adolescence, though its manifestation may be different.

During the latter part of these years gangs and groups often attract boys and girls less. The Boy Scout and Girl Scout organizations have noticed this. And instead of hating to be different as in the earlier phase, they will often pride themselves on being unique in some way.

Also, none younger need apply as candidates for companionship, nor much older adults either, at this age. Hero worship often shows itself during this time, often for some one just a little older. And it is apt, too, to be the period of "crushes." That it is natural for some to be "boy crazy" and "girl crazy" at these ages goes without saying.

Boys and girls frequently become so self-absorbed at this time that it often makes them appear, perhaps we should say become, selfish and unsympathetic.

So, instead of worrying, we must acquaint ourselves with the normal phases of childhood—accept the cycles of growth. There are great minds among the psychologist-philosophers trying to determine in detail what a child is and what he needs at each stage of growth.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

Nearly every perennial or shrub brings particularly individual problems to home owners admittedly not in the professional gardening class. Yet these persons like to see their efforts bring results.

One of the most valuable bits of advice about early blooming spireas, such as spirea Vanhouttei, for instance, is to delay pruning until after the flower has gone. Ralph Curtis, professor of New York State College of Agriculture, offers this hint.

Failures with new varieties of irises, perennials in which flower fanciers have taken a renewed interest in the last ten years, are due largely to late planting, says James B. Hutchinson of the floriculture division of the University of Illinois college of agriculture. Many European shipments do not reach destinations in the United States until as late as September and October, he says, which leaves them with poor chances of surviving their first winter.

The best time to transplant iris is from two to six weeks after flowering. The plants at this time are growing and will establish themselves before fall. In midsummer, Mr. Hutchinson has found, the rhizomes carry three types of growth—that which bore the flowers which have just finished blooming, a matured growth a year younger, and a bud. The first is of no use and may be cut off. The mature growth is the one which will flower the spring after planting. The bud will form a growth which will flower the second season.

After digging, the plants should be split into pieces, each containing two or three shoots and buds. The leaves should be cut back about halfway to reduce loss of moisture and the long roots should be shortened.

Let 'Em Spend on You; They Like It, "Mildred's" Advice

BY DORIS BLAKE.

After experimenting both ways, Mildred concludes that a girl who expects nothing in return for her company stands an even chance of getting it.

Once upon a time, Mildred tells, she used to be so darned conscientious about an escort's pocketbook that she would suggest the street car when he hinted taxi; a movie when he said they ought to see a real show, downtown. After a trial of this sort of thing she discovered men wanted to save the street car fare on her, suggesting what a beautiful evening it was for walking. Movies were voted out for a park bench or a fireside chair because "movies were so stuffy."

"The men I know prefer the girl who wants expensive things. With her they take a delight in showing that they can spend. I'm not talking from inexperience. I know both rôles for a girl, the 'umble and the other, and I'm here to state that the 'umble gets you nothing. And I'm no hard boiled creature, either.

"I'd marry a man tomorrow if he didn't have a nickel. But I'd make him earn them and spend them for me just so he would better appreciate me. You can't laugh off that ego of the male which expresses itself most agreeably for him and the lady he is with when she permits him the pleasure of spending for her."

Though we may laud the nobility of character and its beautiful unselfishness, the fact remains that man enjoys the burden of providing, whether it is household rent or couvert charges. The high minded young woman who too carefully considers the pockets of her companions simply does not help inflate the male ego. Unconsciously she makes him feel he is not equal to the demands other girls put on other men.

Men may complain loudly, and do, about the high cost of entertaining women, but their protests are usually made with inflated chests and were they to vote on it, they would not vote to be rid of the affliction. As some wise woman of the world remarked: "The very considerate woman may form a friendship, but rarely gains a lover by her humble demands."

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Amateur or Summer Icing.

Sometimes the following little icing of sugar and a liquid is called a "simple day's icing," meaning that the cake which it tops must be eaten on the day the cakes are iced. Sift one cup of confectioners' sugar, wet it with a tablespoon or a little more of cream, add to it one teaspoon or perhaps two of pure corn sirup, beat until it is perfectly smooth, flavor with a few drops of vanilla.

We may, instead of using cream, use orange juice or something similar, about two tablespoons of the liquid to each cup of the confectioners' sugar. With this simple wetting up of the sugar even an amateur can quite nearly imitate expert icing. The sugar must be sifted and it is best always to add all the liquid part at a time. One way is to make a little cone of the sugar, hollow it out and put in the wet, leaving dry sugar all around until it is discovered whether another teaspoon of wet will be required. A single teaspoon of white corn sirup to a cup of sugar improves this icing a good deal, by giving it a certain tenacity. If there is an excess of the sirup the icing will have a certain toughness that is not agreeable.

It must be remembered that the half teaspoon of vanilla per cup of icing is itself wet and that fact must be taken into consideration. The whole must be mixed until it is as smooth as possible and until it flows readily yet is not so soft that it will run off the cake.

Cakes iced with this icing may have little garnishes or angelica or candied fruits or any of the little bits of sugar that make fine and lively garnishings.

This little icing can be used on cookies as well as little cakes and make them almost like a peice of candy. One who has tried to manipulate egg white and sugar beaten into what is called a royal icing, which can be piped and used in the highest of ornamental ways, will appreciate the task of making this simple icing. A cooked icing also requires expert care and work, although the highest of expertness is used in manipulating the royal icing which is edible for a much longer time than this simple summer icing. The royal icing is also much more of a protection to cakes, as it keeps them from drying out.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Making It Worse.

Recently I have been employed as an "extra" at a large store in the loop. Being an "extra" means being required to stand in line at 5:30 for my salary along with many other "extras." One night when at the end of the line I remarked, "It's a wonder Mr. M— (the man in charge of the "extras") wouldn't find a better way of paying us instead of making us wait in line for half an hour or so."

The girls all agreed with me and I made several similar remarks. Boldly the girls began to snicker. I looked back and saw Mr. M—.

He greeted me with a rather stern smile and said, "Well, Miss W—, even though you are prejudiced to my system of paying 'extras' I see you don't wait around for your pay. If at any time you get tired waiting come to my private office and you will not have to wait any longer, today or any day hereafter."

I was stunned and would have been thankful if the floor had swallowed me but I had to stay and face the music of being "called down" by the boss. The girls all enjoyed the entertainment at my expense." M. V.

SEE HOW delighted the children are when they have Kellogg's Rice Krispies. Watch them listen for the crackle as you pour on the milk or cream.

And this cereal so tempting is also wonderful for them. Nourishing, healthful rice. Toasted and crunchy. Wholesome and easy to digest. Fine for children's suppers.

There are many ways to serve Rice Krispies. Recipes on the package. Add fruits or honey for lunch. Sprinkle into soups. Butter and eat like pop corn. Make macaroons, candies.

Your grocer has Kellogg's Rice Krispies. Order a red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Served by hotels, restaurants, dining-cars.

People notice DIRTY PORCHES

Clean your porch with Gold Dust . . . . Far faster and cheaper to use than ordinary inefficient soaps

IT IS hard to keep that porch clean. But only because most women don't go about it right. They try to do the job with CHIPS or FLAKES or one of those GRITTY CLEANSERS that contain so little soap.

Use Gold Dust, that quick, safe soap that cleans things FASTER without the use of harmful grit.

Gold Dust contains more REAL SOAP. That's why it works with such MAGIC SPEED. That's why it takes so much of the backache out of scrubbing. Women who use GOLD DUST get their porches CLEAN and SPOTLESS in far less time. No one can ever say of them that their porches look CARELESS or SLOPPY. Gold Dust keeps them clean and free from dangerous germs.

Whenever there's heavy-duty cleaning to do . . . there's a job for Gold Dust. It's at your grocer's now, in two convenient sizes.

KITCHENETTE SIZE 5¢ and the Big Household size, even more economical
